QUAKE UNDER SEA CHURNS OCEAN

TREMORS DASH WAVES TO FURY AND MANY DEAD

Subterranean Shocks In Mid-Pacific Send Waters In Mad Rush Against Korea On the Asiatic Coast, and Rolls Them Up On America.

ASSERT UPHEAVAL WORSE THAN FEW MONTHS AGO

Heaviest Marine Disturbances Along Western Edge of U. S. Throw Giant Vessels From Course and Serious Crashes Threatened.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 14—Terrific subterranean shocks have shaken the waters of the Pacific from the Asiatic mainland to the Pacific coast of North America, during the last twenty-four hours.

Tidal waves and freak shocks were felt from the islands of Maui, Oahu and Hawaii in the Hawaiian group from San Pedro, Calif., and at the Golden Gate. Seismographs at Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., and Victoria B. C., were reported to have recorded earthquakes at points located in mid-Pacific.

Coupled with the disturbances of a few months ago, and reports to the geodetic survey that soundings showed changes were taking place in the elevation of the ocean's floor, tremendous interest was attached to these reports.

Heaviest About 9 O'clock.

Franklin Morse, of the geodetic survey at San Francisco, reported this afternoon that readings of the gauge here showed heavy tidal disturbances started at six p. m. yesterday and continued late today. They reached their greatest intensity at 9 p. m. Friday.

Radio reports from Honolulu told of tidal waves sweeping to a height of four feet on the island of Hawaii and lesser heighth, down to eight inches at Honolulu, beginning at 1:30 p. m. yesterday. The time of the Honolulu wave and that shown by the first disturbance registered in the tidal gauge here was approximately the same.

At San Pedro, Calif., an unusual rip tide threw vessels from their courses as they maneuvered in the harbor and for a time threatened to cause a general collision.

Cables from Japan said meager information told of a terrific tidal wave which swept the coast of Korea, resulting in heavy loss of life and property.

Worse Than Chilean Quake.

Records of the present disturbances here show it far more heavy than that which accompanied the Chilean earthquake of a few months

TAYLOR IS GIVEN HEAVY JUDGMENT

President of Nebraska Investment Company Awarded $25,000 Damages.

(Special to The Star.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14. —A jury in the federal court today awarded $25,000 damages to Newton L. Taylor of Lincoln, Neb., against the Walton Trust company of Kansas City and Butler, Mo. for allegid false arrest and prosecution.

The case has been on trial days. The jury concluded its deliberations last night and returned a sealed verdict which was opened tiday. Taylor charged false arrest and prosecution. He was arrested in August, 1915, in Kansas City and taken to Bates county for prosecution on the charge of forging a deed.

In the course of the Bates county trial the prosecutor told the jury that he felt that the evidence against Taylor was not sufficient to warrant a verdict of conviction. Taylor was acquitted. Later Taylor brought the suit in which the verdict was returned today. He asked $115.000 damages.

W. E. Walton and J. B. Walton are the principals in the trust company. Taylor is an owner of farm lands and a real estate deler. The jurya ward was for $15.000 actual damages and $10,000 punitive.

The city directory lists Newton L. Taylor as president of the Nebraska Investment company and his residence as Kansas City, Mo. The Nebraska Investment company has offices at 230 First National bank building.

American Woman Will Open Beauty Parlor In Paris

PARIS, April 14.—An ultra-luxurious beauty parlor is to be established in Paris by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

Prince Youssoupoff, participant in the slaying of the monk Rasputin is to act as manager, and he has employed Russian girl refugees of the upper class to act as manicurists and attaches.

Mrs. Vanderbilt revealed her plans upon her arrival today aboard the Olmypia.

Prominent Chicago Physician Stabs Well Known Financier

CHICAGO, April, 14.—Charles H. Castle, prominent Chicago banker was stabbed during a fight with Dr. Wm. H. Fuller, physician at the Chicago athletic club late today, according to police who were summoned by club attaches.

After Castle as stabbed in the cheek, Fuller was arrested. He was later released on bond.

Castle was reported by police to have said he would not prosecute. Dr. Fuller declared to police, they said, that Castle had been trying to force his attentions upon Mrs. Fuller, the physician's wife, and that she resented it.

Castle was until recently active in the affairs of the Bank of Montreal. He still is instrumental in giving advice to the bank.

HOME ACQUIRED BY NEW CLUB

Social Organization Takes a Five Year Lease On Entire Second Floor of Building at 1124 N Street.

TO BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY JUNE 1

Plans Call for Dining Accommodations for 200 and Rooms for Other Activities —May Use the Third Floor Later.

The University club signed a lease Saturday for permanent quarters in the building at 1124 N street formerly occupied by the Lincoln Fixture and Supply company. The contract signed with the Pauley Lumber company present owners of the building secures the entire second floor for five years. The quarters occupy a space of 50 by 142 feet and an alley running the the full length of the west side will admit light and air from three sides.

Extensive alterations and improvements in order to fit the space properly for the club will begin at once under the terms of the lease. Plans and specifications have been prepared by the club's architects Davis and Wilson which the owners of the building will follow in carrying out the proposed changes. These call for a large lounging room with fireplace a large main dining room a ladies dining room a ladies' parlor a private dining room reception hall library card room office dressing rooms and commodious kitchen space.

The three dining rooms adjoin each other and are separated by large accordion doors which on special occasions can be thrown open to give the effect of serving in one large dining room. More than 200 persons can be comfortably served at one time.

May Use Third Floor.

Mr. Pauley hopes to have alterations completed and the quarters ready for the club before June 1 the date when the lease begins. The plan contemplates new hardwood floors throughout enamel woodwork and a profusion of French doors and windows. It is understood that the club may later take over the third floor of the building also which will give them room for expansion and for adding a billiard room and other accommodations not possible in the contemplated quarters. The second floor has about twice as many square feet of space as the quarters of the old Lincolnshire club. As security for the performance of their lease the club Saturday deposited in escrow with a trust company $2700 in Liberty bonds.

Lynn Lloyd president of the club state Saturday that he thought the new quarters when finishd and furnished would fully measure up to the expectations of the members. There are now over 290 who have applied for membership. The membership committee will probably announce a list of charter members within a few days.

REVELATIONS TO SHOW BRUTALITY

(United Press.)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 14.—Sartling revelations of "callous brutalities practiced in Florida convict camps will be made to the state senate here Monday by Senator Ben H. Lindsay of Bonifay, he declared tonight.

Senator Lindsay said he would tell how prisoners in Florida convict camps were stripped and beaten so hard that the blows could be heard five hundred yards away, how they were forced to labor twelve hours a day under all kinds of conditions and of a man with a broken wrist being forced to work on a road gang.

Lindsay will read from the records in the case of C. L. Denmark, "boss" of convict camp number eleven, whom W. H. McRae, commissioner of agriculture sought unavailingly to have removed from office for cruelty he said.

This case will be used as an argument, Lindsay said to obtain passage of his resolution broadening the scope of the legislative investigation into the death of Martin Tabert of North Dakota to include all state road camps, as well as county prison camps.

The legislative committee probing into the death of Tabert in a prison camp over a year ago will resume its investigation Tuesday.

Claims Crown Prince "Queer"

LONDON, April 14—Former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany is suffering from a mild form of dementia according to a dispatch printed tonight by the Sunday Express from its correspondent at Wieringen.

Two Berlin alienists examined the exile at his island home and reported he suffered from mild and probable progressive dementia, th correspondent stated.

William's sudden interest in religious works and lengthy application to hymn books are used as discussion but when he conducted revivals with the servants for a congregation, the alienists were summoned the story stated.

COULD CUT LEVY WITHOUT INJURY TO THE SCHOOLS

Speaker Mathers Claims That Barbour Bill Is Reasonable Modification.

Reduces Maximum to 18 Mills With General Vote Necessary Over 12 Mills.

High tax levies for education in Nebraska could be materially cut down without injury to the schools, but on the contrary to their benefit, by applying common sense and business principles to their management, declares Speaker A N. Mathers of the house of representatives in a statement given out Saturday.

Mr. Mathers charges that an educational lobby is at work spreading misinformation as to the effect of a bill jointly introduced by Representatives Barbour North and himself, which the house has approved for passage, and which will require a vote of the people to authorize any tax levy in excess of 12 mills on the dollar.

At present, in city school districts outside of Lincoln and Omaha, school boards are permitted by law to impose a tax as high as 20 mills without submitting the question to the voters. The bill now before the legislature would reduce this limit to 12 mills, but an additional amount up to 6 mills could be levied by a three-fifths vote of the people, making 18 mills in all wherever that amount is necessary to run the schools.

In his statement regarding the bill Speaker Mathers says:

"The demand comes from all over the state to reduce local taxes. This cannot be done without reducing levies. The present maximum school levy is 20 mills for schools outside the metropolitan cities. There are hundreds and hundreds of high schools throughout Nebraska operating on levies ranging from 8 to 16 mills. There are fewer than ten high schools in Nebraska requiring more than 18 mills and, with possibly one or two exceptions, these schools declare they can operate on 18 mills.

"This new school bill, which originally was introduced making 12 mills the maximum has been increased up to and including 18 mills. If this bill becomes a law, 18 mills will be the maximum levy instead of the present levy of 20 mills.

GOVERNMENT MAY RETAIN ALL SHIPS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Anticipating the impossibility of selling the emergency fleet, the government is preparing to go into the shipping business on a gigantic scale, to end forever the menace of foreign competition and to put the American merchant marine on the seven seas. President Harding and Chairman A. D. Lasker, of the shipping board, tonight propounded our future maritime policy.

FRENCH EJECT MINE WORKERS

Berlin Reports Show That 9,000 Miners and Their Families Have Been Ousted From Their Homes In Ruhr Valley Since Occupation.

CLAIM IS MADE THAT 52 HAVE BEEN KILLED

France and Belgium In Conference Saturday Agree to Move In Unison to Make More Effective Work of Collecting Indemnity.

PARIS, April 14.—Louis Barthou, minister of justice and a commission of experts are drafting a plan for general settlement of the reparations problem, according to the Petite Journal.

The plan proides for guarantee of freedom from any future German invasion.

1,500 Thrown Out.

(International News Service.)

BERLIN, April 14.—Fifteen hundred striking coal miners in the Saar basin and their families have been evicted from company dwellings by the French, according to a dispatch printed by Hugo Stinnes' Deutache Algemeine Zeitung today.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, April 14.—In the French occupation of the Ruhr; fifty-two Germans have been killed.

During the three months period, 9,000 families have been evicted from their homes, it was stated by a government authority. Fines assessed totaled $2,000,000.

Move in Unison.

(United Press.)

PARIS, April 14.—France and Belgium moved in unison tonight to make more effective their occupation of the Ruhr district.

Reaffirming their pledges of loyalty, the two governments have decided to push for a hasty conclusion in their joint enterprise to collect war reparations from Germany. Following the meeting of Premier Theunis of Belgium and Premier Poincare of France, it was announced the following course had been determined upon:

1—Evacuation of occupied areas will be undertaken only commensurately as German meets her reparations obligations.

2—Goods will be seized to pay the cost of occupation and a special bureau will be created to collect fines and make seizures under the more drastic new arrangements.

The effect of these decisions will be felt immediately in the occupied region and it is expected that the new scheme will be in full operation by Monday.

In their decision the premiers likewise decided that no peace "feelers" will be entertained—nor will either withdraw from the region without first conferring with the other.

They included Britain in none of their plans and gave no indication that they would even listen to her counsel.

A system was worked out at the final session of the Franco-Belgian conference whereby the allies expect to export ten thousand tons of coal weekly from the occupied area.

WOULD COMPEL LINES TO MERGE

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 14—Compulsory consolidation of all American railroads into a few great systems will be urged in the sixth-eighth congress by Senator Albert B. Cummins, republican, of Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, it was learned tonight.

An amendment to this effect will be introduced by Senator Cummins when congress tackles the revision of the transportation act of 1920.

The consolidation would be patterned on the grouping now being considered by the interstate commerce commission under authority granted by the Esch-Cummins law, which provides for promulgation of plans for uniting various carriers into a limited number of systems. The plan being drawn by the commission is not binding upon the railroads, Cummins' amendment would compel acceptance of the consolidation finally determined by the commission.

Comment On Plan.

Particular significance was attached to Cummins' announcement in administration circles here. It is believed his amendment will be the administration's reply and counter attack to the so-called "ultra progressives" in congress who have severely condemned the country's railroad policy, and the failure to adjust wage differences and effect a reduction of freight rates.

Ever since the serious railroad situation of last spring and summer, Senator Cummins has been working on plans whereby the government most effectively could regulate railway troubles, reduce rates and harmonize labor disputes. Finally he has arrived at the conclusion that the most immediate expedient would be to cut down tremendous overhead burdens on carriers, rather than attempt now to slash wages, which he believes, possibly may have to be raised in the near future. This, he feels, can b done most expeditiously by eliminating waste of operation by consolidating railroads into a comparatively few systems.

Woman Overcome When Jury Frees Her of Slaying

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—"Am I free, really free?" questioned Mrs. Lillian Bross tonight after a jury in superior court had returned a vedict of "not guilty," exonerating her of the murder of her husband, George Bross, who she was alleged to have shot to death at San Pedro last December 16, when he pushed her from a thirty-foot embankment during a quarrel in which she pleaded for his love.

A close friend assured Mrs. Bross, who is on the verge of collapse, that it was the truth and not a dream and advised her not to discuss the matter. The jury of eight women and four men who heard the case late this afternoon returned a verdict favorable to the defendant after deliberating a little over two hours.

FRIGID BLASTS IN LAKES AREA

Snow Begins Falling at Noon and Increases Rapidly Until By Night Ground at Chicago Is Covered With Heavy White Blanket.

FORECASTER DECLARES MORE STORMS TO COME

High Wind Whips Flakes About So Fiercely That At Times They Become Blinding—Accompanied By Gusts of Rain and Sleet.

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, April 14.—Next winter got a good start this spring when the snow that began falling soon after noon today increased to almost Alpine intensity just before nightfall. It was general over the central lakes region.

All the statistics, the United States weather bureau could muster for the occasion pointed to a very, very severe summer.

"Doubtless this is the last snow of the winter—or, rather, the spring?" it was suggested mildly to the forecaster in charge.

"Oh, no, no, no, no," he said, deprecatingly. "It may snow quite a bit in April and even into May. However, it won't amount to anything because the temperatures will not be severe enough. A minimum of 32 degrees will be obtained tonight."

Driven By High Wind.

Despite his assurances, however, the snow fall late this afternoon did amount to something—considerable something. A sharp wind whipped it about so briskly that at times it was blinding Rain and occasionally a little sleet was churned up with it.

Traffic moved carefully if not unusually slow. Workers and expensively gowned women enticed onto Michigan boulevard by a benevolent warm forenoon sun, lowered their heads and shoulders against the wind, and trudged through the snow like not all unlike the Napoleonic picnicking party's retreat from Moscow.

The snow melted quickly as it fell, making the streets wet and slippery.

Dusk found it coming down enthusiastically, still insisting spring was not here, while the weather bureau insisted it was "nothing unusual."

Says Professional Auto Thieves May Be Working Here

Recent thefts of new sedan and coupe automobiles in Lincoln may indicate that professional auto thieves are operating in Lincoln, according to Captain Walter Anderson, of the police department.

In the past week four new sedans and coupes have been reported to the police department as stolen, and efforts on the part of the department and the other law enforcement agencies have so far been unavailable.

The work is similar, according to Captain Anderson, to that of a band of auto thieves who operated in Lincoln about eight months ago.

The automobiles may be left in Lincoln for a day or so, and then driven quietly out of the city, to be taken to some central point where they may be rebuilt or altered to prevent detection, and an organized gang does the work very efficiently Captain Walter Anderson said.

Five Lose Lives When Big Comber Sideswipes Boat

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 14. —(United Press) Five persons perished in the Atlantic ocean today when a gale struck the barge Stroudsburg, off Cape May, N. J., according to radio reports received by the martime exchange here.

The dead are, Captain Frank West, Sanford, Maine, his wife and three members of the crew. 6Unable to stop the water after the barge's seams opened, Captain West ordered the life boats lauiched. The six persons on the barge manned the small boat. With a tug only fifty feet away the rowboat was caught on a big comber and capsized.

SOLONS NEAR END OF GRIND

Present Legislature May Break All Records for Late Adjournment —"Sometime" in May Now Predicted.

APPROPRIATION BILL MAIN CAUSE OF DELAY

Not Through Lower Branch Yet and Must Still Run the Gauntlet in Senate—Fairly Certain Code to Remain.

It now begins to look as though the present session of the Nebraska legislature might break all records for length by running over into the month of May. Few of the old and experienced members have any hope now of reaching the windup within two weeks, which would take it up to April 28—the same date on which final adjournment took place in 1921.

The substitute general appropriation bill reported in by the finance committee of the house last Thursday, after the regular measure had failed of passage, will come up for third reading on Tuesday. There is no doubt about its passage, as it carries no items in excess of Governor Bryan's budget and there are enough reublican votes to put it through, a simple constitutional majority being all that is required.

When it reaches the senate Tuesday morning or afternoon, the bill will doubtless be read by title the first and second times, under suspension of the rules, and immediately referred to the finance committee there. That committee will probably devot sveral days—possibly a full week—to its consideration before reporting the bill back.

STEEL INDUSTRY BOOMING; OUTPUT RECORDS BROKEN

Domestic Consumers Demanding Almost Entire Product Of Mills.

Wages Increasing In Many Lines and Building Wave Underway.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, April 14.—The steel industry—the basic industry of America—is undergoing a boom. Pittsburgh reports the output is breaking all records. Steel makers are astounded at the capacity of the United States to absorb such tremendous quantities of fabricated metal as very little is being exported. The railways are taking the bulk of it.

The United States steel corporation reports its mills are working nearly at full capacity.

Wages are being increased in many lines of industry, including steel and iron and textile. Workers in the building trades are also getting wage increases.

The middle west reports an increase in building, in manufacturing and in the distribution of merchandise. The northwest also is sharing in the new era of prosperity. A building boom is under way and the railways tapping that quarter of the country are buying equipment in vast quantities.

Mercantile Buying Slower.

The buying movement of mercantile goods which has been unusually heavy since the first of the year, has begun to slacken. Dealers in some quarters have begun to fear another "buyers' strike" owing to continued higher prices.

The rate on money for call loans in New York this week ranged between 5½ and 4 per cent. Ninety day loans were made at 5½ per cent.

The average price of twenty representative industrial issues was 101.81 against 102.70 last week and 93.05 this week last year. The average price of twenty representative railway issues was 86.34 compared with 86.55 last week and 84.24 this week last year. New bonds issued this week totalled over $60,000,000.

Clearances Little Lower.

Bank clearances of the entire country this week were estimated at $7,549,523.010 against $8,618,479.255 last week and $6,984,557.684 this week last year.

Bradstreets reported 394 business failures this week compared with 355 the week before. Th most of them were in southern states.

Cotton Prospects Good.

The amount of the cotton crop brought into sight this week totalled 104,305 bales compared with 101.177 bales the week before. The total exports for the week were 58,383 against 81.507 bales the week before. The visible supply of American cotton is 2,084.546 compared with 2,209.063 bales last week.

Crop conditions in the west are undecided owing to the lateness of the season. Grain prices have advanced to a new high level for the season. Large foreign orders for wheat have been received. The department of agriculture forecasts a probable production of 572,317.000 buhels of wheat which would be about 14.000,000 bushels under last year. The visible supply of corn decreased 1,271.000 bushels this week.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14. —The weather outlook for the week beginning Monday, follows:

Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri Valleys: Generally fair weather with moderate temperature.

Nebraska: Fair Sunday and Monday; rising temperature.

WOMEN VOTERS FINISH MEETING

Plans for Year Outlined and Delegates Leave For Homes.

(United Press.)

DES MOINES Ia. April 14.—A program of activities for each of the state and local bodies of the national league of women voters was discussed at the post convention session of the executive council of the league at hotel Fort Des Moines tonight.

Dates are to be set for special application to the work of the department of education for a membership campaign according to details of the plan of work adopted by the convention proper. No meeting place for the 1924 convention will be selected until an examination of all of the cities which have extended invitations for the assembly.

The convention which adjourned today went formally on record as favoring the world court endorsed by President Harding and Secretary Hughes refused its sanction to the league of nations expressed appreciation of the new recognition of women in the diplomatic service and urged the states now operating minimum wage laws to continue enforcement of these laws pending action by the women of the nation to effect a return to federal control of this matter.

Delegates Desert City.

The exodus of convention visitors got under way and the majority had left the city tonight.

The convention re-elected Mrs. Katherine Ludington New York as treasurer and Miss Elizabeth Hauser Ohio as secretary. The following vice president were chosen: Miss Belle Sherwin Cleveland first; Mrs. Solon Jacobs Birmingham Ala. second; Miss Ruth Morgan New York third.

Mrs. Maude Wood Park Washington president of the national league is a holdover officer.

SUGAR PROBE IS ON IN NEW YORK

Hayward Ordered Into Game and Will Examine Books Of Exchange.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The mine who is responsible for recent government's machinery to determine who is responsible for recent increases in sugar prices was in motion tonight. Under orders from acting Attorney General Augustus Seymour, United States District Attorney Hayward at New York has directed as investigation of the books and records of the New York sugar exchange to find out who has been doing the big trading in sugar during the last three months.

Once the names of the big sugar, dealers are obtained, officials of the department of justice declare that the way would be cleared to proceed in the courts against those who they accuse of boosting sugar prices in the United States by manipulating the market.

District Attorney Hayward also has been ordered to investigate certain meetings alleged to have been held in New York, Boston, and other cities, between refiners and others identified with Wall street operations, when it is supposed the plot was laid to mulct the American people through the sugar price rise to higher levels.

OMAHAN FATALLY SHOT BY UNCLE

Tragedy Follows a Quarrel Over Alleged Attempt to Force Niece to Marry.

OMAHA, April 14.—Frank Bonnecci, 26, was shot and killed tonight by his uncle, V. P. Chiodo, wealthy apartment house owner, following a quarrel over an alleged attempt on the part of Bonnecci family to force Bonnecci's sister, Johanna, 17, to marry a man she did not love.

Chiodo, who surrendered, following the shooting said the girl came to his office this afternoon, bruised from a beating she had received from members of her family and told her story to him. He went to the Bonnecci home to plead for the girl and declared that Bonnecci tried to draw a revolver. Chiodo is held without bond pending investigation.

Rallies Following Serious Setback

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, dangerously near death this afternoon, rallied tonight and passed successfully through the crisis, his physicians announced.

HARDING COURT SCHEME CAUSES RIFT IN G. O. P.

Already There Is Talk of the Republican Irreconcilables Forming "Battalion of Death" Such as Hilled the League of Nations.

POLL REVEALS NINETEEN ARE AGAINST PROPOSAL

Antis May Join With Democrats If Fight Comes to Showdown In Senate When Next Session of Congress Opens, Reports Declare.

WASHINGTON, April 14—Dissatisfaction with the Harding-Hoover-Hughes world court proposal coming on the one hand from the old republican irreconcilables and on the other from the pro-league democratic followers of Woodrow Wilson has reached the stage where quiet polls are being conducted to ascertain whether the court can be beaten when, and if it comes to a showdown fight in the senate next autumn.

There is talk of the formation of a new "battalion of death," similar to those famous organizations that accomplished the defeat of the League of nations three years ago and more recnly the defeat of the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy bill.

Talk Is Under Cover.

Thus far the talk of rebellion and the polls has been mostly under cover. The calculations made are said privately by the irreconcilables to be "satisfactory." By those republican senators, admittedly on the defense regarding their own attitudes, the outlook is pronounced "gloomy" from the viewpoint of party harmony.

One republican senator whose attitude is yet undetermined and who has been making a diligent canvass of sentiment among his colleagues, said tonight there are now nineteen senators who could be counted upon to oppose the court project in its present form.

The first squadron of the opposition is composed of the old irreconcilables—Borah, of Idaho; Johnson of California; Brandegee, of Conneticut; LaFollette of Wisconsin; Norris of Nebraska; Moses of New Hampshire, republicans; and Reed of Missouri, and Shields of Tennessee, democrats.

Lodge Is Opposed.

Others listed as opposed to the court proposal are Lodge of Massachusetts; Watson of Indiana; McCormick of Illinois; Dillingham of Vermont; Brookhart of Iowa; Couzens, of Michigan; Gooding of Idaho, Howell of Nebraska; and Frazer of North Dakota, republicans; Walsh of Massachusetts; Wheeler of Montana, and Copeland of New York, democrats; and Shipstead of Minnesota, farmer-labor.

This makes more than a score opposed to the Harding-Hughes' plan at the outset. To defeat the court would require thirty-three.

Today a new element was injected by the pronounced disapproval of Woodrow Wilson, voiced in a letter to Representative Arthur B. Rouse, democrat, of Kentucky, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee.

Objects to "Conditional."

Mr. Wilson said he did not approve the "Conditional" entrance into the league court, as proposed by President Harding. He did not approve America's entering the League of nations with reservations, and by the same token he now disapproves of entering of the league court under the reservations prepared by Secretary Hughes.

The former president spoke for "unconditional" entrance into the court, though stating that "it would be more consistent with the fame of the United States for candor, and courage to become a member of the League of nations and share with other members the full responsibilities which its covenant involves."

Only a dozen senators of both parties would have to oin the opposing ranks to make the ratification of the protocol exceedingly dubious.

Start Movement To Stimulate Use American Wheat

CHICAGO, April 14.—A movement that will be national to encourage heavier consumption of wheat was put under way here tonight by the millers national federation.

Unless more wheat is consumed, it was announced, 2,000,000 American farmers will have 174,000,000 bushels of grain on their hands. Efforts will be made to encourage the eating of wheat cakes, fritters, flakes, pudding, certain soups, link sausages, omlettes, breads, and salads all made with wheat.

Corset Will Stage Come-Back In Fall, Authority Asserts

NEW YORK, April 14.— The corset is about to stage a comeback.

When thehotbreath of summer gives away to the cool days of fall, the corset will be back in its old place, according to Leon Baket, famous authority.

There is really no good reason for the renaissance of the corset, except that fashion wills it back. By fall, women will have a change of figure.

E. G. LIMPRECHT MADE SUPERVISOR

Diller Man In Charge of Industrial Arts Courses In Lincoln Schools.

Broad Trade Experience—Equipment For Shop Rooms to Be Purchased.

E. G. Limprecht of Diller, Neb., has been given a 12 months' contract as industrial arts supervisor of the Lincoln public schools. This election is to fill the vacancy left by C. E. Howell, who resigned last fall to accept a position of assistant superintendent of schools at New Bedford, Mass.

City school officials believe that Mr. Limprecht is well fitted for the position of supervisor, because he has had the experience of building courses of study for many branches of industrial arts and of organizing the courses. There is need for just that kind of man at this time for the opening of the new Whittier junior high school. Courses must be determined and equipment for the shop rooms purchased. Mr. Limprecht has had experience with Smith-Hughes work, has aided in reorganization of state courses, and has been director of night trade schools.

Mr. Limprecht is a graduate of the University of Colorado with one year of post-graduate work at the University of West Virginia. He has had trade experience in printing, electricity, machinery and with automobiles. For four years he has had supervisory and administrative experience in industrial education in public schools.

Mrs. Limprecht will remain at Diller with relatives until Mr. Limprecht has his work started and a home located. Mr. Limprecht has already assumed his duties. He is a member of the Christian church and has two sons.

Disabled Vets at Trade School Make Huge Ice Machine

A vertical ammonia compressor ice machine has been constructed by the men of the trade school at the machine tool laboratory of the University of Nebraska, and will be on exhibition during engineers' week at the university. Men who built the two ton ice machine are disabled veterans of the world war, taking vocational education under the veterans bureau.

The construction of the compressor was under th epersonal supervision of Dan Hempel, instructor, and C. A. Sjogren, in charge of the machine tool laboratory. According to Mr. Sjogren, the government equipment, bought some time ago by Professor W. L. DeBaufre at Lang Island, N. Y., is now being overhauled in the mechanical engineering laboratories.

Bible Study Exam Given By Y. M. C. A.

During the past week, which was "Bible study examination week," about one-hundred and thirty have taken the examinationsh, given in the Boy's division of the Y. M. C. A. The examination papers are sent to New York to be graded by the author of the course, and they will be returned in June. The Bible study discussion groups had an enrollment of three-hundred and seventy during the winter months and secretary Vessey says they expect one-hundred of the boys to be awarded the International Bible study diploma this year. There were varied courses for the boys, the Hi-Y and the employed boys studied "Life Problems of High School Boys"; the junior "Y" club and the junior employed club studied "The Travels of Paul"; the four square clubs of the grade A division have studied 'Athletes of the Bible"; the four square clubs of grade B division and the Saturday Evening club have studied "Men Who Dared."

Ag Students Hold Mass Meeting to Plan Celebration

Plans for the Farmers Fair of the agricultural college on May 5 were completed at a mass meeting held Thursday evening. Elton Lux outlined the program briefly for the benefit of those who had not attended previous meetings. Included in his talk were observations of the Missouri Farmers Fair, which he attended last week. Reports of progress were made by the chairmen of the various committees. Moving pictures of the 1921 Farmers Fair were shown.

All committees met to talk over their plans immediately following the meeting. The next mass meeting will be held in Ag. hall at 7:30 Thursday. Pictures of the 19922 celebration will be shown.

The University Y. M. C. A. employment bureau, in charge of William Alstadt, is receiving a large number of calls from Lincoln for men to do spring work, such as raking lawns, washing windows, and planting. The Lions club and the chamber of commerce is co-operating with the bureau in securing employment for university men.

Auto Club House About Completed

The new club house at the Lincoln Automobile club park at Saltillo will be completed the latter part of the week and will be ready for use, according to a report from the club headquarters. Many improvements are also being made on the grounds at this time.

The tourists' camp shelter house in Antelope park is being enlarged to house the tourists who will soon be coming through Lincoln.

MUNICIPAL BONDS

NEBRASKA is a great agricultural State. Its area of 77,529 square miles contains more than 116,000 farms with a total of more than 16,000,000 acres in cultivation. In proportion to population, Nebraska produces more surplus foodstuffs than any other state. Omaha is first in butter production, the third live stock market and fourth railroad center in the United States. There are more than 8,000 miles of railroad in Nebraska.

The obligations of the various municipalities in the State of Nebraska purchased and offered by us rank high among conservative Tax Free investments. In our experience we know of no instance where an investor has lost a dollar invested in Nebraska Municipal Bonds. Nebraska Municipal issues are free from all Federal Income Taxes and from Nebraska taxes. We own and offer the following:

Security	Rate %	Maturity	Yield
Falls City, Nebraska, Refunding	5	*1943	4.70%

Some Duties Your Executor Must Perform

Whoever carries out your wishes as expressed in your "last Will and testament" has a number of very important duties to perform. This may be an individual person or a Trust Company selected by you and named in your Will—called an Executor. Or, if you have failed to make this selecttion in your Will, it may be an individual person or Trust Company appointed by the County Court—called an Administrator with the Will annexed.

Prior to 1911 only an individual might act as such Executor or Administrator in Nebraska, but the Legislature that year passed an excellent law providing for the organization of Trust Companies. And that year our original Company (organized in 1898) was reorganized to comply in every way with the new law.

An Executor's duties begin with the death of the maker of the Will. He has ahead of him work which will require patience, tact, skill, and knowledge of the duties to be performed. In a general way these will be—

Present the Will for probate;
Receive from County Court, Letters Testamentary
Make an Inventory of the property;
Advertise for Claims to be presented;
Collects debts due the deceased;
Keep the Testator's business going until it can be wound up or sold to advantage;
Collect any partnership interest due Testator;
Look after any Corporation affairs in which Testator was a stockholder;
Pay the inheritance taxes due the United States;
Pay the inheritance taxes due the State of Nebraska;
Make distribution of the estate to the persons entitled thereto—after all assets have been collected and all debts of the estate paid;
Render account in full to the County Court and, after due notice to all interested persons, be discharged of his dutiees.

These are merely a skeleton outline of the duties the Executor of your Will, must perform. The complete history of settling any moderate-sized estate would fill a large book. The procedure is orderly and logical, and each step should be taken promptly at the proper time

Looking at the matter calmly in the light of all there is to do, does it seem quite right to place such a burden on your wife? Or on one of your friends who has a large amount of his own business to perform? A Trust Company makes a business of acting as Executor—has a department which does nothing else but look after such matters. It will have no favorites to reward and no enemies to punish in settling your estate, but will carry out your commands to the letter—if they are possible.

"If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save."

SO said Theodore Roosevelt, giving fine expression to a truth that wide experience taught him.

"Beginning to save" means opening the road to opportunity and financial independence. It means closing the door to adversity. Saving pays and pays in greater happiness and security.

NEBRASKANS TAKE PART IN PARLEYS

Many From Cornhusker State Participate In Women Voters' Convention.

Noted Speakers Heard and Important Issues Taken Under Consideration.

Big issues as well as important matters of organization have been before the League of Women Voters in national convention at Des Moines, Ia., this week. Among the speakers on the program are: Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulough, national chairman on uniform laws; Frederick Libby, secretary of the national council to prevent war; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the federal children's bureau, who has just returned from Europe where she was the United States representative to the advisory committee of the committee on prevention of traffic in women and children of the League of Nations; Mrs. Maud Wood Park, national president; Miss Julia Lathrop, first chief of the federal children's bureau; Mrs. Florence Kelley, head of the national consumers' league, Herbert Hoover; Lord Robert Cecil; Judge Florence E. Allen, associate justice of the supreme court of Ohio; Mabel H. Paige, member of the Minnesota legislature.

A session of the national executive council was held Monday morning and department meetings in the afternoon, Miss Mae Gund of Lincoln, state secretary and chairman of the committee on international co-operatio nto prevent war, attended the meeting at which Mr. Libby spoke. Reports were made by state chairmen who had conducted round table discussions on international co-operation.

Among other Nebraska delegates who attended department meetings of special interst to toem were: Mrs. J. E. Baird of Lincoln, district director, who attended the education committee's session; Mrs. C. L. Hall of Lincoln, who attended the session of the committee on living costs; Dr. Jennie Callfas of Omaha, state chairman of the committee on social hygiene, who attended the session of her committee at which Miss Grace Abbott was chief speaker; Miss Gladys J. Shamp of Omaha, state chairman of the committee on women and industry, and Miss Clara Smout of Grand Island, who attended the women and industry session; Mrs. George Abel of Lincoln, who heard Miss Grace Abbott at the child welfare session. Mrs. H. H. Wheeler of Lincoln, is an alternate representing the committee on education.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park presided at the opening meeting of the convention Tuesday morning. (Carl M. Garver, mayor of Des Moines, gave an address of welcome. The report of the nominating committee included the re-nomination of Mrs. C. H. Dietrich of Hastings. It was announced that $109,000 more than had been asked for in the 1922 budget had been raised.

Mrs. Ryan a Speaker.

Mrs. C. G. Ryan of Grand Island, Nebraska state president, spoke Wednesday afternoon on "The Relation of the State Organization to the National." Mrs. C. H. Dietrich spoke briefly on the relation of the state and the region.

Mrs. Park delivered her presidential address Tuesday evening at an informal reception at the Des Moines Woman's club. She presented her program of working to get at least 75 per cent of the eligible voters to vote at the next presidential election. Mrs. Dietrich prescided at this meeting.

Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany of New York presided over a discussion of "The Local League, the Ultimate Unit of Organization" Wednesday morning.

The Nebraska delegation attended in full the luncheon of the sixth region over which Mrs. Dietrich presided, Miss Ludington, national treasurer, told of the plans for a concerted financial campaign in May and June when all the states are to raise both national and state funds. Mrs. Ann Webster of New Mexico, reported on the recommendations of the national committee on plan of work for the coming year. A stirring address was made by Miss Ruth Morgan, chairman of the committee on international co-operation to prevent war. Following the luncheon the Nebraska delegation held a state caucus.

A mass meeting was held Wednesday evening on "The Responsibility of America for World Peace — How Shall It Be Met?" Herbert Hoover spoke on "A Permanent Court of Justice." Judge Florence E. Allen of Ohio was another speaker.

HASTINGS NOTES.

Dean E. Shaffer won the local Peace oratorical contest and will represent Hastings in the annual state Peace contest held this year at Wesleyan on Friday of this week. The subject of his oration is "The Soul of Civilization."

Miss Agnes Henigan, who will instruct the classes in penmanship in the coming sesion of summer school, is a graduate of the Palmer school of penmanship and all students who complete the work of the courses will receive the Palmer certificate. Miss Henigan is well known to Hastings people as a very successful supervisor.

Sanitary Fixtures

No home is modern without proper sanitary fixtures in the bathroom. Old-fashioned fixtures endanger health, are hard to keep clean, and always a source of embarrassment. We will install a complete, modern bathroom—with all the "trimmings"—at a surprisingly low cost, spread over a year by easy monthly payments.

A FAITHFUL ATTENDANT

John Mears and his faithful attendant, Rover, are well known in south Lincoln, where the one seldom steps forth without the other. Mr. Mears has had Rover since he was just a puppy, which was about eleven years ago, and he has taught him to jump through a hoop and to beg. Mr. Mears is a veteran railroad contractor and builder, and has been connected with the building of all B. and M. lines west of the Missouri river. He and Rover mawe their home at 1520 A street.

COTNER NOTES.

Miss Norma Clarke, professor of Spanish, spoke to the Wesleyan Spanish club at Nebraska Wesleyan university last Monday. Her topic was, "Mexico, Her Institutions and Her people." The lecture was delivered in the Spanish tongue.

Miss Lucile Ford, one of Cotner's graduates who has been in India for a number of years and now home on furlough, spoke in the College chapel last Wednesday morning. She told of the work the Cotner graduates are doing in India. There are eight of them in Central provence.

Joe Moore, '22, has been re-elected to the superintendency of the consolidated school at Jennings, Kas.

Cotner students in a body attended the revival meeting at the Christian church at Havelock Thursday night. C. A. Tucker is student pastor of the church.

Friday was "Clean-up Day" at Cotner. All students and faculty appeared on the campus at the base of the flag-pole at 8 a. m. and answered to roll call. Failure to respond was treated as an "unexcused" absence. President Cobbey was director of one division, and Professor Osterhout of the other. Record of the work was kept and graded accordingly. The buildings, including the dormitory, and the campus underwent a complete transformation. Dinner was served around the flag-pole. The afternoon was mainly given over to field sports. Moving pictures of the work were taken by Dr. Condra of the state university.

Miss Mildred Sanstead, '24, gave a music recital on Friday evening.

R. P. Smith, captain of Cotner's negative debating team and president of the local chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa, served as judge of debate at University Place last Monday afternoon.

Dean Duncan served as judge of debate at Havelock high school last Wednesday evening. The contest was between Havelock and University Place.

Dean Shellenberger was one of the judges of debate at Waverly last Thursday evening. Ashland supported the affirmative, Waverly the negative.

Harvey Coleman, '20, visited Cotner campus last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Blanche Fox has been elected to a position in the high school at Bever crossing.

Miss Etta Palmblade has accepted a position in the school near Axtell.

Dean Shellenberger spoke at Ashland last Sunday evening.

Doane College Notes

Doane college faculty and students pledged to the Greater Doane campaign Friday morning in a lengthened chapel period. The canvas was preceded by brief "stunts" produced by each of the four classes and by the faculty. Then came an address by A. H. Bissell, campaign director; and after this the pledges were collected.

Thursday evening the students, wearing college colors, paraded the streets. Costumes in orange and black used last week in "The Conflict," the health masque, were worn again in the parade with great effectiveness. The procession was headed by Harvey Johnston, as marshal, and lead by the college band.

The senior reception took place Friday evening at 8 p. m. in the Gaylord Hall parlor. A dramatic program was arranged for the evening under the direction of Prof. D. G. Burrage.

Representatives of Doane were warmly welcomed at a Doane college banquet at Plymouth church, Lincoln, Tuesday evening. Prof. A. G. Heyhoe spoke about the college, Prof. C. V. Kettering of the conservatory and Miss Mary Ellen Inglis of the expression department presented some readings.

The Doane ladies glee club will give its home concert on Friday, April 20, in Crete, using the same program which has proved successful on its tour.

University Saves Thousands of Dollars As Result of New Centralization Plans

Reorganization and centralization of the purchasing and operating departments of the University of Nebraska have resulted in economy and efficiency, placing the maintenance and upkeep of the institution on a business basis and making possible a complete check on every department.

Every department of the university is provided with a budget from the general appropriation and all services rendered and supplies furnished are debited against the department on a ledger. This prevents any department exceeding its quota of the funds. All requisitions for supplies are handled through the purchasing department, and if deemed necessary are filled. The several stores provided on both campuses promptly supply the departments with general supplies purchased at a saving in wholesale quantities.

Purchasing agents of the middle-western universities buy many of their supplies collectively. This enables additional savings. For example, following this arrangement the university secured alcohol at 25 cents a gallon for which it had been paying 60 cents. This plan is being carried out in the case of many of the common articles bought by all the universities.

By consolidating the purchases of the various departments, the University became a large buyer and secured the advantages of being able to buy at wholesale. One of the largest purchases made annually by the university is coal for heat, light and power. According to L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent and purchasing agent, the university uses annually 10,000 tons of coal. Of this 6,000 tons are used at the city campus and 4,000 at the Agricultural college campus. By using the exhaust steam from the engines generating electricity and by other changes made in the plant, a saving in heating of about 2,000 tons of coal has resulted.

Cafeterias at Cost.

The cafeterias operated at cost on both campuses come under the operating department. During the nine months of the college year about 315,000 meals are served. At the Temple cafeteria an average price of 24 cents is paid for each meal; at the Agricultural college cafeteria, 30 cents.

The work of the department is divided into four main divisions. The stores which purchase supplies in large quantities that are parceled out in smaller quantities make up one part of the system. Architectural planning, decorating, landscape gardening and care of lawns, and alloting of rooms are the duties of another branch. Supervising the job system of the various trades for construction and repairing, heating, and operating the ice plant at the farm comprise the duties of another division. Operating the cafeterias and the dormitories are the duties of a fourth.

The university also organized a transportation system which is found to operate more efficiently and satisfactorily than under the former method of employing outside delivery service. It has greatly enhanced the certainty of prompt delivery. This department also operates the book stores which sells books to students at cost. The annual loss previously sustained by this branch has been wiped out by more conservative buying of text books.

TO DEMONSTRATE NEW VOTING PLAN

Walter J. Millard Will Address Knife and Fork Club Thursday.

Is Well Known Expert On Proportional Representation System.

A "snappy" voting demonstration to show just how persons vote under a system of proportional representation, will be conducted by Walter J. Millard, specialist in proportional representation, New York City, at a regular dinner of the Knife and Fork club, Thursday evening at the chamber of commerce. Mr. Millard has been secured to give club members and their guests a short talk on representative government and proportional representation, to be followd by an actual voting demonstration, Secretary A. J. Dunlap has announced.

A number of candidates for mayor of the city will be nominated and Mr. Millard will instruct members as to just how to vote so that all votes will be couned in the final result. There will be no disgruntled minority, he states. Even the defeated candidates will have no causes for grief or resentment. All will get a square deal, according to the demonstration, Mr. Dunlap said;

"Local statesmen and politicians and representative men and women of the city who are interested in ballot reform and in safeguarding democratic methods of electing officials will be interested in this practical demonstration. Lincoln has always heard a great deal of talk bout ballot reform, but here will be one of the first and easily one of the cleverest and most interesting actual demonstrations ever carried on in the city.

"The fact that Mr. Millard is a trained newspaper reporter, an eloquent speaker, and a world authority on proportional representation will interest citizens greatly in the character and nature of the demonstration. It has been hinted that all candidates for city office and even the statesmen at the capitol will be greatly interested in a form of ballot which does away with disgruntled minorities."

Lincoln Banks Have Unique Safety Devices For Persons Accidentally Locked in Vaults

It was "going home time' in Patterson, N. J., bank. The employes were closing ledgers, punching final columns on adding machines, and hooding typewriters. No one was paying undue attention to the feverish activities of his co-workers.

One of the men employes entered the vault to put away his ledger. The practical joker, in the person of another employe, was standing near. He unlocked the vault door, pushed it closed, and gave the knob a half twist.

Inside was the other man, with the time lock set on the heavy door and with air to last three, four, or possibly five hours. The time lock would not automatically open the door for twelve or fourteen hours. He was a prisoner—with Death his only companion.

Fortunately, other employes were in the bank to observe his plight. That, and the skill of mechanicians, saved his life, but only after hours of labor and intense mental suffering on his part.

What had it been an accident? What if the door had not been locked and it had closed behind him? What if he had worked in a Lincoln bank, instead of in a Patterson institution? What would have been the outcome?

Dozens of people reading that story in the papers, shuddered and felt the mental stress of that bank clerk, when a ten or fifteen ton door closed almost irrevocably behind him. Wonder was succeeded by conjecture—would a man shut in the vault of the home town bank be as helpless as that man, or even more so? Were there no safety devices to prevent such a catastrophe?

Safety First Policy.

The problem of safety devices to prevent employes or patrons being locked in a vault or to release them in case they are has engaged the banking profession for some time. Rather clever means of escape have been installed in some of the large eastern banks, whose spacious vaults extend far underneath the sidewalks, but until recently little notice of "safety first" has been taken in the smaller banks. The experience of the unfortunate bank clerk may sound the tocsin of warning to the country's lesser institutions.

here is a total absence of any mechanical device in Lincoln's banks to help the needy one locked in a vault, although the new building and vaults of the National Bank of ommerce are to be equipped with the very newest and most modern safety devices. In the majority of cases, such help would be unnecessary, for the vaults are of such size and so constructed that no one could possibly be concealed in one.

There is the thousandth case—though. Caught behind the time locked door or even behind the heavily bolted door—one would be absolutely helpless, alone in the bank.

Few of the banks lock their vaults with time locks, which is the saving grace, for little short of dynamite can help the man behind the time locked door. One of the larger banks here uses a time lock, and no way of communication with the outside world has been arranged, but in more cases, only the money safe is honored with that particular lock. This safe is located within the vault and is of such dimensions that a human being could not conceal himself in it, even though his greatest desire is to be locked in the vault.

At the Nebraska State, the Lincoln State National, the Continental State banks, and the National Bank of Commerce, absent minded employes are guarded against a night in the safe by a few simple tools.

Handy Kit of Tools.

Concealed somewhere in the vault are a hammer, pliers, and a screwdriver, so that if anyone is shut in the vault, he can pick the lock and escape neatly. At the Nebraska State and the Lincoln State National banks, instruction is given the employes in the proper manner of playing Houdini. The former banks considers that an expert in the lock picking art can free himself in ten or fifteen minutes, or, if less inclined in burglarous pursuits, twenty-five to forty minutes will be necessary. Of course, time locks are not in order on these valuts.

At the National Bank of Commerce, the locked-in employe would be safe for an extraordinary length of time, as there is an opening for air in that vault. It is only a pin point in size—from the exterior it can not even be detected—but light shining in from the outside to the dark interior would show its location. The covering can easily be torn from it once it is detected, if the person retained sufficient mental balance to look for it. Once open, not only does it afford air, but he could have a little conversation with the night watchman concerning his release.

As is true in nearly all of the banks, the locks of the heavy door on the vault of the First Trust company are thrown during the day thereby preventing the door from being accidently closed or a hold-up man from marching the employes into the vault and closing the door. It would be too long a process to attempt to unlock the door, with possible interruption from the outside.

Check on Vault Closing.

This bright and shining vault has no mechanical apparatus to assist any unfortunate victim to escape, but the person is protected by a device installed for another purpose. Each evening, when the vault is finally closed, the fact is registered at the Western Union Telegraph company. If for any reason, the device announceing this fact does not work or works too well. Western Union immediately investigates the cause. If the investigator finds anything peculiar about the bank, he notifies a bank official and he remains on the premises until that official explains the cause of the trouble, often an employe working overtime. His word, however, is never accepted, only that of the official.

That would seldom be of use as a life saving device, however, for one might be safely secured inside—and no Western Union official be warned by an unclosed door. It is another little thing that would be of service if the huge and intricate door swung to.

In the ceiling of the vault is a bit of mechanism resembling an overgrown telephone receiver, although more highly sensitized, from which wires extend to the Western Union office. So active are the little metal particles bobbing around in this receiver and so highly charged are they that they carry almost the slightest sound. A pencil rapping sharply on the exterior of the vault door when closed carries to the office, tampering carefully with the deposit boxes sounds alarmingly loud at the other end of the receiver wires.

In this device lies safety. The slightest movement of anyone in the vault is carried to the Western Union office when the vault is closed, and someone from there comes at top speed to seek the trouble. Anyone trapped in the safe would be found in the shortest space of time. When discovered, he could be instructed on the manner of turning off the time clocks on the door, and, in the presence of an official, release could be effected.

Door for Emergency.

If he is unable to adjust the clocks, and to a person in a perturbed state of mind the matter is not simple, he could be released through the emergency door, which the First Trust company alone posses in this city. The emergency door was not placed in the vault, primarily, for a safety device, though, but as a means of entrance in case the timer does not work and it is necessary to obtain the money and bonds inside.

Some the larger eastern banks have a perfect drill, by which certain employes search the vaults before closing each night. In Lincoln, that is an unnecessary caution, however, for none is constructed with several corridors or on two or three floors in a single vault. The Continental State bank and the First Trust company do use the mirror device, by which the interior can be seen at a single glance from a person standing at the door. The former bank has one vault which is searched each night by a minor employe, because it has been constructed with a number of angles, but that search is a comparatively simple matter.

Spring Work Awaits Many Uni. Students

Camp Manager Vessey recently made a trip to Crete and found the camp in excellent condition. Jim Shaw, caretaaker of the camp, has worked throughout the winter improving the grounds. The large war canoes have all been repainted and will be in excellent shape. The completion of the new building last fall, the lodge, will add greatly to the attractiveness of the camp.

An attractive folder has been prepare dand is now in the printer's hands. Owing to the fact that a number of boys could not be accommodated last year, it will be the policy of the committee this year to limit the attendance to one section and to accept the applications in the order that they are received. Boys may register at any time at the Y. M. C. A., boys' division.

Post Mortem On Uni. Debate to Be Held Monday

The annual "post mortem"—review of the University of Nebdaska's intercollegiate debates, to be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in University hall 106, will be open to the university public. Prof. G. O. Virtue of the economics department, Prof. G. N. Foster of the college of law; and Prof M. M. Fogg and Prof. Orin Stepanek of the English department will critically revie wthe Nebraska-Iowa debate last Thursday evening, and the members of the team that met South Dakota will report on that contest

Winners for this class were Edward Bignell and Richard Brown. Class A winners—fourth grade, Everett Stuermer and Harold Wagner; fifth grade, Carl Enn and Clarence Lagoni; sixth grade, B. Kennedy and Lester Rumbaugh. The winners for this class were Carl Erb and Clarence Lagoni. The contest between the class inners resulted in the honor of Building Winner, which was carried off by the third grade players Richard Brown and Edward Bignell.

Camp Strader at Crete Will Open Early This Year

Plans for the opening of the Lincoln Y. M. C. A camp Strader at Crete are now under way and the camp will open earlier than usual. The first section will be for Hi-Y boys in order to give the boys a chance to go camp before they go to work. This will be immediately following the close of school making it possible to work in one extra session. Last year there were a number of the boys who could not go because of the crowded condition.

Should Your Will Be Revised?
ONE of the very large estates left in recent years is now in the hands of a committee acting for a beneficiary who is incompetent.
A will had been drawn many years prior to the maker's death. It provided that all his property should go to one beneficiary. That will was never changed, and after it was made the wealth of the manufacturer increased enormously. This wealth is now tied up for the benefit of one person, whose needs absorb only a fraction of the income from the estate.
Your will should be changed to suit changing condition in circumstances and obligations. Should your will require revision, attend to it now.
By bringing your will up to date, you can name this Company as your executor and trustee, if you have not already done so. The advantages of doing so are outlined in a booklet entitled "Safeguarding Your Family's Future," which we shall be pleased to supply on request.

College View to Be Represented at Educational Convention.

Many Leaders of Church to Attend Colorado Springs Conference.

Union College, the seventh-day Adventist school at College View, and the Central Union Conference, which also has its headquarters in College View, will send large delegations to the educational conventtion of the denomination which will be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., June 5 to 19.

Prof. O. M. John, president of the college, and Elder S. E. Wight, president of the Union conference, will head these delegations. The presidents of all the local conferences in the states of Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado and Missouri, which comprise the Union, will be included, and also Bible teachers from the educational institutions in these states.

This convention will be the largest and most important ever held by the church. Questions affecting the fundamental teachings of the denomination in all their colleges and academies, will be considered. The Adventists believe in the inspiration of the Bible, and during this convention much will be said toward teaching the Biblical ideals upon which the denomination was founded, and which prompted the establishment of the colleges and academies now in operation. There are more than 30,000 students in these educational institutions, and the aim of the denomination is to hold them to the great fundamentals of the Bible as the inspired word of God.

Disapprove of False Science.

The Adventists disapprove of the evolutionary theory and the teaching of false science, and many papers will be read and discussed on the educational theories that are being taught throughout the world that are in direct opposition to the views held by the Adventists.

Not only will the leading educators throughout the denomination attend, but union and local conference presidents from all over North America will be in attendance. Every state in the union and every province in Canada will be represented.

The convention will be held in beautiful Stratton park, at Broadmoor, one of the suburban sections of Colorado Springs, and an encampment will be pitched, by the Colorado conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, for the accommodation of the defegates. The encampment will be pitched under the direction of B. B. Van Kirk, of the Colorado conference.

An elaborate program is now being arranged by the educational department of the World's general conference Prof. W. E. Howell, educational secretary, is no hastening back to America after a year's tour of portions of Africa, Asia and Australia, to be the chairman of the comina convention. Prof. C. W. Irwin, associate secretary, will share the responsibilities of the chairmanship.

Others coming from the world's headquarters in Washington, D. C., are, Elders A. G. Daniells, secretary of the world's general conference; C. H. Watson, O. Montgomery, and B. E. Androos, vice presidents; C. K Meyers, associate secretary; Dr. A. W. Truman, medical secretary; C. S. Longacre, religious liberty secretary; W. W. Eastman, publishing secretary, F. M. Wilcox, editor of the Review and Herald, the denominational organ; J. A. Stevens, home missionary secretary; Prof. M. E Cady, assistant educational secretary; P. Is. Broderson, of the bureau of home missions; G. B. Thompson, field secretary; Prof. C. C. Lewis, president of the fireside correspondence school, and Miss Kathryn Jensen, director of nurses.

Capitol School Pupils Clean Up Waste On Ground

The pupils of the Capitol school had their annual clean-up campaign on the school grounds last Wednesday, in observance of the city clean-up week. Leaders were appointed from each grade to see that no papers were left around the grounds, and the grass in the parking space was raked. The work was directed by the officers of the boys' and girls' Civic League clubs, and the chairmen of the various school committees. The names of the officers are as follows: Josephine Orr, president of the girls Civic League; Faye Ward, vice president; Frances Beery, secretary; Harriet Newans, chairman of the outdoor committee; Edna Reed, chairman of the indoor committee; Robert Sutter, president of the Boys' Civic League club; Arlo Hill, vice president; Donald Smith, secretary; Bernard Tomsky, chairman of the outdoor committee; and Frank Roehl, chairman of the indoor committee.

COLLECT WOLF BOUNTIES.

(Special to the Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., April 14.—Dick Smith, afarmer living near Liberty, trailed a large gray wolf with his two hounds near his farm, and caught and killed it. Six young ones nearby were caught and killed, and the seven pelts brought to this city where he collected 21 bounty. On the same day, Lew Hunnzeker, a farmer living living east of here, caught a coyote and seven young ones, netting him $24 bounty.

Rich Lovers Steal Away and Enjoy Life Like Common Folk

Major Max Oser and Miss Mathilde McCormick

LONDON, April 14—A middle class romance preceded the marriage of the young millionairess, Mathilde McCormick, to Max Oser, Swiss riding master it was learned here today.

Hidden incognitto in a little London flat, the 18-year-old Mathilde went to movies with Max, and led the life of a happy girl, free from the cares of the wealthy. They dined at small restaurants and went to the modest theaters.

Away from the life of luxury and their friends of society the two played until Thursday, when they were married. They then left for Scotland on their honeymoon.

These facts were ascertained when the landlady at the home where Max stopped was discovered today. She likes Max.

"He is such a fine man," she said. "I had no idea of his identity."

The landlady, Mrs. Martin, declared he used to go out early every morning and never come back until late at night.

The children who played in the street knew him, she said

Max and Matilde were forced to be careful because some one nearly recognized Mathilde when she first came to London and stopped at the fashionable Hotel Metropole. She was approached by an American there who asked if she was not Miss McCormick

"You must have made a mistake," Mathilde said laughingly.

As soon as she could, she left the hotel. But fearing that somo one might recognize her, she finally went to the modest flat which a girl friend already had engaged under her own name.

SPANISH VETS TO CELEBRATE

Will Hold Exercises April 28 On Anniversary of War Declaration.

Plans Underway For Erection of Memorial Shaft in Antelope Park.

William Lewis camp, United Spanish War Veterans, and ladies' auxiliary, will celebrate the tweney-fifth anniversary of the call to arms in 1898 on Saturday evening, April 28, in Walsh hall, 155 South Twelfth street. This will be the first meeting of the camp and auxilary in their new quarters and a large number of soldiers who served in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the Chinese relief expedition, will be mustered into membership of the united order on this occasion. The ladies will hold open house in their new quarters while the veterans are being mustered, and after the formal exercises light refreshments will be served in the dining room on the third floor.

The Spanish war veterans at Lincoln have undertaken the erection of a memorial shaft in Antelope park, and materials of historic value are now being assembled for the construction of the shaft. A place in the park has been tentatively agreed upon near the O street entrance, and orders have been placed with the war and navy department at Washington to be used in the erection of the memorial. Eighty cannon balls from the governmental arsenal now being shipped to Lincoln for building of pyramids about the shaft on which a beautiful tablet cast from metals recovered from the battleship Maine will be mounted, according to the plans in possession of state historian O. W. Meier, and additional metals recovered from battleships in the service during the Spanish war have been awarded to the Lincoln camp of Spanish war veterans according to a letter just received from Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., acting secretary of the navy, and an order has now been placed with the department for stone from the old state house at Lincoln on which to mount the memorial tablets upon the shaft to be erected in Antelope park.

The officers of the Spanish war veteran camp at Lincoln in charge of the memorial are Jacob H. North, commander; August B. Woelihaf, adjutant, and Fritz Westerman, quartermaster.

National Officer Will Attend Meet Here Next Month

Mrs. Eva French, the national president of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic will arrive in Lincoln, May 1, to attend the department convention which will be held May 1, 2 and 3, at the St. Paul M. E. church. Gen. Custer circle No. 26 is making plans for a banquet to be given for the national president, department officers, past department officers and delegates.

CLEAR DECKS FOR ACTION IN SENATE

Big Appropriations Measure to Get Immediate Attention When It Arrives.

Smith Confirmation, School Reorganization and Medical Liberty Bills Up This Week.

When the senate convenes Monday afternoon, the decks will be cleared for immediate consideration of the appropriations. Only about a dozen bills remain on general file.

Among them is S. F. 221, the medical liberty bill, and H. R. 638, which would allow the university to pay interest on capital invested in donated property, aimed especially at building up a dormitory system.

Action on Bryan Appointment.

Admittedly the most important measure from a political standpoint on the schedule is senate action on confirmation of W. H. Smith to succeed W. H. Osborne as tax commissioner.

The special committee supposed to be investigating Mr. Smith's fitness for the job, will probably report Monday. It is composed of Reed and Wilkins, republicans and Purcell, dem-ocrat.

School Bill Coming Back.

The Reed-Rickard-Smrha school reorganization bill again revised and with most of the radical feature liminated will come up early in the week. The senate will also make a determined effort to get rid of the chiropractic bill, now ready for final passage.

No Report on Capitol.

The report of the joint legislative committee investigating the capitol building is not expected before the middle or latter part of the week. All of the testimony has not yet been placed in typewritten form.

Predictions as to the final date of adjournment are now pretty well limited—sometime between April 24 and May 4. The appropriationss bill is, as usual, the main reason for delay.

DAIRYMEN ADOPT POOLING SCHEME

Farm Bureau Committee Recommends Central Cooperative Sales Agencies.

J. H. Frandsen, Lincoln, Member of Body That Will Start Organization.

Representatives of copperative dairy marketing associations in Minnesota, Iowa Wisconsin Illinois Indiana and Ohio met in Chicago April 9 and adopted the plan of the committee of nine to establish a central cooperative sales agency for merchandising dairy products. The committee of nine was enlarged to a committee of Twelve and was empowered to act as the organization committee in creating the new national sales agency. The American Farm Bureau federation was requested to assign E. B. Heaton, director of the dairy division of its department of co-operative marketing, to the task of directing the organization work. Mr. Heaton has served as secretary of the committee.

The committee of twelve is as follows:

Chairman, J. T. Williams president Milk Producers Marketing company Chicago, Illinois.

Secretary, E. B. Heaton, director of dairy marketing, American Farm Bureau federation, Chicago, Illinois.

H. B. Nickerson, Elk River, Minn., secretary of the Minnesota Cooperattive Creameries association, In., and vice president of the Twin City Milk Producers association.

W. F. Schilling, Northfield, Minn., president of the Twin City Milk Producers association.

C. Bechtelheimer, Waterloo, Iowa secretary-manager, Iowa Creamery Secretaries and Managers association.

B. F. Sheridan, Fon du Lac, Wis. president of the Fon du Lac County Farm Bureau.

F. G. Swoboda, Plymouth Wisconsin general manager, Wisconsin Cheese Producers federation.

C. R. George, Indianapolis Ind. secretary of the Indiana Dairy Marketing association and director of dairy marketing for the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation.

John D. Miller, New York City vice president dairymen's League Co-operative association, Inc.

E. D. Waid, Columbus Ohio director of dairy margeting for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Walton Peteer, director of cooperative marketing, American Farm Bureau federation.

J. H. Frandsen, Lincoln Neb. dairy editor Capper Farm Press.

Samuel R. Guard director of information American Farm Bureau federation.

J. T. Williams chairman of the committee of nine, presided over the convention. Welton Poteet and Aaron Sapiro, legal advisor to the department of cooperative marketing of the American Farm Bureau federation ,addressed the meeting.

Pooling Scheme Adopted.

The committee of nine was selected at a cooperative dairy conference in Milwaukee, December 6, 1922. The plan for the national sales agency was written by Aaron Sapiro, serving as counsel for the committee.

The adopted plan will provide for the orderly marketing of butter, cheese, condensed milk and cream. It provides for the federation of co operative creameries and cheese factories into district and state groups these to become members of the central sales agency. It provides for the membership of pooling milk marketing organizations to market their surplus products — evaporated and condensed milk, butter, cheese and sweet cream.

The central agency plan provide for statistical and information reports to member cooperatives. Publicity and advertising programs will be inaugurated. The big job however, will be to standardize dair products and create national brands All milk products will be handle through separate departments. Al in financing member cooperative will also be given.

The executive control of the central agency will be a board of directors composed of thirty-five members elected by districts on the basi of farmer patrons with equal number in each district.

The capital stock of the central agency is to be of two classes. common and preferred capital stock. The common capital stock can only be held by the member associations. The member association will be required to subscribe for common capital stock at the rate of one dollar per person involved in the voting power of member associations. This subscription is to be paid one-tenth in cash and the balance deducted one-tenth each month from products sold through central agency or by direct payment.

Based on Contracts.

There will be written contracts with all member associations. These will, in a measure depend on contracts member associations have with local associations or patrons.

Title to products will pass to the central agency to permit proper financing. Products will be standardized graded and pooled within each state only according to such grades. National brands will be created but state and point of origin or state brands must also appear on each container together with such national brand.

The central agency will make no profits. Deductions will only be made to pay all expenses limited dividens on stock and one per cent for reserve fund.

Member associations with a total of at least 50.000 patrons actually under contract to such member associations must be secured before th plan becomes effective.

HONORS AWARDED TWO NEBRASKANS

Col. F. M. Woods and Samuel McKelvie, Sr., Are Recognized.

Ag College Presents Certificates to Pioneers Of State.

The conferring of two certificates of honorary recognition by the agricultural college was announced at the annual commencement exercises of the School of Agriculture Friday evening. Those honored at this time were Samuel McKelvie, Sr., and Col. F. M. Woods. The awarding of these certificates was instituted by the agricultural college a few years ago as a means of honoring from time to time men who have contributed to the upbuilding of Nebraska agriculture.

Nebraska has now honored six such men. In 1921 the certificates were conferred on S. C. Bassett and W. G. Whitmore. In 1922 they were awarded to C. H. Morrill, George W. Holdrege and F. W. Chase.

Samuel McKelvie was born in Ohio in 1849, grew to manhood in Illinois, and came to Nebraska in 1874. He settled in Clay county, north of Fairfield, where he still lives. For forty years, with the exception of three years, Mr. McKelvie has been an exhibitor of Poland China hogs at the state fair. Twenty some years ago he was also an important breeder of Red Polled cattle. At the World's fair in Chicago he purchased the grand champion to head his herd. When he disposed of his herd in 1901, it brought the highest prices ever made at an auction up to that time. Mr. McKelvie has served as president of the Poland China Record association and has been a member of its board of directors for fifteen years. He has also served as president of the Nebraska Swine Breeders' association. He raised a large family, seven children being alive today. One of these is Ex-Governor McKelvie.

Col. F. M. Woods was one of the most noted livestock auctioneers of his time, during the 70's, 80's and 90's laying the foundations of much of the progress in livestock circles today. He is the father of a large family and all of his sons have achieved prominence in their chosen occupations. During the forty years that he was an important figure in livestock circles the country over, Mr. Woods conducted some 4,000 livestock auctions. Born at Belvidere, Illinois, when Chicago, seventy miles away, was the nearest railway station, Mr. Woods' first opportunity came when a famous auctioneer who had been engaged for a neighborhood sale, failed to show up. Woods was asked if he could sell registered Shorthorns. "I know I can," he replied, although up to that time he had no knowledge of pedigrees. But so successful was the sale that a man immediately afterward asked if he could sell trotting horses as well as Shorthorns. "Oh, much better," he immediately replied.

Mr. Woods was an exponent of purebred cattle at a time when few farmers realized the value of good breeding. A Kentucky attorney once said of him, "Colonel Woods has accomplished more than all others in awakening interest in purebred livestock, in impressing upon the people not only the advantage but the necessity of its production."

Exquisite complexion is sure, by building more Red-Blood-Cells!

Beautiful complexions come from blood that is rich with many Red-Blood-Cells. Every woman can now have a queenly complexion in a surprisingly short time by using S. S. S., the great builder of Red-Blood-Cells.

Madam, here is just the reason why you have had such a hard time trying to obtain that spotless, queenly complexion that makes half the world drop its work to love and admire! Glorious secret! Glorious, glorious because it's true, because it is based on a law of nature which is absolutely certain, and which never, never fails! It is as old as the hills, yet new to you and to millions! A trial will prove its success in your own case. Beautiful complexions can be made quickly and surely. Beautiful complexions come from "beautiful" blood,—blood that is rich in red-blood-cells. The more red-cells, the richer your blood. The richer and purer your blood, the clearer the skin. The clearer the skin the more spotless is your complexion! It becomes smooth, velvety. Blood impurities are always pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells,—and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Most of us haven't enough red-blood-cells, even though we may be in fairly good health and have no skin eruptions. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years. S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Women with beautiful complexions have clean, pure Blood flowing through their arteries.

Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind., writes: "I was troubled with pimples and blackheads, was nervous and was losing weight. I took S. S. S. I gained in weight. My skin cleared up. S. S. S. is the most wonderful blood medicine I have ever taken. Several of my friends are now taking it for the same reason, I did."

Forty Athletes Lined Up to Try for Lincoln's State Leaguers

SPRING PRACTICE AT LANDIS FIELD

Manager Buck's State League Links to Start Workouts Monday Morning.

Faster Baseball In Store for Fans In Miles Loop This Season.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Business of ironing winter kinks out of salary arms, limbering rusty joints and muscles, and sharpening batting optics will be under way at Landis Field beginning Monday morning, Manager Buck Beltzer's 1923 Links, representing the capital city in the Nebraska State league pennant chase, will assemble at the local ball yard for the inauguration of a two weeks' period of practice. Two weeks and four days later—the exact date is Friday, May 4—the Links and the Norfolk Elkhorns will square off at Landis Field in the opening game of the State league race.

Spring practice in the five other cities of the Miles loop is to start the same day as in Lincoln. Club managers have been active in grabbing promising youngsters and the head moguls of the Nebraska league assert no spoofing is involved when they promise an improved grade of baseball, in comparison with last year, during the flag pursuit of '23.

State Leaguers Make Good.

No apologies are necessary, however, in any discussion with reference to the class of ball on display a year ago, the first championship season by the revived Nebraska league. The State league article undoubtedly was better than many of the fans realized. Proof of this assertion is provided by the success of Nebraska league graduates in making good in faster company. Pitcher Wigington of Hastings has been retained by the St. Louis Cardinals, after showing brilliantly in spring practice in the south; Pitcher Bailey and Outfielder Bool, with the Links last summer, are with Syracuse in the International league, a class AA loop; Pitcher Speece, former Norfolk Elkhorn, with Omaha this year, yesterday hung a 9 to 2 defeat on Tulsa, Western league champs in '22, and Shortstop Rooney, with Fairbury's State league pennant-winners, has been installed a regular with the Sioux City Western leaguers.

Manager Buck Beltzer of Lincoln figures his own team will represent a much stronger front than the capital city aggregation which started the race last season. A year's experience has been worth something to Buck in hooking desirable talent, which undoubtedly applies to every other club on the Miles' circuit.

The squad due to assemble in Lincoln Monday morning will include approximately forty candidates for the Links of '23. The members of last year's team retained for this season are Catcher Conkey, Pitchers Stokes and Scott, First Baseman McCoy and Second Baseman Dye. The acquisitions are youngsters of high repute coming up from semi-pro and amateur circles, and from the squad of forty pastimers Manager Buck is confident he will be able to select a whizbang pennant contender. The complete roster of Lincoln candidates follows:

Catchers.

Fred Conkey, Winono, Minn.
Jack Bolzendahl, Omaha, Neb.
Roy Norman, Republican City, Neb.
Raymond Alley, Atwood, Kas.
Carmy DeButch, Chicago, Ill.

Pitchers.

Kenneth Scott, Portland, Ore.
Arthur Stokes, Wilkinsburg, Pa.
Earl Cooley, Kansas City, Mo.
John Dillon, Trenton, Neb.
Fay Foster, Adams, Neb.
L. E. Houtz, Franklin, Neb.
E. M. Munson, Sidney, Neb.
Harbert Belk, St. Louis, Neb.
A. E. Wissler, Humboldt, Neb.
Howard Moss, Crawford, Neb.
Fred Cook, Sidney, Neb.
Ora Cooper, Weifleet, Neb.
Vernon Girch, Edison, Neb.
Tom Sullivan, Omaha, Neb.

Infielders.

Paul McCoy, Stamford, Neb.
Everd Brunke, Campbell, Neb.
Everett Purdy, Beatrice, Neb.
Bert Slattery, Omaha, Neb.
Frank Stavniak, Omaha, Neb.
Dick Cleveland, Sioux City, Ia.
Herbert Pember, Shelton, Neb.
Dewey Bondurant, Ness City, Kas.
Scott Dye, Lincoln.

Outfielders.

H. B. Seeley, Trenton, Neb.
Lawrence May, St. Louis, Mo.
R. A. Kinkel, Salina, Kas.
John Niggeling, Remsen, Ia.
George Hoover, Long Island, Kas.
Loren Egley, Marysville, Mo.
E. R. Weaver, Vona, Colo.
D. Monteith, Haxton, Colo.
"Doc" Peacock, Churdan, Ia.
Henry Thomas, Kansas City, Mo.

Two Sessions Daily.

Workouts, both morning and afternoon, are on the schedule for every day during the training season. The gates to Landis Field will be thrown wide open and every booster for the Links is invited to witness Buck's athletes go through their daily grind. After a week of practice, the squad will be split into two teams, one going to Omaha for an exhibition game on Sunday, April 22, and the other team staying in Lincoln to show at the home yard.

Numerous park improvements are being installed at Landis Field—improvements which Charles N. Moon, secretary for the Links, is confident will provide better accommodations for patrons of State league baseball. Another exit has been cut in the grandstand, bleachers and fences are being repainted, opera chairs will be installed in the boxes and the space in the rear of the grandstand has been filled with cinders, providing parking space for 200 motor cars. Additional park improvements include an enlarged clubhouse for players and the spreading of forty loads of clay and sand along the baselines. The diamond, greener than ever, is in superb condition, while blue grass has been sowed in the outer garden.

HIGH ATHLETES BUSY ON CINDERS

Track Season Gets Under Way This Week In Nebraska School Circles.

Program for April Schedules Long String of Meets On State Tracks.

APRIL TRACK PROGRAM.

27—Seward invitation meet at Seward.
27—Tri-county meet at Fullerton.
27—Southeastern meet at Beatrice.
28—Grand Island college invitation meet at Grand Island.
28—Jefferson county meet at Fairbury.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

This is the final week of preparation for Nebraska high school track athletes before the series of sectional and invitation meets scheduled for the last week in April.

A majority of the college invitation meets are booked for April 27 and 28, the group being unusually large this year, due to the entrance of several schools with new invitation contests.

The program of meets booked for this week-end comprises practice conditioning exhibitions between two or three schools. Fremont, University Place and Omaha Central are slated to meet in a triangular affair on the Fremont oval. Grand Island, Hastings and York will contest in a three-cornered meet at York, while Chadron Normal and Alliance will clash in a dual meet of interest to western Nebraska fans.

Interest In Track Booming.

Coach Henry F. Schulte of the University of Nebraska, upon his return from the coast, was swamped with correspondence from Nebraska high school coaches relative to track prospects over the state.

"Track has enjoyed a remarkable increase in popularity this spring," says Coach Schulte. "Everywhere I receive enthusiastic reports regarding track work. Better records by individuals and more men out for track is the situation in every part of the state."

The competition in the first annual home course state relays closed Saturday. Records were to be telegraphed to Coach Schulte Saturday evening. The results will be compiled and announced Monday.

Pentathlon Follows Relays.

High school lads have already started in the third annual selective pentathlon and Schulte is looking for some new records as the entry list will far exceed that of the past two years.

A slump in track material at Omaha Tech is the one sore spot on the 1923 outlook. Tech was runner-up to Omaha Central in the city meet last spring and figured strong in the state meet.

Graduation worked havoc with Coach Drumond's 1923 combination. The final blow came this semester when Price, colored athlete who led the scoring for the Techsters, registered at Central.

Coach Drummond, however, has already started work preparatory to the 1924 grind and has a squad of youngsters in suit making ready for next year race over the cinder oval.

Inter-Class Meets at Omaha.

A number of inter-class meets are scheduled for this week, Omaha Central will hold a class competition Saturday. Crete high classes will compete Wednesday, while Seward sprinters will be seen in action next Friday.

Several baseball games are on the card this week. The list includes Sutton, Lincoln at Western, Wymore at Holmesville.

Ten numerals were awarded high school athletes last week. Winning athletes and the records they scored follow:

List of Numeral Winners.

Fred Layton, Beatrice—Shot put 40 feet 8 inches; discus throw, 102 feet 1 inch; javelin throw, 115 feet.

HUSKERS PUNISH TIGERS' PITCHER

Nebraskans Murder the Ball For 16 Hits and Trounce Missouri, 10 to 1.

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 14. — The heavy hitting University of Nebraska baseball team slugged its way to a 10 to 1 victory over Missouri here this afternoon, the Cornhuskers clouting 16 hits, including two home runs, a pair of three-base hits and a double.

Scoring six runs in the first, one in the second and two in the fifth, Nebraska had an overwhelming lead before the Missouri hitters found Peterson, the visiting hurler, for their first single—a smash through third by Bunker in the fourth.

The Tigers' only run came in the eighth inning.

Home runs by Gibbs and Smaha and three-base hits by Russell and Lewellen featured the Nebraska attack. The score:

Schulte Selects 2-Mile Relay Team To Run at Kansas

Coach Henry F. Schulte and a squad of University of Nebraska track athletes journeyed to University Place Saturday afternoon for a workout on the Nebraska Wesleyan cinder oval.

Unfavorable weather condition had caused postponement of the Kansas relay tryouts, booked for the afternoon Schulte sent his squad through a hard workout and Saturday night announced that the University of Nebraska two-mile relay team that will run at Lawrence would include Captain Allen, Coats, Gardner and Bowman.

FANS GLUE GLAZE ON FANCY TALENT

Gotham Baseball Bugs Flock to Polo Grounds to Inspect High-Priced Rookies.

Critics Give O. K. to Kamm, But Decide O'Connell Far From Ripe.

FRISCH'S HOMER BREAKS IT UP.

NEW YORK, April, 14. — Frank Frisch hit a homer into the upper right field stands with two runners on in the eighth inning and the New York Giants beat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1. The victory of the Giants made the score 7—all in the spring exhibition series with the Sox.

Jack Bentley, the $65,000 Giant pitcher went six innings and although he was wild throughout, he allowed only four hits. The lone run of the Sox was scored on a triple steal, with Eddie Collins crossing the plate.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, April 14.—Beauties from the minors, valued at $240,000, disported on the Polo Grounds this afternoon when the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox tried to warm up a handful of freezing fans.

Willie Kamm, the rookie Sox third baseman, who set Comiskey back $100,000, looked like a rare bargain at the price. Jack Bentley, the Baltimore pitcher for whom the Giants put out $65,000, worked like something on Fifth avenue that would come cheaper on Sixth avenue, and Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 outfielder, looked like he was at least one year away from a world's champion club.

Kamm Natural Player.

Kamm plays like the natural ball player that he really is. There is nothing about him by which he could be tagged by a stranger as a minor leaguer. Confidence bubbles all over him and he staids at the plate like an old-timer who has looked at the best of them for season after season. He takes a beautiful cut at the ball and he acts on the bag like plays had been made for him.

The form he showed against a club that is one of the best in the world means much to the Sox if maintained in the American league race.

Jimmy O'Connell is a good looking youngster—with a smile worth $75,000 even if he never is able to deliver in actual ball playing. The California boy, in marked contrast to his team mate, Kamm, bears every mark of the minor leaguer. He lacks confidence and he shows it in every move.

O'Connell Weak Fielder.

O'Connell is good under "set up" flies, but he hesitates in going back and his right arm appeared to lack the punch necessary for a center fielder on a big range of ground.

O'Connell certainly has a lot of ability, but it will have to be brought out over the obstacles that his timidity may place in the way. If he can be worked away from the odea that he is a high-priced ball player he may come up when the season starts. McGraw usually pursues the policy of placing youngsters some time on the bench and it would not hurt Jimmy to watch some "big time" baseball from the shelter of the dugout.

Bentley is not in shape now and it is impossible to tell if he is worth the $65,000 that the Giants paid for him to Baltimore.

Slings Good Fast Ball.

Bentley has a good hop on his fast ball, but, like many southpaws, he is not overburdened with control, although he may improve when he removes some of the superfluous flesh from around his beam.

He has a very rookie-like windup, so pronounced that a triple steal was pulled on him this afternoon which put Eddie Collins across the plate. He shows the same flustrated, fancy movements at the bat, where he swings the bat all around in wide circles. He seems to be a natural batter, however, and he cuts at the ball like Babe Ruth.

Kamm Has Real Class.

There is something about every move that Kamm makes which speaks of real class, but it is lacking in O'Connel and Bentley. It may be only the lack of nervousness which Kamm possesses, and O'Connell and Bentley may come through when they begin to realize that the difference is not so marked between the "big time" ball crowds and the fans from where they came.

Incidentally the Giants won. The box score:

AMATEURS PRY OFF LID TODAY

Local Sandlotters Collide In Double Bill at Rock Island Park.

TODAY'S BASEBALL CARD AT ROCK ISLAND PARK

1 p. m.—Dewitt Grain vs. American Legion.
3 p. m.—Lawler Sports vs. Munson Fords.

The lid will be pried off the baseball season in Lincoln this afternoon when four teams of the Lincoln Amateur Baseball association compete in the opening diamond program of the 1923 season. Both games will be played at Rock Island Park.

The bill is scheduled to get under way at 1 p. m., when the Dewitt Grain nine crosses bats with the American Legion. The Lawlor Sports are scheduled to meet the Munson Fords in the second game of the doubleheader at 3 p. m.

Better Class of Baseball.

The decision of the amateur association to foster but one league this season forecasts a better class of amateur ball for Lincoln fans. Two high class games on every Sunday doubleheader is the motto of the Lincoln association.

Rock Island park has been put in good condition for the summer's games. The outfield has been graded and some new equipment installed. A charge of 35 cents will be made to the Sunday programs. Lee Sipe, who officiated last summer, will umpire all the City league games, according to present plans.

Veterans in Legion Lineup.

The American Legion management has lined up a strong aggregation to wear the colors of the service men. The first-string comprises some well known Lincoln pastimers. Members of fthe City league champion Legion team of 1922 who will be with the squad again this season, are Hudson, McCloy, Williams, Sweeney, Lamb, Parton, Ulstrom, Emhoff, Peters.

The Dewitt Grain team played outside the loop last season, winning a number of games from teams near Lincoln. Lineup for today's opening game follows:

eDwitt Grain Co—Latta, ss; Robertson, 3b; Jim Partington, cf; Kersey, lb; Gillette, rf; Joe Partington, 2b; Ballc; Walroth, lf; Rasmussen, p; Lefler, p.

Munsons Class B Winners.

The Munson Fords went over big inthe class B circuit last summer andare trotting in faster company this season. The Munson lineup is practically the same as last season.

The Lawlor Sports have a different lineup t hanlast season. The squad, however, contains a number of well-konwn players on Lincoln lots. Lineup for the second game follows:

Lawlor Sports—Kahm, 3b; Erickson, ss; Buckley, 2b; Lynn, 2b; Hilland, lb; Costelo, lf; McKibbin, rf, Mason, c; Rhoades, p.

Munson Fords—Maser, c; Kaiser, p; Griffiths, lb.; Muidor, 2b; Brown, ss; Wilson, 3b, Cook, lf; Little, cf; 12. Brt, rf; Miller, Tibbets, Debus, Mills, Wieson, utility.

Waggoner Wins Top Money In Club Shoot At Diller

DILLER, Neb., April 14.—The Diller Gun club held a free-for-all trap shoot here Thurday afternoon. It was one of the most interesting and largely attended meets of its kind ever held in this vicinity. The Diller club consists of twenty shooters, and nineteen of them were in place, all amateurs, only one man, George L. Carter of Lincoln, being a professional. The shoot was on the "jack rabbit" system, 100 targets, the money going 50, 30 and 20 per cent. The novelty race was extremely interesting to spectators and shooters alike. Two squads also shot twelve pair doubles, Howard Jeffries of Odell, taking the lead with 21 out of 12 pairs. C. L. Waggoner, Diller was high gun, breaking 97 out of 100. F. S. Diller of Diller and Ray Littedell of Bruning tied for second. Joe Shalla, Odell, and J. S. Sanmann, Diller, tied third.

Diller Gun Club Meet.

Scores in the 100 class: C. L. Waggoner, Diller, 97; F. S. Diller, Diller, 88; Ray Litterol, Bruning, 88; Joe Shalla, Odell, 87; J. S. Sanmann, Diller, 87; George L. Carter, Lincoln, 86; Jay W. Earl Carr of Lincoln won the individual championship of the 1922 state bowling tournament which closed Saturday. A battery of bowlers which rolled for a twelve hour stretch failed to shake Carr's total of 643.

The H. F. Cady, Lumber Co., headed by Kennedy, Omaha's crack bowler, rolled into the first money in the team event ith 2,864. The Wolbach Clothiers, who were in the lead a few hours before the Cady's performances took second money. The Third City pin artists rolled 2,805.

J. Blakney of Omaha took first money in the all-events with 1,795. Emil Schmitt was the high Lincoln bowler in the all-events with 1,730.

Two Omaha teams are in a tie for first money in the doubles event. Neale and Krug equalled the total of Sciple and Sciple Saturday night, when they hit the maple pegs for 1,159.

Bowlers competing Saturday in the singles and doubles caused considerable shifting in the standings.

In the singles, Al Krug, 1922 singles champion, rolled into third place with 636. F. Pepper of Grand Island went into sixth place with 618. Tropholz of Columbus rolled 613 for seventh place and Middaugh of Fremont with 606 went into eighth position. Elgie and Blakney, both of Omaha, are tied with Waugh of Lincoln for tenth place with 599 pins.

In the doubles Neale and Krug went into a tie with Sciple and Sciple for first money with 1,159 pins. Spellman and Kennedy of Omaha went into fourth place with 1,137, Wilson and Wood of Lincoln landed in fifth place Saturday morning with 1,132. Mitchell and Jensen of Council Bluffs, Ia. rolled 1,105 for tenth place.

Al Krug of Omaha ran into a bunch of hard luck Saturday night. He needed a strike in his third game to turn in the high singles score of the tournament. He got nine pins. Later in the doubles game he needed a strike in the last fram of his third

KANSAS CITY, April 14.—The heavyweight mat championship of the world will be fought out here May 2 between John Pesek, Nebraska and Ed ("Strangler") Lewis it was announced tonight following a conference between managers of the two men. Pesek was signed during the conference for a purse of $20,000 three-fourths of which goes to Lewis and one-fourth to Pesek with a provision that Pesek also has a privilege of thirty-five per cent of the gate receipts with an allowance of $500 for training. The match will be two falls out of three to a finish.

"Ducky" Holmes Out of Baseball To Sell Smokes

William ("Ducky") Holmes, big league ball player a dozen seasons and minor magnate and manager an additional twenty years, has cut loose from the national pastime. "Ducky," who owned and managed the Lincoln Western league club back in '06 and '07, has relocated in the capital city of Nebraska and, beginning Monday morning, will hold forth as smokes salesman and manager of the Story cigar shop at Thirteenth and N streets. Ed A. Hoppler of Lincoln yesterday closed a deal for the purchase of the Story shop and last night announced he would install "Ducky" as manager.

ALLIANCE TEAM HARD AT WORK

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., April 14.—Unfavorable weather conditions have not kept the Alliance high school track squad indoor this season. Coach F. C. Prince has been sending the squad of twenty-four men through daily workouts in an effort to prepare them for the dual meet with Chadron Normal April 20.

Ralph Garvin has been eelcted captain of the Alliance track squad. He recently won his state high school numeral, broad jumping 20 feet 10 inches and travelling the 100-yard dash in 10 3-5 seconds. In the century event event he was rushed hard by Daley, who is slowly coming into form although handicaped by the cold weather.

Many Entries in Meet.

Alliance is making plans for the Western Nebraska track meet, which will be held here May 4. Last year ten teams participated. This year fifteen have already signified their intention of attending and nearly thirty schools are expected.

All western Nebraska team have bee ninvited to attend the meet. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be given the athletes who place in the events.

Four Trophies Offered.

The Alliance Chamber of Commerce trophy will be presented to the winner of the meet. The Alliance Times-Herald trophy will be awarded the winner of the 880-yard relay. The W. R. Harper cup will be presented the winner of the medley relay.

The Harry Thiele trophy will be awarded the athlete winning individual honors and the Alliance Volunteer fire department trophy will be awarded the runner-up for individual ohnors.

Iowa Husky Turns Down Jersey Bout

NEW YORK, April 14. — Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, will forfeit all his rights to box in New Jersey rather than fill a contract to meet Fred Fulton in Jersey City next Monday night, his manager, Charley Cook, announced tonight.

Johnson, according to a recent ruling of the New York boxing commission, either had to give up the bout with Fulton or the one with Jess Willard in New York on May 12, for which he is to receive $25,000.

Cook said that Johnson had signed for the Fulton bout in good faith and was willing to go through with it, but for the ruling of the New York boxing commission that no boxer on the milk fund card could participate in any matches before that tim.

Peatt Adams, chief inspector of the Jersey commission, said Johnson would be indefinitely suspended as soon as the time limit expired for his appearance in Jersey City.

Roush Backs Up; Signs With Reds

CINCINNATI, O., April 14.—Eddie Roush, veteran outfielder and batsman and holdout in recent years, today signed a contract to play through the season with the Reds for $17,000 for the year. The announcement was made by Garry Herrman, president of the Cincinnati National leaguers.

DODGER HURLERS EASY FOR "BABE"

Bambino Mallets Five Hits and Yanks Beat Brooklyn By Lop-Sided Score.

NEW YORK, Aphil 14.—Babe Ruth went wild with his bat on Ebbets field today and slammed the New York Yankees into a 15 to victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Babe didn't get a homer, but he busted a double and four singles in six times up, drove in four runs and scored three himself. The slaughter, which gave the Yanks a count of eight out of thirteen in the series, was witnessed by a slim crowd of razzing and freezing fans. The score:

Montana Legion Committee Asserts Dempsey Not Wanted In State.

HELENA, Mont. April 14.—The proposed Jack Dempsey - Tommy Gibbons championship fight for Shelby Mont., Jouly 4 encountered unexpected obstacles tonight when officals of the executive department of the Montana American legion dispatched a lengthy telegram to Jack Kearns, Mike Collins and Loy J. Molumby commander of the Montana legion in Salt Lake City voicing the objection of the Legion to Dempsey's "ever coming to Montana to fight."

The telegram declared that Commander Molumby was acting without the approval of the executive committee in his conference in Salt Lake City with Kearns and Collins, managers respectively for Dempsey and Gibbons.

Molumby left Great Falls yesterday in an airplane to meet Kearns and Collins in the Utah capital.

Seventy-one years ago the name Studebaker stood for a small crossroads blacksmith shop equipped with two forges and with a capital $68. Just how enormously this business has grown and spread out since then is hown by the following fact which indicates the huge scale of Studebaker operations today:

The present actual net assets are $82,000,000.

The Studebaker plants located in South Bend, Ind., Detroit, Mich., and Walkerville, Ont., are the second largest in the world. They cover 225 acres; the buildings contain 7,100,000 square feet of active floor space, and the investment amounts to $41,000,000.

Inventories of raw material, work in progress, and finished goods amount to $20,000,000.

Research and experimental laboratories, unexcelled in the industry, employ one hundred and twenty-five skilled men. 500,000 tests are made annually in these laboratories.

Twelve thousand five hundred machines are used in 500 manufacturing departments.

Twenty thousand people are employed, and the annual payroll is $25,000,000.

In the manufacture of the three models of Studebaker cars, 1,120 mechanical operations are accurate to one-thousandth of an inch, and 360 to one-half thousandth of an inch.

One thousand inspectors are employed in the plants, and 30,000 inspections are made during manufacture before cars are passed for delivery.

One hundred andfifty tons of castings are made daily in Studebaker foundries. Some of the annual requirements include 115,000 tons of steel, 185,000,000 cubic feet of gas, and 7,000,000 gallons offuel oil used in heat treating and in the drop forge furnaces!

More than 600,000 Studebaker cars valued at over $800,000,000 have been produced and sold in all parts of the world.

Maxwell Motors Report Financial Gain During Year

The Maxwell Motor corporation's annual statement for 1922, just released for publication by William Robert Wilson, president, is a record of remarkable achievement for the past year, and marks the Maxwell as one of the outstanding successes among automobile companies.

The reconstruction of the Maxwell product has been an obvious success to all who follow motor car design, but that such astonishing financial progress could have been accomplished coincidentally comes as a complete and commendable surprise.

The profits of the Maxwell corporation exceeded $2,000,000 for the year. On December 31, 1922, cash and cash security balances were in excess of $3,000,000 with a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of approximately 3 1-2 to 1. The splendid year-end showing comes on top of a record for the year which includes the retirement of over $8,000,000 in funded debt and the financing of the acquisition of the entire ownership of the physical assets of the Chalmers Motor corporation.

Chalmers Motor corporation losses for the year of 1922 were something in excess of $1,000,000, but now that the whole organization and financial resources of the Maxwell Motor corporation are behind the development of the Chalmers, its success is assured, and it may be expected during this year to take its place as a profit producing unit.

Over 55,000 cars were sold in 1922, placing the Maxwell in eighth position in the whole automobile industry; notwithstanding the fact that 1923 schedules call for a substantial increase over the previous year's business, car sales for January and February are exceeding the increased schedule by more than 10 per cent and March production and sales will show even a better increase.

Double Deckers In Highways and Streets Coming

"Double deck streets and highways are coming," says Colin Campbell, general sales manager, Chevrolet Motor company.

"While it is becoming increasingly evident that the only saturation point of the automobile industry is the capacity of the highways, we have already reached capacity in various city street and some highways near large cities.

"It is inconceivable that such space limitations will be permitted to stop the universal adoption of the most economical efficient means for transportation of goods and people ever devised.

"Civilization is directly dependent on transportation facilities and no man should be denied the right to avail himself of the best of such facilities; yet that is what we are coming to rapidly.

Already large cities have established one way traffic, and assigned special streets for commercial vehicles.

"The double-deck street is in use right now in the approaches to the Grand Central Terminal in New York, also automobile subway for taxicabs.

NASH DECLARES NEAT DIVIDEND

Quarterly Dividend on Preferred Announced as Payable First of May.

KENOSHA, Wis., April 14.—Quarterly directors meeting of The Nash Motors company was held in New York today. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent ($1.75 per share) upon the preferred "A" stock, payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 20.

The question of the common stock dividend was not taken up as it has been always the policy of the Nash company to bring up the question of common dividend semi-annually.

As the last common dividend of two dollars and a half was paid February 1 of this year, consideration of a second common dividend will come before the directors at their July meeting.

The fiscal year of the Nash company begins December 1. Vice President and Comptroller Alford reported net income for the three months—December, January, and February—after selling, administrative and local and federal taxes, of $1,573,241.78.

The factories of the company are running at capacity and in fact are unable at the present time to fill orders by a wide margin. Profits for March were not reported but it is probable they will exceed the average for the preceeding three months and the outlook for the next few months, at least, is excellent.

PLAN TO REDUCE WEIGHT OF LOAD

Question of Lowering Legal Weights of Truck Load Being Considered.

The question of the proposed reduction of legal weights in loading motor trucks at this time is receiving unusual consideration throughout Nebraska. This is due to the fact that the legislature is now in session and some revision of the present laws governing weights is anticipated. At this time there are no laws governing the legal weight of motor trucks or the load that they shall carry, but instead the owner of these trucks pays according to the size and capacity through his license.

Automobile clubs and other organizations of the state have declared their belief that the tonnage each truck carries over the state's highways should be limited—but that it should be more than the proposed limit of between four and six thousand pounds to the wheel. Some maintain that a reduction below this limit would seriously interfere with the transportation requirements of the state. The contention is that drastic weight reductions are bound to result in additional charges to the public, which will eventually be reflected in the prices of all commodities.

According to C. D. Lampert, general sales manager of the Nebraska Buick Auto company, distributors of GMC trucks, it is estimated by one of the largest building material companies in the state that the proposed reduction to between four or six thousand pounds per wheel would materially increase the cartage charge and would add large sums to our annual building expenses each year.

Hupp Sales Were Double Those Of Preceding Quarter

Sales of Hupmobiles the country over for the first three months of 1923 were nearly double those for the best previous first quarter; materially exceeded those for the record three months' business of April, May and June, 1922. March sales were the greatest of any single month in the fifteen years of the Hupp Motor car corporation's history.

This announcement, made yesterday by Bert Salers, of the southwestern Nebraska Hupmobile Co., local Hupmobile dealers, is indicative of the tremendous demand over the entire United States for motor cars manufactured by the older and more firmly established motor car companies.

Hupmobile sales for the first quarter of 1923 totaled 12,034 cars of the 40,000 scheduled to be produced in 1923, compared with 6,399 for the first three months of 1922, and 11,290 for April, May and June 1922. March sales were 5,024, eclipsing the former record of June, 1922, by more than 1,000 cars. Export sales for the first quarter were the greatest since the latter part of 1920, the best export period in Hupp's history.

March sales were actually above the production limits of the corporation, and exceeded 5,000 cars only because orders which should have been shipped in February had to be held over into March, due to the inability of the railroads to furnish sufficient freight cars for shipment.

Moon March Sales Reach New Record

the Moon Motor Car company, announces March sales were the greatest history of the company. More cars were shipped during this month than any previous month, and this record, coming in March, can be taken as a forecast what the balance of the year holds for the automobile industry.

With the exception of one or two isolated points Moon dealers throughout the country are enjoying exceptionally good business right now, and it looks as if there will be a shortage of the popular makes of cars in May or June, if not sooner.

Raw materials, in fact, everything that goes into the building of a motor car has advanced tremendously in price. While manufacturers are very reluctant to raise pices, no doubt, they will be forced to do this or sell their product at a loss. Frankly, people may look for price raises in practically all lines in the very near future.

Why Hudson Owners Buy Hudsons Again and Again

Most Hudson owners remain Hudson owners. They find nothing to tempt them elsewhere. Some have owned five, ten, sixteen successive Hudsons.

They have found each succeeding Hudson, a better, smoother, finer car.

Those who drive today's Super-Six call it the greatest Hudson ever built. Its price makes it conspicuous not only among cars of comparable fineness, but even among those that you never classify with Hudson in quality.

These Letters Typical of What All Say

"The wonderful service I have had from eight previous Hudsons, including all models, operated under all conditions has just resulted in the purchase of my ninth Hudson."
JOHN P. GLYNN, Jr.
The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.

"I have owned seven Hudsons in succession. The fact that I have stuck to Hudsons for so many years indicates their excellent service."
J. C. BILLINGSLEA,

"We have owned four Hudsons in succession. Our next car will be a Hudson. There are cars that cost more money, but I am sure they cannot give more satisfaction than the Hudson Super-Six."

That comfortable feeling of safety is one of the prime factors in the Packard owner's deep satisfaction.

Such complete reliance is something that money alone cannot buy. For back of the product itself, there must be experience, tried engineering skill, and the highest manufacturing ideals.

A safe car must have brakes of the utmost efficiency. Packard Single-Six brakes operate with the minimum of effort. There is positive action without jerking or screeching, whether running light or fully loaded.

As with brakes, so with every other part. Standards of safety built into the Single-Six have been developed through twenty-four years of practical experience in which every engineering and structural feature has been put to the severest possible test.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT FATAL TO APGAR

Gurr Dragged By Barrel Is Discharged and Death Results.

COLUMBUS, Neb., April 14.—T. J. Apgar, 65, a resident of Platte and adjoining counties for forty-seven years, died in Columbus hospital Friday, death resulting from a gunshot wound received in an accident on his home farm near Genoa.

Early Thursday morning of last week Mr. Apgar picked up his shotgun and started outdoors for hunting. As he reached the kitchen door the gun which he was dragging by the barrel was in some manner discharged, the load entering his left side. Attracted by the sound, Mrs. Apgar ran into the kitchen and found him lying in a pool of blood. Mr. Apgar was given medical attention at Genoa, and was taken to the Columbus hospital. An X-ray examination showed that the left lung had been penetrated by the shot, and infection had set in.

Mr. Apgar was born in Pleasanton, Ohio, November 22, 1858, coming to Columbus forty-seven years ago. He is survived by his wife and five children. Funeral services and interment were at St. Edwards Saturday.

Aurora Defeated By Geneva Team

(Special to The Star.)

GENEVA, Neb., April 14.—The Geneva high school debating team won the Central district championship Friday night by defeating the Aurora team, taking the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That Nebraska should adopt the Kansas Industrial Court System." The decision of the judges was two to one. Howard Hamilton, Roland Propst and Donald Warner represented Geneva and the Aurora debaters were Miss Lucile Refschaughe, Ross Rominger and Elmer Huffman. Judges of the debate, President French, Dean Weyer and Miss Janet Carpenter, were all from Hastings college. Last year Aurora high school won the debate, which gave them first honors in this district.

City Manager Plan Apparently Dropped

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., April 14—It appears that the city manager plan movement started here a few weeks ago has died a borin'. Four petitions containing the required number of voters were left at the city hall a few weeks ago, but City Clerk Pethoud held that they were not legaly fied, so no further action has been taken in the matter. Judge Krestsinger, said to be one of the instigators of the movement, was notified that if he wanted to file the petitions he could call at the city hall and do so, but he has so far failed to take any action in the matter.

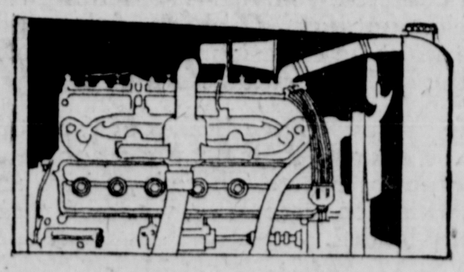
JEWETT SIX

PAIGE BUILT

$1065 f. o. b. factory



The Fifty-Horsepower Motor Fills the Hood!

YOU need not be an engineer to appreciate Jewett's great power. Just look under the hood at the Paige-built motor. No car within $200 of the Jewett price has a motor of equal piston displacement—249 cubic inches. And Jewett's power is not obtained at the expense of high engine speed, with its premature wear.

From the six cylinders, 3½x5 inches, a moderate r. p. m. gives peak power. However unusual the emergency, Jewett never strains to meet it, but handles every situation smoothly and easily. In a word, there's Paige quality in every particle of Jewett power. Let us prove to you there's no motor like it in the thousand-dollar field!

PROSPERITY FELT THROUGHOUT LAND

All Phases of Business And Industry Reflect Post-War Boom.

Survey Shows Labor Shortage In Some Sections—Wages Mounting.

(Copyright, 1923 by United Press)

NEW YORK, April 14—The United States is riding a high tide of prosperity, with the crest not yet in sight, according to a nationwide survey conducted tonight by the United Press.

All phases of business and industry reflect the boom, now at its height since the post-war slump.

A labor shortage already being felt in some industries, is the only potential brake on further expansion. Keen rivalry is manifest among plants for skilled and unskilled labor. Agriculture is facing a farm labor shortage, due to the industrial demand.

Rapid Strides Forward.

The forward strides are reflected as follows:

Increased production.

Wage increases in the steel, packing, building, textile, automobile and other industries during the past three months, estimated at between $250,000,000 and $350,000,000.

Scarcity of labor.

In little less than one year and a half, 3,500,000 idle workers have been absorbed by industry.

Steady Wage Increases.

Wage increases have been made steadily but quietly since the first of the year. Thy culminated in the 11 per cent increase made by the United States steel corporation and followed by most of the independents and a similar wage increase by the Chicago packers, followed by many independent packers.

Four hundred and thirty thousand textile workers have received increases estimated at $75,000,000 a year.

Construction work in 155 cities during the month of March totalled $337,000,000, an increase of 70.7 per cent over February.

Steel production is increasing steadily and reports state it is only limited by the labor supply.

Rohrer Near Drowning In Booze Deluge

OMAHA, April 14.—U. S. Rohrer, federal prohibition director for Nebraska, was overcome by alchhol fumes while destroying 150 gallons of corn whiskey and 37 barrels of mash in a subcellar of a bootlgger's cache here tonight. Prompt action of Mrs. Rosa Bonacci, who lived in the house above the cache and who heard his cries, probably saved Rohrer from drowning in the liquor, which had filled the cellar to a depth of two feet. He was rescued by other federal agents.

Rohrer, seeing the mash barrels and liquor in the cellar, immediately started destroying it. He was overcome when about half the casks had been smashed.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

The price of the Business Coupe is $1,100 delivered

With Pneumatic Tires and Demountable Rims

Does More For Less

THAT the Ford One-ton truck does more for the farmer or the merchant is proved by the great number of them now in daily use,—that it does this at less cost is shown by the actual figures—a smaller first cost and a much lower expense for operation and upkeep.

The Ford One-ton Truck has proved a great money saver, as well as a labor saver. It has solved the problems of economic transportation between the farm and the city.

The Ford One-ton truck has all the merits of the Ford car, with added strength for greater capacity. The worm drive of aluminum bronze gives unusual and positive power at a very low cost.

Come in and let us show you how the Ford One-ton Truck will help you and save you money in your work.

IMPORTANT

We are prepared to furnish the Ford Truck equipped either with Standard or Special Gearing. The Standard Gearing gives the truck a maximum of power. The Special Gearing increases the speed of the truck from five to seven miles an hour, converting it into a Fast Delivery Car.

PINNED BENEATH AUTO FOR HOURS

Crete Business Man Has Very Narrow Escape From Death.

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., April 14.—After being pinned under his new Buick coupe for about four hours, Pete Christufek managed to crawl over the wind shield and walk to a farm house some distance from where his car was wrecked and call for help.

Mr. Christufek, who is one of the partners in the City Meat market, had just purchased the coupe and while driving on the Wilber road ran into a cement culvert about one and one-half miles this side of Wilber. The car was overturned and he was pinned beneath the seats, no one happening along to assist him, although the accident occurred Saturday morning.

The glass in the car was shattered and this cut the face of the owner quite badly. However, no bones were broken and there were no internal injuries, so barring infection the victim will be all right in a comparatively short time.

BURLINGTON CAR BURNS ON TRACK

Is Destroyed With All Its Contents, Destined For Southwest.

(Associated Press.)

RULO, Neb., April 14.—A new refrigerator car loaded full of boxes and bales of merchandise, was destroyed by fire here in the Burlington yards Friday night. Nothing but the trucks and iron work of the car is left.

The car was valued at $1,600, and, as near as can be estimated from the way bills for the merchandise, the contents were worth $1,000.

The car was loaded at Atchison and destined for points west of Wymore, and was discovered to be on fire from within when being picked up by a connecting train, and the flames had so far advanced that saving the property was impossible. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Obituary

MRS. H. E. M. ALLEN.

VALPARAISO, Neb., April 14. — Mrs. H. E. M. Allen, who died Saturday, April 7, at the home of her son, W. P. Allen of Friend, was a native of South Paris, Maine, and was ninety-one years, six months and one day of age. She had been failing gradually for months, but her last illness was of only a few days duration and the end was peaceful. Funeral services were held Monday morning in the chapel at Friend, Rev. Randall of that place being in charge. The body was brought to Valparaiso and short services by Rev. S. Jefferseys of the M. E. church were held at the grave. The body was interred beside that of her husband, J. W. Allen, who died in 1899. Pall bearers were two grand sons-in law, W. C. Hagelin of Friend, and J. L. Oeschger of this place; also Dr. F. L. Spradling and C. L. Hotchkiss.

Mrs. Allen leaves three sons, J. C., of Pasco, Wash., Charles S. of San Jose, Cal. formerly of Lincoln and W. P. of Friend; also ten grandchildren and fourteen great grand children. She was an early resident of Valparaiso, coming here with her family in 1883, most of her life having been spent here. She was a fine Christian character and most of hr life was a member of the Congregational church. She assisted in organizing the Woman's Christian Temperance union here in 1883 and was a very earnest worker for that cause throughout her life, holding the office of secretary-treasurer for about thirty years. The day before her death she expressed gratification at having helped bring about prohibition.

Mrs. Allen was also a faithful and zealous member of the Women's Home Missionary and aid societies in the church. She was possessed of a keen intellect and was a deep thinker. A very able writer of both poetry and prose, many of her articles for years were published in the Boston Transcript. She also for many years contributed a W. C. T. U. column for the home paper, later calling it Grandma's column and dealing more generally with the important topics of the day. She was well versed on political questions, in which she was greatly interested, and was an ardent admirer of President Harding. To those with whom she came in contact her life was an inspiration for good and her loss will be keenly felt by all who knew her.

Business Men Of Belvidere Feast

The animal is an offspring of "Commander," grand champion at the Nebraska state fair in 1922, and said to be one of the finest of the breed ever raised in this county.

Big Hydro-Electric Project on Blue River Is Completed After Four Years

(Special to The Star.)

WYMORE, Neb., April 14.— The Beatrice Power company's hydro-electric dam and spillway, on the Blue river, eight miles south of Wymore, the largest and most perfect structure of its kind in Nebraska, is completed at a cost of over $400,000 and is now connected up for service.

It is a model of the latest type. The machinery runs perfectly noiseless. It was recently "cut in" and the two immense generators, each 16 feet in diameter, are supplying current to several towns in southeastern Nebraska. The superintendent is Charles Thornburg, former Beatrice man, and graduate of the engineering department of the University of Nebraska. The plant makes and controls 4,500,000 kilowatts yearly, and is expected to earn $31,000 net annually.

It took four years and three months from the first breaking of ground until the testing of the machinery. There were 725 carloads or 30,000 tons of cement used in its construction, and it was all received by rail from Superior, Neb., and Blue Rapids, Kas., at Barneston and auto trucked to the dam, 2½ miles. The structure contains 75,000 tons of stone, which was quarried from the high west bank of the river, nearby, and 100,000 yards of sand dredged from the river bed. The stone was transported to place in a one and one-half ton capacity "bucket," which was manipulated on a cable one-eighth mile long stretched on traveling towers on opposite sides of the river. The bucket could be handled back and forth or up and down, and the towers could be moved on specially constructed railway tracks.

A pile of rock dust containing 55,000 cubic yards was made near the rock crusher and cement mixed in the four years handling of the stone. This by-product is now being sold for highway improvement. A difficult section for autos, known as "Sand Cut Hill," is being made highly passable by mixing the stone dust with the sand. It sets hard and smooth. This is an important improvement, as the road is much used, being a short cut to the dam, to Barneston and Summerfield from Wymore.

The building of the dam was fostered by George H. Steinmeyer, of Beatrice, who with ten other Beatrice capitalists, financed the project.

Three huge transformers on the east bank of the river place 33,000 volts on a copper transmission line running 24 miles to Beatrice, where current is sold over the switchboard to several towns in this vicinity and other counties. The line cost $50,000. Liberty and Barneston are now getting ready to connect up to the line. Damages in the sum of $19,000 were recently ordered paid to eighteen farmers along the river above the dam on account of back water overflow. Then serious personal injuries occurred during construction of the dam, but it remained for the last four months to cause the only fatalities. W. J. Fletcher, of Wymore, being struck on the head by a plank falling 100 feet December 23, last, and Sid L. Davis, Beatrice, electrocuted, January 28.

Center—North view, showing gigantic floodgates closed. They can be raised by the electric motor which travels along the top of the structure, so flood waters can pass. The dam extends across the river, connecting to the right. One of the traveling motors is seen to the left of the power house with cable passing across the river above. The trees were cut down on dry land before the dam was closed. W. J. Fletcher was killed on the surface of the water beneath the stairway and Sid Davis was killed at the transformer on the left bank

Mrs. May Dry Dies At Chester Home

(Special to the Star.)

CHESTER, Neb., April 14.—May Dry, 38, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris, old residents here, died at her home here this morning, of diabetes. Several months ago she underwent an operation for removal of a tumor. She was a Wymore high school student twenty-two years ago, the family then living in that city, and graduated here the next year. She leaves a husband and four small children. The aged father and mother live at Chester, Mr. Harris being a retired railway engineer, and widely known over southeastern Nebraska. There also survive one sister, Mrs. H. Herold Chester; and four brothers, Jim, Falls City; George, Wymore; Charles, Denver; Jack, Omaha. One brother, Will, died at Wymore twenty-eight years ago.

President Wells Has Many Troubles

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., April 14.—Troubles have come not singly in the family of President Wells of the Grand Island college. The latter part of last week he was advised of the death of his mother and left to attend her funeral at Palmer, Mass. Within a few hours of the funeral, a brother of Mr. Wells was seriously injured when an automobile in which he was riding went over an embankment. On the same day in this city, Mason, the little son of the educator, after a few days of sudden illness, was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The later is convalescing nicely.

Paige-Jewett In Record Month for Spring Business

March sales of 4,762 motor cars set a new month's record for the Paige-Detroit motor car company. This was a twenty per cent increase over the largest previous month—August of 1922 — three times as large as March 1922. These figures include Paiges and Jewetts.

This volume was secured despite the the railroad tie-up because of a large number of driveways. So urgent was the demand that dealers drove cars to many distant points. During the month approximately forty per cent of the total production was on the Jewett," said H. Krohm, vice-president of the sales division of the Paige company. "This is not because of lack of demand for Paige cars in proportion to Jewetts, but because the standards of workmanship set for the new Paige in the new Paige plant have made it impossible to get under way rapidly. We have insisted on the most painstaking care in assembling and finishing the Paige 6-70. The many added inspections, the painstaking and costly operations which have been added and the high quality of workmanship that we insist upon have meant that it has taken many months to really get under way on the new Paige."

Chicken Thieves Plying Vocation In Dodge County

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., April 14.—Kurt Larbrecht, 24, of Presser, and Max Keett of Kenesaw have been arrested in Lincoln as the chicken thieves who has been using an automobile to escape after raiding the chicken yards of Art Sweet and Earl Brugh.

Fremont deputies went to Lincoln Saturday to bring the men here. it is claimed the men drove a car of peculiar design that has been identified as the one that stopped in front of Brugh's house.

At this place 125 heavy young chickens were stolen and a neighbor stated the next morning that he had seen a strange car in front of the place as he was passing. Last year thievery of this kind caused Dodge county farmers heavy losses.

MORE ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT OF STATE THIS YEAR

Omitting Cost of Running Legislature Leaves Reduction Under Last Year.

Present Administration Paying Indebtedness Left by Former Officials.

With a regular legislative session adding $96,000 of extra expense during January and February, it cost the state government of Nebraska $29,000 more to operate for those two months than in the corresponding period a year ago. Without the legislature, the cost would have been reduced $67,000 during that time.

Governor Bryan's efforts to cut down governmental expenditures have borne some fruit, though the legislature's refusal to repeal the code law and carry out his other recommendations is keeping a number of activities going which, under the governor's plan, would have been eliminated. Among these superfluous or duplicated activities are the finance department, the bureau of securities, the legislative reference bureau, the state fire marshal's office and a number of others.

At the beginning of his administration, Governor Bryan declared that the state finances were in a bad way and growing worse because the preceding administration did not trim its expenditures to correspond with the $2,000,000 cut in appropriations made at the special session of the legislature in February, 1922.

A resume of the treasury outgo bears out the governor's assertion. While Mr. Bryan has succeeded in slashing expenditures in some departments directly under his control, there has been no general curtailment in spending. The blocking of his reorganization plan by the legislature will mean the continuance of many duplicated and useless activities which he had planned to cut off.

Paying Off Old Indebtedness.

When the present governor took office on January 4, there was a large accumulation of indebtedness left by the preceding regime, which the present administration is compelled to pay. If it had not been for this, the cost of running the state would have been materially reduced right at the start by economy steps which the governor has already taken, independently of the legislature.

For instance, Governor Bryan's energetic measures in stopping the use of mileage books and forbidding junket trips by his subordinates has resulted in the state's outlay for railroad fare being cut from $18,809 in January and February, 1922, to $11,17 for the same two months this year.

This is a saving of about 27 per cent.

Here are some more reductions achieved for the same respective periods in other items of traveling expense by state officers and employes:

Board and lodging, from $15,801 a year ago to $14,880; miscellaneous, from $9,175 a year ago to $1,690.

Transportation expense other than by railroad travel, which is mainly automobile hire, increased in the first two months this year, the total being $8,441 as against $8,152 a year ago.

Legislature Swells Some Items.

Printing is one item which shows a big increase, due to the huge outlay of the legislature for bills and for house and senate journals. The total expenditure for printing and related items in the first two months of 1923 was $34,016, compared with $11,455 a year ago.

"Temporary services," which means people on the state payroll for a limited period of time, also jumped from $27,328 a year ago to $40,260 this year. All legislative employes are figured in the 1923 total, which otherwise would be less than in 1922.

Postage is about a standoff, the comparison being $6,358 this year and $6,350 last. Here, again, the legislature is responsible for the increase, where the figures would have shown a material reduction if it had not been in session.

Miscellaneous expense accounts (aside from personal traveling expense) came to $16,314 in January and February last, while the total for the same two months last year reached $18,093.

Construction work on the new capitol, which had not been started a year ago, is mainly responsible for the doubling of expenditures for lands and buildings. This came to $146,749 in the first two months this year, against $74,167 during the same period of 1922.

Comparison by Departments.

Here is a bird's-eye view of what the state's money went for in January and February of each year:

Legislature—Last year, (special session), $3,356; this year (regular session, $99,765.

Code departments—Last year, $151,978; this year, $145,896.

Executive departments—Last year, $45,212; this year, $64,389. (The increase in this case is due to the fact that the preceding administration shoved most of its December, 1922, payroll over in January, 1923, so that it is charged against the new administration.)

Judiciary—Last year, $26,778; this year, $32,128. (To some extent, the same thing applies in regard to judges' salaries.)

Sundry departments (national guard, law enforcement, and others) —Last year, $232,946; this year, $189,450. (About $20,000 of extra national guard expense was incurred in February last year by the sending of troops to Nebraska City during the packing house strike.)

Special appropriations—Last year, $5,094; this year, $2,454.

Educational institutions — Last year, $592,340; this year, $633,524.

Penal and charitable institutions—Last year, $385,041; this year, $400,261. (This increase is due to growth of population and higher prices for foodstuffs and clothing for the inmates.)

Roads and bridges—Last year, $884,695; this year, $488,773.

Grand total—Last year, $2,027,442; this year, $2,056,450.

CHANGES DEPARTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—John H Edwards, of Mitchell, Ind., solicitor for the postoffice department for the past two years, today was appointed solicitor for the interior department by Secretary Work.

TREMORS DASH WAVES TO FURY AND MANY DEAD

ago, although the Hawaiian islands where heavy damage was done at the time of the prior shocks, the tidal wave yesterday was far less severe.

Scientists here, lacking detailed reports, did not care to venture specific opinions to just what was occurring out in the mid-Pacific. It was acknowledged, however, that the disturbance was due to earthquakes and upheavels of the islands or even appearance of new islands or even disappearance of small islands.

It was said that there are definite evidences of the existence in ages past of a vast Pacific continent, now entirely submerged and this gave opportunity for fanciful conjecture as to the possibility of this continent in the throes of a new appearance—an appearance which would require countless ages to complete.

Believe 100 Dead.

(International News Service.)

TOKIO, April 14.—Officials of the home office today awaited reports from investigators sent to Korea to ascertain the toll taken by a terrific storm which swept the southern Korean and Japanese coasts today.

Only meagre reports have been received on account of the demolition by the storm of communication facilities but at least 100 fishermen are known to be dead and hundreds of homes were swept away by the storm.

The full extent of the property damage and the full death list will not be known for days, it was reported tonight.

So severe was the storm that an American destroyer squadron was delayed for hours on its arrival at Yokohama.

Reports from Korea said thirty bodies had been recovered and that the beaches were being searched for additional victims of the storm.

It is believed that the storm during which the wind reached a velocity of three times its usual sweep may have been accompanied by tidal waves.

"The school lobby is spreading the misinformation that this new bill puts the maximum levy at 12 mills. Such a statement is absolutely false but it is in keeping with propaganda that the school system has employed for many sessions of the legislature in order to continue to strangle the taxpayer, until many of our public schools will be closed because of impossibility of the taxpayers to pay. These educational plungers will prove to be the enemies of the schools of the state.

"There is not a high school in Nebraska now operating on 20 mills but what can take off 2 mills and thereby actually make a more efficient school and a saving to the taxpayer.

Fair Average for the State.

"This present bill is absolutely and fundamentally correct. In the first place, since more than half of the schools of the state are operating on 12 mills, or less, this bill places 12 mills as a basis on which high school boards can, without a vote of the people, make a levy not to exceed 12 mills.

"If, in any community, 12 mills is not sufficient the people may vote upon the levying of more mills, going up to any amount not to exceed 18 mills. Such an election will be without expense, being done at any spring election when the members are elected to the school board, or at any fall election, or at any special election during the year that the board may see fit to request.

"Can there be anything more fair than to let the people in each community decide for themselves what they want to spend for schools. Anybody that would oppose this part of the bill is a person that does not believe in letting the people rule. He is a person who would rather that some clique or club or group in a community dictate what the taxes and expenditures will be rather than let the people in that community decide. Certainly, no one believing in our system of government will oppose this part of the bill that permits people to vote taxes upon themselves.

"Now as to the second part of the bill, some might say: 'Why make the maximum 18 mills?' The answer to that is that nobody obects to the theory that makes 20 mills the maximum.

Time to Call a Halt.

"If it is correct to make 20 mills the maximum, which was done during the flush times and the wild extravagance of a few years ago, is it not correct at this time under present financial conditions to lower that maximum just a little for the purpose of a general economy in school affairs over the state?

"There are just these two points in this new high school bill and the people of Nebraska I am firmly convinced, are at least ninety per cent in favor of this bill, yet by lobbying and misstatment of fact, the impression has gone out that the bill establishes a maximum of 12 mills, which is absolutely false. The maximum is 18 mills, which is just slightly under the prsent 20 mills.

"The worst thing that could happen to the schools of Nebraska would be for the legislature to adjourn and fail to make some effort to improve the efficiency of our schools and protect our taxpayers.

"This new high school bill will restore confidence in our school system—will give the people a chance to cooperate in school affairs and will prove to be the friend and supporter of our school system. Should this bill be defeated, it will mean that the schools will plunge along unrestricted without the cooperation of the voters in the communities until, soon in the future, the taxpayers will rise up in their wrath and upset the whole school business.

"Let the friends of the public schools support and get behind such moderate, fair and reasonable modification as offered in this bill, the Barbour bill, house roll No. 372, and by so doing, prove ourselves to be the friends of the public school and the representatives of the taxpayers of the state."

AUTOMATIC PHONE FOR TWO SUBURBS

New Service For University Place and Bethany In Effect Thursday.

Cut Over Will Be Made By Seventy-Five Men Wednesday Midnight.

"Number Please" is soon to be a thing o fthe past for the telephone patrons of University Place and Bethany. The final "cut-over" from manual to automatic service will be made at midnight Wednesday, April 18. A force of seventy-five men will be required to handle the work incident to this cut. Simultaneously with the transferring of the wires from manual switchboard to the automatic, a special force of men will be at wor kin the different under-ground manholes where the cables are placed and also on the poles splicing the wires and cables. Temporary electric light facilities have been installed for this outside work.

The new "M" office building is located at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and P streets, University Place. It is built of dark red pressed brick, trimmed with Bedford stone, and is of the latest fire proof construction throughout and designed especially for the housing of this modern automatic equipment.

Some five years ago officers and engineers of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company spent several months in studying all the factors of city and company development and growth, and from the data thus accumulated it was possible to predict with reasonable accuracy future telephone reequirements. The establishment of this University Place office marks another step in the completion of this fundamental plan of the telephone company for providing adequate facilities to care for the anticipated development of Lincoln and environs.

The changing from one type of telephone service to another is a complicated task and while the telephone company is taking every precaution to guard against interruption in service, never-the-less slight inconvenience may be experienced during so great a change. The telephone service must go on as heretofore up to the last minute before the change, then all service will be discontinued on the old system and the lines cut to the new. Thus, in less than five minutes some 1,800 telephones will actually be cut from manual to automatic service.

Say Seven Small Boys Had Part In Series of Thefts

An organized gang of seven boys, ranging in age from nine to thirteen years, said to be responsible for a series of thefts from the Randall and Noll electrical company, the Kosmeyer warehouse at Sixth and M streets, the O. J. King grocery and the Traction Company warehouse, were held at the detention home Saturday night after police allege confessions had been obtained.

The stolen goods consists mostly of electrical supplies, such as motors, batteries and radio head pieces. The amount is estimated at about $500, part of which has been returned.

The boys at first denied all guilt, according to Captain Walter Anderson and Detective N. F. Schneible, but finally admitted entering the buildings. They will be taken before the juvenile authorities, the police said.

When the appropriation measure is returned to the senate, it will still have to run the gauntlet in committee of the whole, where any number of amendments to it may be presented from the floor. Also, the senate finance committee's amendments will have to be considered and voted upon. There will be more or less debate on every added item, and in all liklihood the senate will take two or three days to look the bill over before acting upon it.

There will be some disposition among the senators to proceed with deliberation, so as to wear out the impatient house members who are clamoring to have the session cut short so that they can go home to their business or their farms. The more anxious the lower house statesmen are to hasten final adjournment, the more leisurely the senate may show itself.

Everybody expects that the senate will add items to the bill aggregating half a million to a million dollars, as the upper branch is usually less devoted to "economy" than the lower. This means that when the senate passes the bill the house will disagree to its amendments, and conference committees wil b appointed. They will meet and haggle over the differnce for a day or two. Finally a report will be made to the house and senate for their approval. By that time, the legislators will all be very tired of the game and most of them will be so thoroughly disgusted that they will probably vote for anything which may be dished up. That is the way practically legislative session ends.

Capitol Investigators to Report.

Early this week, the joint committee which recently investigated the state capitol commission's expenditures and contracts and the quality of the stone being furnished for the new seat of government will file its report with both branches. While the report will possess a good deal of interest to the legislature and the general public, it will not necessarily take up much time after its presentation, unless senators or representatives demand some further action.

It is the consensus of opinion that any further time spent on legislation dealing with the code will be time wasted. Even the republican house and the republican senate are in disagrement as to how it should be "revised" while the democrats are solid behind Governor Bryan for its complete repeal. It is fairly certain that any half-and-half bill which the legislative majority might pass to take off the rough edges of the code system without making a clean sweep of it would be vetoed by Govrnor Bryan, and there are not enough republican votes in the house to pass it over his veto.

Nine out of ten legislative observers predict that the session will end with the code law standing just as it now is, because neither side will give in to the other. The republican senate, however, will probably meet the democratic demand that appropriations be made sufficient to run the code departments, by adding the necessary items to the general appropriation bill.

Another Bovine T. B. Bill.

When the house meets Monday members will find another bovine tuberculosis bill on the list worked out by the sifting committee. This is H. R. 668, by Essam, a new measure appropriating $285,000 to carry on eradication work during the biennium, and not to be confused with the bill appropriating $75,000 to tide over the deficiency caused by the last administration, around which several fights waged in the early part of the session, before it was finally put to death.

The sifting list also includes H. R. 632, which would provide the state library commission with $25,000, and S. F. 24 which calls for a referendum at the next general election on an amendment to the constitution liminating the $200 household goods tax exemption, and making state, county and other governmental bonds, and public utilities owned by municipalities, taxazle.

Government Bureau Will Secure Jobs For Harvest Hands

Bulletins have been issued by the Federal Farm Labor bureau of the United States Employment service giving cutting dates for harvest fields in the "big wheat district." Men are urged to get in touch with government employment bureaus to get reliable information concerning jobs.

Nebraska, according to the bulletin, has four employment offices during the harvest season, at Lincoln, Omaha, Sidney and Hastings. Dates for Nebraska harvesting are given as follows: Southeastern district, June 28 to July 3; south central, July 1 to 5 and western, July 10 to 15.

No fee is charged for securing jobs or giving information by the government service.

Bulletins will be mailed from time to time to all interested. Application for these bulletins should be made to the Field Director, U. S. Employment service, 2014 Main street, Kansas City, Mo.

$10,000 Judgment Is Demanded In Alienation Suit

Judgment for $10,000 is demanded by Robert G. Townsend in a suit instituted in district court Saturday against William F. Sigler and Emma Sigler, parents of Townsend's former wife, Thelma Young Townsend, who is said to be an ex-soldier, claims Mr. and Mrs. Sigler alienated the affections of their daughter by inducing her to leave him and return to their home.

Townsend and the defendant's daughter were married in Lincoln on October 29, 121. He states they lived happily together in Lincoln until December 29, 1921. By "threats and intimidations" the Siglers are alleged to have induced their daughter to bring suit for divorce from her husband. District court records show that Mrs. Townsend brought suit for divorce on January 4, 1922, and was granted a decree of divorce on July 19, last.

ARREST SIXTEEN IN LIQUOR RAIDS

State and Federal Forces Make Drive in West Nebraska.

Wealthy Farmer Caught In Net—Some Defendants Face U. S. Charges.

Intensive activities of a raiding squad of federal and state prohibition enforcement officers in western Nebraska the past week, resulted in sixteen arrests for alleged liquor violations.

According to Tom Carroll, chief of the state law enforcement officers, this is the most successful and thorough clean-up ever made in that section.

Charges against those arrested are to be filed in both the federal and state courts.

The activities of the officers carried on in Cheyenne, Lincoln, Morrill and Kimball counties.

S. R. Baywright, a prominent farmer living near Sutherland, Neb., was arrested after the officers allege they found on his farm four stills, two of which were in operation, 100 gallons of mash, thirty-seven gallons of whiskey, and other articles used in the manufacture of liquor. Baywright is said to own 1,200 acres of land and several hundred head of cattle.

Joe Sigmund, living near Potter, is alleged to have had a quantity of mash in his possession. The officers say that a still was found in a straw-stack and a coil in the back of a threshing mchine. He was released by the federal court at Sidney, under $1,000 bond.

George Wilson, who lives near Hershey, was arrested after officers allege a still and a quantity of whiskey was found under a pile of snapped corn in the corn crib.

Minnie Bryant, manager of the Central rooming house at North Platte, was arrested on a charge of illegal sale and possession. She was taken to Grand Island for hearing.

V. B. Corgill, editor of a weekly paper at Kimball, was arrested on a charge of unlawful possession. Corgill pleaded guilty to the charge in the county court there and paid a fine of $100 and costs, according to the officers.

Francis Kronquist, a farmer living near North Platte was arrested on a charge of unlawful possession. It is alleged eight gallons were found in his possession.

Harry Clark a taxi driver at Bridgeport was arrested on a charge of illegal transportation and possession and a Buick automobile confiscated.

Alleged illegal possession and sale caused the arrest of E. G. Garret proprietor of the Dalton pharmacy at Dalton.

William Foster garage owner at Dalton was arrested and paid fine of $100 nd casts in the county court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful possession.

Charles Odell, of Bridgeport, is alleged to have had eight gallons of whiskey in his possession. A charge of illegal sale was also placed against him.

Jim Perkin of Gurley was arrested on a charge of illegal sale and possession.

A quantity of mash and whiskey but no still was found on the farm of George Doorak near Potter the officers state. The complaint charges illegal possession.

N. J. Parsons, proprietor of an oil station at Potter, was arreted on a charge of illegal sale and possession.

Oscar Rine and Frank Stevens, both of Sunol, were each arrested on charges of illegal sale and possession as was also George Rogers, who lives near North Platte.

In most cases the alleged offenders were released on bond.

STUDENT WORKERS TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Rev. Paul Micou and Miss Agnes Hall to Address Men and Women.

Rev. Paul Micou, secretary of the National Student Council organization, established in sixty-three universities in the United tates, and Miss Agnes Hall, assistant secretary, will speak to university students at 3:30 p. m., Sunday on student problems and methods of solving them. Rev. Micou who will address the men students, will speak at the Temple theatre. Miss Hall will speak before the women students at the University Episcopal church, Thirteenth and R streets.

The Student Council is an organization within the university student's Episcopal churches in the larger universities of the country. The purpose of the council is to deal with student problems.

Rev. Mr. Micou and Miss Hall came to Lincoln from the midwest province convention held at Northwestern university last week. Both Rev. Mr. Micou and Miss Hall are devoting their life work to making a study of student conditions in all of the colleges and universities of America. They are here to hold conferences and discuss student problems of every nature with students who desire to consult them. The Sunday afternoon discussions are open to all students of the university.

Rev. Stanley Cleveland, Episcopal student pastor of the University of Wisconsin, will speak at the University Episcopal church at 11 a. m. Sunday on the relation of school to the church.

Jerry Wedgwood Attempts Suicide

(Special to The Star.)

WILBER, Neb., April 14. —Jerry Wedgwood, an old resident of Wilber, attempted to take his life Friday by cutting his throat with a razor.

Although two deep gashes were made, he was unsuccessful in his attempt.

The wound was dressed by Dr. Hein and he was taken to the county farm, where he will be cared for.

It is thought the aged man became despondent over being alone. For years he had had the care of an invalid wife, who passed away a few weeks ago, leaving him alone.

COX SCORES HIT IN G. O. P. STATE

Gopher Legislators Applaud Plea For League to Make Peace Secure.

Candidate For Presidency In 1920 Speaks at Jeffersonian Banquet.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 14.—A plea by James M. Cox for a world league making peace secure won a standing ovation from the republican controlled Minnesota legislature today.

The 1920 presidential candidate addressed a joint session of house and senate this afternoon and was the principal speaker at a Jefferson day banquet of Minnesota democrats tonight.

An expression of regret that the League of nations was ever permitted to become a political issue, was his only political reference in his address to the legislature. He described Europe as he viewed it on his recent tour, and made an appeal for an evacuation of world suffering.

"There should be no disposition at this Jeffersonian observance to exalt over the colfusion in the ranks of the old guard in the republican party" he said at th ebanquet tonight.

"The mere circumstance of hundreds of thousands of republicans coming to the democratic view on international questions is sufficient unto our pjoy at this hour.

"In the presence of pressing world wide necessities, let us lose sight of any political advantage that might be attained and support any enterprise having for its purpose the repair of civilization. The Europeans are now fighting amoung themselves.

"The senate will approve of our membership in the international court. There is no necessity of a campaign in behalf of this proposition The public opinion of American converted the president and the secretary of state. It will be nothing loss than an amusing spectacle to see those recently converted attempting to appeal to the republican party on their accomplishments."

Mrs. Bandy Tell Prebyterians of Missionary Work

Mrs. C. H. Bandy, Presbyterian missionary from India, addressed about fifty Presbyterian young people at a banquet Saturday evening at the Grand hotel. The young people are holding a two-day meeting Saturday and Sunday in connection with the meeting of the Woman's Synodical society which was in session here Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Bandy told a great many interesting things of the customs of the people of India, of their big wedding celebrations, the child widows and of the cast system. She also told of the progress of Christian missions there. At present there are 5,000,000 Christians out of a total population of 350,000,000, she said. The speaker believes that the intelligence of the people of Asia will be felt in the world in a short time.

Brief addresses of welcome were given by Welch Pogue, president of the Pan Presbyterian club of the university, Presbyterian Student Pastor Dean R. Leland, Mrs. H. V. Hilliker of Omaha, president of the synodical society, Miss Maude Kinneburgh of Pittsburg, representing the Presbyterian board of freedmen, and Mrs. E. E. Lester of New York, representing the woman's board of home missions. Paul C. Johnston lead the singing and Oswald R. Black presided.

Vets of Foreign Wars to Hold Ball Thursday Evening

A Grand Military ball will be given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Thursday evening at Dreamland. The proceeds of the dance will be used to help defray the expenses of delegates from Lincoln to the national necampment at Norfolk, Va.

The Veterans orchestra, composed entirely of former sailors, will play. The members of the orchestra are Carl Brown, L. Flaherty, George Morris, L. C. Terry, H. W. Brandeen, T. B. Beatty and F. H. Weyand.

Arrangements have already been made to take this orchestra to the state encampment at Kearney in June. They will also present an eight or ten piece clown band at the encampment.

Reserve Officers To Meet Wednesday At Lincoln Hotel

Judge H. H. Wilson will address the members of the Reserve Officers' association at their meeting at the Lincoln hotel Wednesday evening. Judge Wilson, who has made a study of international affairs, will speak on preparedness.

Reserve officers from the Douglas county association and regular army officers from the corps area headquarters at Omaha will be present.

Information will be given concerning the summer camps and a discussion held. A large number of officers are expected to be present.

Dr. T. W. Jeffrey To Give Address

Dr. T. W. Jeffrey, of Kansas City, formerly pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church in Lincoln, will address the men's brotherhood of St. Paul's church, next Wednesday night, on "The Battlefield of the World War." Dr. Jeffrey has many Lincoln friends who will welcome this opportunity of hearing him again.

LITTLE DANCERS IN BRIGHT PLAY

The romance of distant lands and the charm that surrounds the fairyland of childhood dreams were presented in a gay sucession of events by darling little tots, pretty girls and one man in the dance recital presented by Donna Gustin and her pupils at the Orpheum theater Saturday evening for the benefit of the Lincoln Campfire organization. The audience filled the main floor completely and part of the balcony.

"A Day in the Garden" was presented in a setting of the huge plants one hears of in fairy lore, the striking colors of the background vying with the beautifully tinted costumes of the dancers most of whom were little tots. Irma Nell Waldo represented morning, and following her came the flowers. Madeline Brown, Ruth Burdell Mitchell, Bertha Jane Carr, Elizabeth Ann Regan, Mary Cody, Pearl Swenson, Ruth DeKlotz, Roberta Wehrman.

Katherine Grumann, the honey bee, came in next, an dthen Virginia Maloney, the butterfluy. A group of fairies danced into the garden—Martha Folda, Dorothy McKenzie, Elizabeth Gilbertsin, Betty Sain, Loreen Hager, Mary Parrice Mooney, Ethel Hughart, Gertrude Spere, Dorothy McGinley, Gertrude Sullivan and Mildred Richardson. The birds were not to be left out, and in came the bluebird, Margaret Coleman.

Jean Swift, as "Little Gold Bug" with shiny gold body and gold feelers, delighted the crowd with a clever characterization.

A flute dance was presented by Florence Bishop, Gail Smith, Alice Borner, Doris Gano and Ruth Warner. De Lellis Shramek in winged costume was the dragon fly.

Morning passed quickly and noon came impersonated by Maxine Ziemer. Immediately following noon a balloon dance was presented by Janet Austin, Dorothy Ann Sinclair, Jean Bendel, Mary Kathleen Wallick, Claudine Burke, Betty Ann Whitney, Sarah Ann Kauffman, Margaret Ellen McMaster and Betty Ann Clarke, who wore blue costumes and tossed balloons of a deeper tint. "Humoresque" was represented by Dorothy Fender in bright red costume, carrying a red balloon. Little Maxine Melers in night attire carried her doll and danced about singing "Bye Baby Bunting." Two demure little maidens, Filicie Giguere and Marjorie Swift, gliding about with a basket of roses, depicted "The Age of Innocence."

No event in a fairy garden could be complete without Curly Locks or Jack and Jill. Erla Gaddis was Curly Locks, and Mary Katherine McCrory and Jean Swift were Jack and Jill. The group sang "Bobby Shafto," and the following girls gave a parasol dance: Madeline Brown, Ruth Burdell Mitchell, Bertha Jane Carr, Elizabeth Ann Regan, Mary Cody, Pearl Swenson, Ruth DeKlotz and Roberta Wehrman. Harriet Abbott gave a dolly dance, Inez Reed in Pierrot costume gave an exhibition of nimbleness and Winifred Fender as Sleepy Head was able to dance in spite of her sleepiness. Invitation to the dance was extended by Elizabeth Gilbertson, Irma Nell Waldo, Dorothy McKenzie, Betty Yule, Virginia Richardson and Gertrude Sullivan. A special feature was "Valse Lente" presented by Gladys Patterson in colonial costume.

The toy soldiers, Mary Annette Comstock, Thelma Uter, Roma Dee Brown, Alice Mae Wikoff, Ruth McCormick, Louise Wilson, Dorothy Orcutt and Ruth Smith, were very brave until Ruth Ellsworth, the gardener, came carrying the statue "Lotus Flower" impersonated by Lotus Marjorie Corrington, and then they quickly disappeared.

A hush fell over the garden when night came—Lois Lyell in black costume. Between dances the garden was filled with young people, Dolly Dipple, Lillian Lewis, Ruth Ellsworth, Bessie Mae Knox, Marjorie Haley, Harriet McClelland, Bernice Johnson and Gladys Patterson. The boy who mocked at love, DeLellie Shramek, came just as they were leaving and presently fell asleep on the ground near the statue. Then in his dream he and the statue "Lotus Flower" danced together in the garden.

"With Spanish Gypsies" was the tittle of the second part of the recital. A group of care-free gypsies, Fleda Graham, Edna Leninger, Edith McKee, Muriel Price and Mildred Tapp, are in camp, and before them Lucy McReynolds dances "La Favora," "Coquetterie" is presented by Mary Coyle, Lorene Frye, Margaret Currie, Elinor Gustin, Bobbe Decker and Joy Mickle as slaves; Elsa Walbridge as an Arabian priestess; Irma Baker, Katherine King, Benice Ray and Nellie Lucile Vallier as flames. The fruit bearers, Katherine Grummann, Lois Lyell, Beatrice Northrup, Betty Gringle, Virginia Richardson, Irma Nell Waldo and Betty Yule, brought baskets of fruit as gifts.

Donna Gustin in brilliant gold costume appeared in a cymbal dance, and the caliph selected her as his new favorite. Evelyn Brown, Elsa Walbridge and Maxine Ziemer danced for his favor, but he scorning all others invited his new favorite to share his throne with him. To please him a dance was presented by Dolly Dipple, Ruth Ellsworth, Marjorie Haley, Lillian Lewis, Bernice Johnson, Bessie May Knox, Harriet McClelland and Gladys Patterson.

MARKETS

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

OMAHA, Neb., April 14.

CATTLE—Receipts, 500. Cattle were in slow demand today and with a fair sized Saturday run at hand, trade was dull at the week's decline. The week's receipts have been very liberal, around 35,500 head, and all classes of Nat stock showed a lower trend. Cows ranged from steady to 25c lower; steers sold mostly 25 to 35c lower and yearlings and light heifers dropped 25 to 50c. Stockers and feeders have been strong sellers on moderate supplies and are as high as at any time this season.

HOGS—Receipts, 8,500. Saturday's moderate run of hogs moved readily at steady to strong prices, 5c higher in spots. Trading was active with a clearance made in good season. Good quality light hogs and butchers sold at $7.85@7.90, with a top of $7.90. Packing grades were steady, sows selling at $7.00 and stags at $6.00. Bulk of sales was $7.85@7.90. Prices on the bulk of hogs are about 5c lower than at the close of last week.

FARMS FOR SALE

—SPECIAL BARGAIN—
In highly productive Dairy Farm, located close to Lincoln, with monthly income of $900. Herd of 29 head of select Jersey cattle, 21 head now milking, 10 head of heifers come fresh in November —all young stock and will show constant increase in production.
Improvements: Two small dwelling houses, large barn, silo, arranged for 40 tons hay, two silos 100 tons, milk house with complete equipment for handling milk, including one Perfection Milker, sheds, cribs, orchard, shade, never-failing well of pure water, 95 acres choice alfalfa, 12 acres bluegrass pasture, balance in cultivation.
All farm machinery, including one new truck, must go. Anyone who can fully appreciate the real merit and profit in this farm, you should look it over and investigate character of patrons, price obtained for product and the history of cleans honest methods that made this the foremost little dairy in Nebraska. Here is a real opportunity. Very seldom can you purchase a high class established business like this at any price. But ill health and old age compel owner to place this on the market. I am authorized to sell all the above described property for the paltry sum of $24,000. Possession at once, reasonable terms.

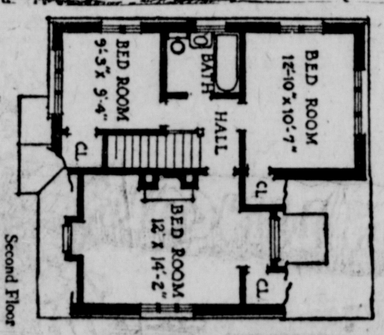
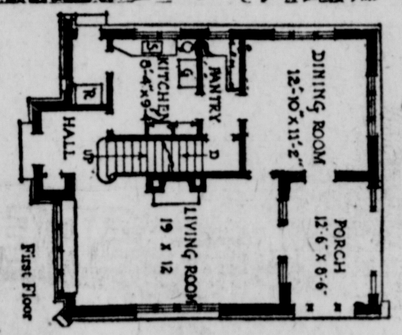
A Charming English Cottage





This adaptation of the English cottage show how charming and picturesque the small house can be made in the hands of a skillful and artistic designer. The casement windows with their vertical lines, the long sweeping roof lines, and the planting about the house all tie it closely to the ground and give an atmosphere of homiess.

The architect has given convincing proof that beauty in a house is not a matter of size and cost. The small house can be artistic when the fundamental principles of architectural design are applied tto it.

The intending builder will do well to study the plan of this house carefully for it is unusually compact and convenient. Every square foot has been utilized without crowding or crampling. The rooms are all of sufficient size to assure comfort and airiness.

The living room is nicely proportioned and is well lighted with attractive groups of windows. The location of the fireplace opposite the bank of casement windows makes possible a variety of interesting arrangements of the furniture. The location of kitchen, pantry and dining room is most concenient and practical.

The bedrooms are of good size and are exceptionally lighted and ventilated. The bathroom is conveniently located for all of the rooms. The basement provides facilities for heater, coal storage, laundry and vegetable room.

This house can be built on either an inside or corner lot, wide or narrow. It can face the street as shown in the illustration, or the long side of the living room may be the front. In either case the entrance should face the west to get the best exposure for the principal rooms.

The compactness of this house means economy of construction throughout, and the permanence of the materials suggested insures long life, low depreciation and elimination of repair charges.

Let's Talk It Over

IF IT IS A HOME YOU ARE BUILDING
You Want the Best

When you build a home, your intentions are to make that YOUR HOME for life. To do this it is necessary that you use the best possible lumber so that it will stand for years and when it really has become your home in every sense of the word it will not have to be torn down because you used poor lumber.

All lumber is carefully inspected before it leaves our yards and this is your guarantee that every piece is of the highest quality

If You Had Your Life to Live Over Again, What Changes in Your Mode of Living Would You Make? Lincolnites Give Their Views

BY LYNNELLE GREER.

If we could shed our past years as we would our unbecoming or worn-out rainment, and if we could don in their place, neat years, clean and fresh with hope, and bright with the vision of righting wrongs, years void of selfishness and petty jealousies, happier years—without the mistakes and heartaches—if we could find these in a 'Land of Beginning Again; what would we do with them?

"We would find all the things we intended to do

But forgot—and remembered too late.

Like praises unspoken, little promises broken,

And all of the thousand and one

Little duties neglected that might have perfected.

The day for one less fortunate."

Then we think of the little heartaches we have had, probably caused by our own misdoing, and wonder how many times we have hurt sometimes intentionally, more often unwittingly, another, whose feelings were as frail as our own. We think of the things left undone that would have lightened the load for someone else, or the things that were better left undone. Sometimes just one mistake will do more than a life time of regretting will undo. But if there were a 'Land of Beginning Again' an honest-to-goodness place where one could have a new lease on life, there would come the real test as to what past years have done.

"If I had my life over again from the time I was eighteen, it would be a vastly different one," said one woman. "I have had more than my share of sorrow, it seems. I have made one mistake after another, foolish things, that hurt only myself, however, that is myself more than any one else.

"In the first place, if I were to begin again, I would be the master of my fate. I would not allow myself to be influenced by others, no matter how well meaning and dear they were. I have suffered many times because I did not take the law into my own hands and say 'I will do this,' and 'I will not do that.' I have made sacrifices, foolish ones, that did no one any good. And now what do I have? Not even happiness of my own. Other people do not and cannot understand. Our life problems are something that we must think out for ourselves. If we dance, we must pay the piper, you know, but the price is high in the majority of cases.

"It seems to me that the one gift that would make the whole race of humans happier, is that of understanding. If you have that, the rest is easy. If you can excuse one's faults simply because you understand them, if you can forgive a wrong because you understand, then you are beginning to live, and will not need to begin again. But there are few of us who have that gift, and there are fewer who try to acquire it."

"If I had my time to come over again—well, there are so many things I would do differently," said a man who is a little past middle age, and who is considered quite successful. "There are so many things, that it would be hard to tell which I would do first. I believe the first thing I would change would be my ambition not as it is now, perhaps, but as it was when I would care to begin my life again. I was an easy going, lazy, sort of a rascal, who cared more for the frivolous than the serious side of life. I went to school, yes, not because I wanted to especially, but because it was the path of least resistance. I didn't go for what I learned, but of course I couldn't help but learn something. I don't believe I improved with age, either. I played around quite a little when I was a young man, and had many a good time at the expense of someone else. I drank, and did a little of everything that did me nothing but harm, and brought harm to all those I was with in association.

"If I could start again, now and have all that time over again, what wouldn't I do with it! I would go to school for the knowledge that was there, I would work hard, I would have had more mercy on people who cared for me, I would have listened to good advice when I heard it, and more than anything, I would make right all of the wrongs, and there were many. When I married, things changed, of course, and from then on, I have had a pretty decent, successful life, but the early years are the ones that count toward the goal of success, and the early years should not be wasted."

There is something pathetic about the wish for another opportunity, a wish that can never be granted. The selfishness within us is often eliminated as we grow older, but many times it is too late, then, to do the things that should have been done years before.

"It was selfishness pure and simple that robbed my home of children," said one woman whose chief regret is that there are no sons and daughters to help make her happy, now.

Selfishness a Fault.

"It was selfishness, because I never was satisfied. I always wanted more money, a better home, and thought that children would hinder the realization of these things. I have missed them horribly the past few years, and no doubt will miss them more the older I grow. Still, sometimes when I see how some parents suffer and sacrifice for their children, I wonder if I have missed so much after all. Then when I see some of the adorable children that other people have, I feel sure that my life has been misspent.

"The one thing in my life that I regret most of all seems to some people so be a minor thing, but to me it has meant awful things all of my life. If I had another chance, I would wish that my parents would teach me what it meant to be sorry and what it meant to one's self as well as to others, to be able to say so.

"Never in my life could I tell any one that I was sorry. I have lost friends, and have had more heartaches and caused more, simply because I never could apologize." This from a sweet little woman whom one would never suspect of doing things she had to be sorry for, but according to her own confession, she has.

"I have been just as sorry as could be," she said, but I never could say so. But my own two daughters have profited by my experience. That is the first thing I taught them to say, just about, 'I'm sorry,' for it does more to wipe away tears and grief than anything else, and is most conductive to happiness."

Life Is Too Short.

Life is too short to hold grudges and the like. Isn't one much happier to forget things and forgive them as soon as possible?

"Yes," said a man, whose chief regret seems to be his ultra-independence. "I have been so independent always," he said. "Or anyway, that is what I called it, now it seems to me nothing but foolishness. I always imagined I was in the right until recent years, when I discovered that I was in the wrong most of the time. I remember when I was still very young a family difference came up. I was sort of the goat of the family. I did and said everything that any one wanted me to, and then if I started anything no one ever gave me any support. Well, I had a quarrel with one of my brothers over a little difference, and

A Gilded Youth, Fresh From Prague and Paris Has Come to Spend a Year on a Nebraska Farm

Son of the President of the Czecho-Slovakian Senate Comes to Waverly Farm to Learn American Farming Methods First Hand and to Marvel at the Wonders of the New World.

IS AT WORK ON THE COSMOPOLITAN FARM

Amazed at the Liquor He Saw in New York in Spite of Prohibition — Amazed at Women Driving Motors, Amazed at the Speed of Construction, Amazed at Everything Except Our Butter and Our Sugar.

BY LULU MAE COE.

You who picture Nebraska farm laborers arriving on top of freight cars or via the more concealed rods, dirty, disgruntled, disheveled, frayed, bleary-eyed and grumpy are due for a shock.

Wednesday of this week a young man alighted from a Pullman. His tailoring proclaimed next month's styles, his shine all but dimmed the gleaming sunlight, and Valentino would have wept at the sleek hair. He resembled a college student, returning from a short vacation at home. One would have expected to hear him say, "Here, Alpha Kappa house."

Two smart and none too diminutive bags were obsequiously brought down by the porter. In the young man's pocket was a check for a very life size trunk, as well.

Nebraska's newest farm hand had arrived.

Joseph Prasek, late of Prague and Paris, now of Waverly, Nebraska, late gilded youth, now a Nebraska farm hand, son of the president of the Czecho-Slovakian senate and former minister of agriculture, was in our midst.

In spite of the Pullman, the patent leather hair, and the affluential parent, he is a back to the land young man, so back in fact that he has come to learn its secrets through hot blisters and strained muscles, instead of having them expounded to him from the comforts of a twin six by well intentioned but not well informed gentlemen. He has put away pride of race and position and has come to learn from the land at first hand.

Letters and Fate.

A letter from a legation to a consulate, a letter from a consulate to a university professor, and a letter from a university professor to a state

"So this is Waverly" said Joseph Prasek, as he stepped from the train—and who shall say his thoughts did not hark back to Paris, which he had so recently left. They did not hover over Paris very long, though, for he has come to Nebraska with a firm determination to learn everything possibls about American farm methods by actual work on the land. His father is an affluential member of the old regime in Czecho-Slovakia, but that did not prevent Joseph zestfully donning overalls and cotton gloves for a tussle with a tractor.

senator were the mundane means of bringing him here—but possibly perhaps Fate had a little part. He is to work upon the farm of Senator C. J. Warner in the vicinity of Waverly—the "cosmopolitan" farm.

"Cosmopolitan" it has been termed because young men from all parts have come there to learn the practical methods of rotating crops, of seeding and of performing farm work with machinery. Joseph Prasek is not the first. Before him have been, among others, two youths from Danish universities and a Japanese with a degree from the most respected college in his land. Hence, Fate may have played its little part.

And as those others have come, Joseph Prasek has come. He is a graduate of an agricultural college in Prague and has studied in Paris. While in France he made a survey of the farming methods in that country—but he was not satisfied. He desired to know much more about farming on a large scale, to absorb the agrarian atmosphere of a country whose farms number hundreds instead of dozens of acres.

His thoughts turned to that unknown country across the sea. Yes, he would like to know their methods—perhaps he some day would be called to the service of his home government as his father had been—he would like to know English, and—his student days were over, possibly a wanderjahr, the hope of every foreign born student, appealed to him. He had a bit of the wanderlust, and America seemed a happy Mecca in which to still it—and he came, in February.

Wanderlust might have brought him, but work is keeping him here. He owes his presence in Nebraska to a happenstance. Another young Czecho-Slovakian had registered at the legation as wishing farm work for the further study of seeding. When the opportunity with Senator Warner was offered him, he had already accepted another position. It was offered to Mr. Prasek, who had decided that to know of farming methods would necessitate actual work on his part.

He heard of it, he accepted it, and he is here.

Today, though, are the Parisian clothes gone. Emerged is the true American farmer. No Czecho-Slovakian working clothes adorn him in his working hours. Indeed, no. Rather, with his guide, Professor Orin Stepanek of the university, he insisted on faring forth to purchase overalls and a blue cotton shirt, and white cotton gloves—he refused to go toward Waverly until he had a couple of pairs in amongst the Prague waistcoats and Paris shoes.

He is Amazed.

Mr. Prasek is a good American already. He defends everything American, and does not wait for two or three years to admit the compensatory values of the exchange of the aesthetic atmosphere of the old world for the more material of the new. He likes American customs, American styles, American manners, and American people.

However, his likings were almost submerged in his amazements. He could scarcely converse with Prof. Stepanek for his continual surprise in Lincoln—and his American visit has been just one surprise after another. He was amazed at the quantities of liquor that he saw in New York—he had been told we had a prohibition law—he was amazed at the number of automobiles—he was hardly dared to cross the street in the last two months—and he was speechless at the number of women drivers. But he liked to see them, yes, he certainly did.

Being treated as all visitors are, he was taken to the new capitol site, and was overcome at the apparent magnitude of the new edifice—when the old capitol was in so good condition. He said:

"In Czecho-Slovakia, we would not dream of tearing down a building in as good condition as your old capitol. We could not comprehend of destroying a structure merely to replace it.

"In my country, in a town the size of Lincoln, it would be impossible to talk in such huge sums as you take as a matter of course. Five million dollars seems such an ordinary thing to you.

And you do everything so quickly. In Europe we do things slowly, consume so much more time in doing them. It would take ages for us to build a building the size of this one, which you will do in five years."

Butter and Sugar.

We said Mr. Prasek defended everything American, and we were wrong. He does not like our butter and he cannot understand our free use of the sugar bowl. He is accustomed to unsalted butter, and he cannot become used to our salty variety—and he does not desire to adopt our sugar bowl habit. He says that the first thing every American does is to put the contents of the sugar bowl on all his food—and his amazement comes to the fore once again. Our pastry is much too sweet in his estimation, also.

The new farm hand is very strong for American agricultural colleges. In the colleges of the old country, he said, all the education is technical and theoretical while here there is a happy combination of the theory and the practice. Here, he is hoping to make up the practical knowledge that the old world did not give him.

And he will learn—for he is sincere and expects to be just one of the laborers while on the farm. Of course, him—but that is another story. He him—but thart is another story. He has splendid physical development, for he is a Sokol in Prague, and they are the expert gymnasts of the country.

But we wonder if Paris and Prague can ever quite be hidden under blue denim, and if this boy who played on the Paris boulevards so short a time ago has an easy two years before him?

Radio News

By F. J. MOLES.

When it is desired to use a loud speaker with a radio receiving set it is generally necessary to have some kind of power amplification. For ordinary use this may be a regular two stage audio frequency amplifer using power tubes with high plate voltage. Whenever especially loud signals are desired, however, some other type is necessary because the regular amplifier either does not give enough volume or distorts the voice or music so that it cannot be fully enjoyed.

A circuit arrangement called the push-pull circuit has been devised to do the work and is now in common use in commercial apparatus. It gives the maximum amplification with very little distortion of signals.

It will be noted that the transformers in the above diagram are different from those commonly used in that they have a midtap on one winding. While tapped transformers are not easy to obtain quite good results may be obtained by combining two regular transformers in the proper way to do the same wark. In the case of the input transformers the primary windings should be in series and the secondary winding in series also. For the output transformers the primaries should be in series while the secondaries should be in parellel.

The tubes should be hard amplifier tubes or 5 watt transmitters and should have a plate voltage of from 100 to 300 volts. The grid bias battery is important as it improves the quality of the signals and prevents oscillation. The proper voltage depends somewhat upon the tubes used but will be between 8 to 10 volts. If five watt transmitter bulbs are used the filament rheostats may be omitted.

RADIOGRAMS.

Now that the nights of heavy static are at hand everyone is trying to overcome it as much as possible. One of the best simple methods discovered by extensive investigations carried on by the U. S. postal radio service is the use of a ground antenna. This consists of a well insulated (rubber covered) wire which is laid on the ground or even buried a few inches in the earth. It was found that such a wire used in place of the regular antenna gave fainter signals but also a much smaller percentage of atmospheric noises. A wire about 100 feet long is about right for broadcast reception. Loose coupling between primary and secondary circuits also helps in reducing static. Loose coupling cannot be secured in a single circuit set.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU COULD AGAIN LIVE LIFE?

my 'independence' kept me from speaking to him for a number of years. Do you see how silly that was? I was not harmed at all, and even if he had said some rather cutting things, he probably didn't mean them, but nevertheless our game of endurance lasted until just a few years ago, when I realized that he was getting old, and that I was not so young as I was once, and that the whole affair seemed so silly for grown-up men. I put my beastly independence in my pocket, went to see my brother, and told him just how many kinds of a fool I had been. Since then we have been the best of friends. He would have forgotten it years ago if I had given him a chance, but I didn't.

"To err is human, you know, and to forgive divine, and if more of us would practice that, and not go in for so much principle, and independence and other kind of rot, we'd all be pretty happy."

To Err Is Human.

It's a funny thing that all through life we hurt the ones who love us best, and are hurt by those we love the best, but it seems to be one of the unexplainable thing in life, that just 'is' with apparently no reason for it at all.

Possily it is because we are so sure of the "understandingness" of those who love us that makes this true. We know, or feel sure that they will forgive us and love us just the same, where we are apt to protect the feelings of a stranger for fear they may not.

One son tells us that if he could have his time to come again, if he could be with his mother those years again, he would never fail to let her know how much he loved her.

"We always wait until it is too late," he said, "and then we regret the little things we could have done and didn't all the rest of our life. I could have gone to see my mother more than I did, I could have had her come to see me. I could have been more considerate in many ways but I wasn't. I always knew that mother would understand if I said always too busy, or if this reason or that kept me from her.

Dangers of Delaying.

"Not only with our mothers are we that way, but with everything else. We mean to do good things, we have it in our hearts, the most of us, but we are slow, we put off until tomorrow what we could just as well do today and consequently when it happens to suit our fancy to spread a little sunshine, there is nothing for it to shine on."

And so, if we could look into the hearts of most people, we could find that regrets over balance the pleasures tenfold. Most every heart has a good many sore spots that are pretty well covered over with a pretence of satisfaction and content. It is only within ourselves that we give thought to our 'might-have-beens.'

If we could journey to the Land of Beginning Again, and start anew, all of the little heartaches and mistakes we have had in the past years, would only serve to make the new path easier.

"For what had been hardest we'd know had been best.
And what had seemed loss would be gain.
For there isn't a sting that will not take wing
When we've faced it and laughed it away.
And I think that laughter is most what we're after
In the Land of Beginning 'Again,'"

Letters from all over America

tell how this fresh corrective food is restoring health to thousands

Already we have received thousands of them. Hundreds more come every week—letters from men and women of all ages, in every walk of life.

All telling how Fleischmann's Yeast has helped them!

One of the most universal ailments is constipation. Comparatively few people realize what it means to be wholly free from it—the strength and vigor of a body really free from poisons. That accounts for the enthusiasm of many of these writers who have suffered from constipation for years, and now suddenly realize that they are restored to normal health.

Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast consists of millions of tiny living plants which soften and increase the bulk of the waste matter. This greater bulk gently encourages the intestinal muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

Every such action gives these intestinal muscles normal, natural exercise (something that violent cathartics can never do) and so gradually trains them back to a strong, healthy, active state.

Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle of relieving constipation by naturally exercising the intestinal muscles. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active—that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Fleischmann's Yeast, like any other food, must be eaten regularly to secure results. Eat at least two or three cakes a day—plain, or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal or the last thing at night. Get several cakes at a time—they will keep several days in a cool, dry place. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast! All grocers have it. Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

Constipation corrected—skin and complexion cleared—run-down condition built up

The following are typical extracts from the letters we receive every day: "Nothing equal to it as a strength builder and corrector of constipation"—"My vitality is back to normal and every morning I get up full of pep and ambition"—"Constipation has completely disappeared"—"The boils disappeared after the first week, and now I never need laxatives"—"I can truly say it has made me feel 100% better than I have felt since I left the farm some 15 years ago."

FOR BOYS ONLY.

The announcement of the plans for the third annual boy scout camp was joyous news to 850 Lincoln boys who are members of that organization. It ought to be good news to twice or three times that number. No part of the scout program is so beneficial and so well worth while as the summer camp which introduces the young man to nature and to natural pleasures.

With the idea of attracting the attention and arousing the imaginations of the youths of the city, the camp site was selected in the wildest, most undeveloped part of eastern Nebraska, in the Louisville bluffs along the Platte river. Heavily timbered hills and bluffs, overlooking broad stretches of the river, with high land for camping, steep bluffs for climbing and wooded trails for hiking have been leased for the use of the summer camp. Properly supervised, well fed, exercised and developed by sports, games and feats of nerve and daring, the boy who spends a week or two weeks or even the full five weeks in the summer camp has taken a long step forward in the most troublesome period of his life.

The boy's safety is well guarded. His health and morals are doubly protected. He is trained in such unusual but immensely interesting games as archery, marksmanship, horsemanship, boating, animal trailing and nature study. Add to these the comon boy sports of swimming, diving, hiking, ball games, fishinm and exploring a haunted house and you can realize that most of your own boyhood desires would have been realized in a week in such a summer camp.

The days are full from 6:30 a. m., to 9 at night. It includes one quiet hour, some periods of serious talks and discussions and plenty of time for eating and sleeping. Camp rules are strict and match with the scout code. The boy's physical, mental and spiritual nature are developed equally and while it is being done he is having a wonderful time. The fees for the camp are fixed as low as possible and are generally within reach of the boy himself if he works and saves his money. A cook is provided and healthful food is unlimited.

No clearer conception of the real object of the camp could be expressed than the one included in the camp pamphlet over the name of Prof. E. H. Barbour. His closing lines are these:

"Right here is where you can stand your boy on his biologic hind legs and can watch him turn his emancipated hands to acts of industry and his head to resourcefulness and initiative. You can paint a coat of tan all over him, you can pump pure air into his lungs, sunshine into his heart, red corpuscles into his veins, and wholesome ideas into his mind. You can open his eyes, his ears, and his pores, and let the lessons of nature pour in. You can strengthen his self-reliance and courage, quicken his wits, and cultivate his powers of observation.

"Perhaps one cannot tell just when a sapling oak becomes a tree, but if it is going to be straight, tall, sightly, sound, and have lots of bark on it, it must get into the open and hurry to do it.

"God help the boy who never knows
The bee, the butterfly, the rose."

RUSSIA'S GETHSEMANE.

If the news coming out of Warsaw is correct, Russia is shortly to face her supreme test. Nikola Lenin is again reported to be dying, and the information relative to Russia's dictator seems to be more authentic than that which has heretofore come out of the communist commonwealth.

When Lenin dies, admittedly Russia will need a strong man to bind the diverging communistic factions. Admittedly Lenin has shown a genius for organization which has amazed the world. Even the terrible bloodshed of Russia could not have held a less capable man in power. But with Lenin near death for many weeks, the solidity of the communists has been shattered, their own ranks broken, and a fierce rivalry for power has again focused world attention on that unhappy country.

In many countries of Europe there are thousands of Russian refugees ardently hoping that the passing of the Lenin regime may bring back the old order of things In this, if the information coming out of Russia is correct, they are doomed to many disappointments. While it is doubtful that the peasant of Russia has ever shared any real enthusiasm for communist rule, it is equally certain he has no desire to return to the old regime. He has had his taste of freedom, splashed in blood as it has been, he has seen thousands of his countrymen die in the great famine and for his tremendous sacrifices he finds himself possessed of a small tract of ground. But he understands himself to be a free man—the realization of the dreams and hopes of centuries in a land, where the light of liberty has been retarded for so many years.

There will be no permanent return of monarchy in Russia in the chaos following Lenin's death. It is more probable than even an attempt to restore the old regime, temporarily, will meet with quick rebuff. Great events are stirring in Russia with the expected demise of Lenin.

And into this whirling vortex of governmental confusion, the situation is further complicated when one reads the stirring appeal of the grand duke Alexander, calling upon Christendom to come to the defense of his hapless country.

"In the name of God and Christ I appeal to the souls of all my spiritual sisters and brothers. Awake, if you believe in God and Christ, or only in God. Under your eyes, in my country, Russia, 150,000,000 souls like yours, who have the same divine father in God, are suffering agony in their struggle for all that is holiest of holy for us and for their faith.

"The tyranny of government which is inspired by the forces of all that is evil, ugly and hateful, has declared desperate open war against God and Christ. Hundreds of thousands of Christians are being brought up in pure atheism and hate, and encouraged to live in evil, in ugliness and immorality. Think of the whole generations which the being prepared to poison humanity.

"To go on living, failing to remark this terrible calamity is impossible. You must also give moral support to my countrymen who still are true to God and Christ—who prefer death to the betrayal of their Father and Savior. I cry aloud that the duty of every Christian on earth is to help morally my persecuted epople."

This latest phase of the communist activities, in which God is openly mocked and reviled, coupled with the governmental difficulties, makes easy assumption that Russia's Gethsemane is near at hand.

IS THIS 1923?

A "whipping boss" of a convict lumber camp in Florida has been indicted by the grand jury on three counts, charging first degree murder in connection with the death of a North Dakota youth.

Following fast on the heels of the indictment, a joint legislative committee has been named to investigate the state's system of leasing convict labor.

One reads with horror, the story told in connection with the death of the youth. The state's attorney of North Dakota, who has gone to Florida to assist in the investigation of the alleged whipping, has given out a statement saying that deep gashes covered the boy's body from the head to below the knees, and scars covered his head, where the butt end of the whip had been used. Another witness testifying before the grand jury said she counted fifty-seven licks, and "got tired of counting." At first she said she heard screams but finally only the sound of the lash.

Another declared there were 107 licks administered.

Still another witness testifying before the jury told of his own experience in the prison camp. The first week he was in camp, the witness is quoted as saying, I was licked three times with a strap. The whip was about four feet long, four inches wide, and with a handle two or three inches thick. He said it laid the skin bare from the shoulders to the knees, so terribly that he could not sleep at night. The second time he was whipped, the wounds from the first beating were torn open, and still a third time he was given fifty licks, he declared.

Here we have a survival of the old prison methods, if the stories of these witnesses be true, but which have given way to enlightened public sentiment in most states.

Reading this story of unrivalled cruelty and abuse, one is reminded of the Middle Ages. The system of leasing out convict labor to private capitol still clings perniciously to the prison system of some states. It was only in recent years that Nebraska has been free from it, although fortunately no dark story, such as has come out of Florida ever disgraced this state. Only recently it came to the attention of the Nebraska parole board that certain Nebraska counties, retaining prisoners sentenced to the state penitentiary because of the crowded conditions prevailing at Lancaster, had undertaken to lease the labor to private individuals. The Nebraska parole board immediately took steps to stop the practice.

The Florida situation again challenges attention to the growing problem of maintaining reform and penal institutions. Scarcely a state in the union has adequate facilities to handle the growing criminal class. The problem comes home to Nebraska. With the penitentiary overcrowded, the legislature has shown scanty inclination to study the needs of the Nebraska prison and although provision has been made for one building it will not care for those already sentenced to prison.

There is no escape for the taxpayers in the obligation imposed upon him to provide properly for the care of those imprisoned for the taxpayer's protection. Leasing of convict labor as a partial means of meeting that expense is a practice which must call down the most severe condemnation. The necessity of providing employment for the prisoners can be met by permitting them to work on state improvement work, where the incentive to cruel practices of dicipline is absent.

While Aerica shuddered when it read the story of the Florida prison lumbercamp, it should recall that here is only another instance of present-day tendencies. Harsh as the indictment may seem, brutality seems to be uppermost in the world today.

Human life was never held so cheaply. Thousands are snuffed out annually by speed-mad automobile drivers. Only the other day, the wires told the story of a St. Paul man confessing to the slaying of a companion at the behest of the latter's wife for the sum of $5. His story to the police indicated he was only interested in securing the money. Every day bares its tragic story of destruction of life by gunsters, bent on robbery. Apparently we have become so calloused and hardened that life means nothing if its presence in any way tends to interfere with our plans and ambitions.

What a blessing would be conferred upon the world today, if man could be taught that his greatest enemy is flaming passions. One need not be deeply religious. Has civilization in 1923 carried us to the point of yielding to impulse? Are we to be swayed by momentary jealousies, hatreds, and blinding tempers? We boast of a civilization whose splendors outshine any age in history. Science, art, literature and industrial achievements shine with a radiance which eclipses any thing the world has heretofore known. We extend our arms to suffering peoples in far parts of the world, feeding and clothing them in their dire necessity. We undertake great humanitarian movements for the benefit of those less fortunate within our own borders. And then we slay—kill in cold blood—with the same primitive impulses of the cave man.

Verily, the record compells us to say:

Is this 1923, or is it merely a horrible dream of unrealities,

THE DINING CAR PROBLEM.

People who pay 75 cents for a half portion of bacon and eggs and 25 cents for a cup of coffee on a diner, may be surprised to know that a dining car is almost always a losing proposition and that it is maintained solely as a matter of convenience to the patrons of the railroad. The report of the Burlington Route, covering the year 1922, serves as an example of what it said to be the experience of all systems where dining cars are used.

Forty dining cars owned and operated by the Burlington served nearly a million meals during 1922, 990,360 to be exact, 24,752 meals for each car and an average of 68 meals each car each day. A dining car represents an investment of approximately $50,000 and requires nine or more employes to keep it in operation.

For the average meal the company receives 90 cents But the average meal costs the company $1.44 and on every meal the Burlington served in 1922 it lost 54 cents. On the total of nearly a million meals the total deficit shown on the books amounted to $535,573 and the cars were hauled over thousands of miles of track for nothing.

The cost of the meal which averages $1.44 is as follows: food, 54 cents; wages, 40 cents; repairs and renewals in car, 9 cents; superintendence and store room expense, 5 cents; laundry, 4 cents; ice, coal, fuel, cleaning, insurance and miscellaneous, 32 cents; total, $1.44. To the 90 cents average for the cost to the consumer must be added the tip of course but this is not included in the receipts by the company.

The reason for the deficit is obvious. A dining car must be prepared to serve to an indefinite number of customers anything on a menu of considerable latitude. Climate, temperature and altitude changes spoils much food and a large amount is wasted because the car must carry a supply which the average restaurant can get when needed "just around the corner."

The dining car is a necessity in long distance travel but its operation is apparently a convenience to patrons only and is kept as a necessary liability. Evidently we will still continue to pay 75 cents for the half portion and 25 cents for a cup of coffee on the diner but in the future we'll feel better about it, anyway.

JOSEPH PRAGUE.

Joseph Prague, son of the president of the Czecho-Slovakian senate, and previous minister of agriculture, has come to Nebraska to work on the farm of C. J. Warner, near Waverly. He is not the first of the visitors from abroad, who have come to this state to get a first hand knowledge of farming.

Young Prague is typical of his country. He likes American customs and the American way of doing things. Moreover he loves American people. Incidentally he is the representative of one of the newly created republics, growing out of the world war, which has gotten down to business and is making tremendous strides ahead. He is the type America is glad to welcome.

England Destined to Play Role As Savior to European Peoples Another Time Says Writer Gibbs

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS.

LONDON, April 14.—My weekly articles in which I have tried to analyze the European situation and forecast the development of political and economical forces have been rather sad and gloomy reading during recent months. That is not my fault. Earnestly as I have endeavored to look upon the bright side of this drama of life in Europe my duty as a truth teller as far as my knowledge goes has compelled me to record many dangers to world peace, many obstacles to the recovery of international trade and many causes of social calamity in the great countries of Europe. I do not wish, however, to gain a reputation as a professional pessimist or depress my readers by constant harping upon the black side of this international account. Let me try, therefore, here and now, to sum up once for all this present state of Europe and show what hope there is set against all the disillusion and despair.

There are in this year of history several problems of terrific importance to world civilization which must be settled soon, one way or the other. By the end of this year they will be settled and upon the wisdom or folly of that settlement the fate of the next generations will be shaped for good or evil, overwhelming tragedy or progress towards greater human happiness.

Some European Problems.

We may set out a list of these problems as though it were simple arithmetic. First, will Europe arrange for international peace or prepare for another great war? Second, will the United States cooperate in the work of world peace or stand aloof while Europe forms into new groups with hostile purpose? Third, will Great Britain with failing trade consequent upon the downfall of European markets continue to sustain its immense debts without internal strife, resulting in a socialistic government and financial ruin? Fourth, will French power in Europe and immense superiority in military aviation lead to a race for air supremacy with Great Britain, at present undefended, and future hostility involving many nations? Seventh, will revolution convulse Germany and create a social upheaval in central Europe, followed by revolutionary outbreaks in many nations? Seventh, will the economic and peaceful influence of the United States be thrown with full weight into a council of nations to prevent these dangers, which are mainly if not entirely due to international debts, Germany's failure to pay vast and unpayable indemnities, and French insistence upon those payments in order to obtain security by Germany's weakness.

Those seven problems represent questions of fate which confront the world today. Upon their answers depend all future history, not only in Europe, but in the whole world. I do not profess to answer them in any clear, decisive way. If I could do that, I should be gifted with second sight and prophesy instead of being a humble journalist painfully trying to see present day facts in their essential truth. But I think it is possible to balance probabilities, to estimate chances and forces, to say what is unlikely to happen while not saying what is going to happen.

Horrors of Another War.

Take, for instance, that first question of mine about peace or war to which all others are subsidiary. Now it must be admitted that the possibilities of war are not remote. That is to say, our younger generation now at school or in its cradles may be destined for massacre on a bigger scale than the world has yet seen. Poison gas experts are busy. Aeroplanes are widening their range. Submarines are getting ready for long voyages. Hatred and fear are maintaining big armies and disarmed nations like Germany are looking forward to the time when they will have weapons again. Great Britain is already nervous because France has four times her number of fighting air machines. In the British parliament and press there is a demand for equality and British taxpayers will have to bear new burdens to pay for that sense of security or at least to dull its sense of alarm.

If one takes my questions one by one, it will be seen that they hinge mainly upon France and Germany. Get real peace between those two nations, with security to both of them that they can pursue their ways without fear on either side, and Europe might then demobilize comfortably and regain economic prosperity. Can that be done? I am afraid not as long as the present mentality of politicians and peoples is unchanged. All depends upon the possibility of that change. I believe that this miracle as it seems may actually be accomplished. The truth is that the mentality of the peoples in Europe is not represented by their governments or by their press, to anything like the extent we are apt to imagine. In France there is hardly a whisper of disapproval of the Ruhr policy except in an insignificant section of the press upholding communism. Yet it is acknowledged by many Frenchmen that a considerable body of French opinion is privately alarmed and distressed by the imperialistic policy of Poincare and his masters. In Germany hatred against France has become passionate to white heat, yet it is probable that masses of German workers are pacifists who would resist any attempt to lead them into war after their late experience of that frighful blood path. Great Britain and all her people, high and low, are resolved to have peace and support peace at all costs save one, which is national liberty. At heart every country in Europe is pacific to the extent of revolting from the idea of another big war.

In spite of all hatred, fear, greed, or misery, there is this fundamental objection to war throughout Europe. That is not enough to stop war, if things drift on as they are now doing. That objection to war will be overthrown if other pressures become too great. There will be military alliance between Germany and Russia with a deadly menace to European peace if the German people think that is their only chance of preserving national life. There will be a race for aerial equality with France if Great Britain is led to believe that French policy is hostile to her peace and progress.

World Desires Peace.

But those things need not happen. Working upon the popular desire for peace, world statesmanship still has its chance of intervening. I have asked two questions about America. Has she any intention of intervening and acting on behalf of world peace? That in my opinion is, alas, exteremely doubtful. Despite a great and generous desire among many Americans to cooperate in Europe with a spirit of peace, there are national traditions and instincts which prevent the United States from offering their influence in European affairs with sufficient strength to enforce settlement. American opinion is divided sharply by the present policy of France in Germany and probably the majority of Americans believe that France is right in her action, both in wisdom and in justice. If that is so Europe cannot yet hope that America will act as arbitrator or as a benevolent creditor, and that destroys one supreme hope. I still believe that if a European catastrophe comes nearer, public opinion in the United States will swing in favor of urgent action to settle what Germany can and must pay and what Franie should and must accept. England is still friendly to France. English folk are still ready to make further financial sacrifice as proof of friendship. But they ask in return some proof of friendly understanding from France, some acknowledgment of debts, some slackening down in military preparations, some policy which will give peace to Europe while securing France herself.

Financially Great Britain is hard pressed, despite her hundred million pounds of surplus revenue last year, obtained mainly by turning the screw of taxation until capital was bled white. Labor is going to put up a hard fight for a living wage and some margin. English fields are going out of cultivation because the farmers are bankrupt and farm laborers refuse to starve. In many trades there strikes and lockouts because working men refuse a lower standard of life to the point of the poverty line. Socialism gains new adherents every day and capital is frightened, as well it may be.

If England goes under, Europe goes under, and much else with it. But I am convinced that England will alter without changing. There will be social revolution without blood or strife, money from some pockets will get into other pockets, but fundamentally England will stand solid and steady through the storm and stress of European upheaval. It is England that is going to be the center and rallying ground of all liberal, pacific and reconstructive thought in Europe. Many smaller nations are looking to her now. In her queer old way, so cautious, so diplomatic, so full of compromise and so farseeing in her simple, rather stupid but very wise way, England will save Europe, not for the first time in history. That is my firm hope and belief and therefore in spite of present gloom I hang on to optimism.

Rambling through Nebraska.

BY C. DURANT JONES.

One of the livest Methodist ministers in Nebraska is Rev. Louis H. Kaub, pastor of the church at Big Springs. He has been located there but a year, but he quickly sensed the importance of making a big, forward move, and it was not long after his arrival before things began to stir. A new building was needed and he has just seen a fine new plant dedicated free from debt.

Its total cost was $33,500, and through his activity, the money was all raised but $,000, before dedication day, and this amount was wiped out on that day and the building stands today with every obligation provided for. He worked on the building itself, and incorporated into the plant some of the most modern features, at the same time he was managing the financial campaign. Big Springs is a village of about 400 population, but the church would be a credit to many a town of ten thousand. Mr. Kaub also issues a monthly church paper, and in addition, takes a keen interest and a big part in community affairs.

The people in the village, both in and out of his church, count him one of the biggest preachers ever working among them, and his boosters are the entire list of his acquaintances.

The beet growers of western Nebraska are signing up the contract offered to them by the sugar company, but there are many sounds of dissatisfaction heard in the beet country and to a man up a tree it looks as if there were good grounds for complaint. There are some facts which thus far have produced an inexplicable situation and until there is a satisfactory explanation, both the producer and the consumer are going to carry some sore spots. The beets grown in 1922 brought seven dollars per ton. The sugar company offers a new contract providing for an increase of fifty cents per ton, but the hand labor, for which the grower must pay, in the cultivation and gathering of his crop, has been raised from $18 to $21 per acre. It is stated that a ton of beets will produce 256 pounds of sugar, for which the consumer has been paying about $25. It is also stated that the by products from the beets will pay for the millage. This leaves a spread of $18 between the costs of the raw and finished products. The day is not far distant when there wil have to be a readjustment of the matter or the beet growers will turn to other crops.

For they know that other crops, such as corn, can be grown on the beet ground, with fully as much profit.

For some years, the Methodist and Congregational churches of Harvard have merged their activities in a federated church. Federation of denominational bodies sounds well as a theory and much experimentation has been done along that line. But it has been decided by the two bodies at Harvard, that they will "unscramble" the federated body, and each will resume its former individuality. The fact is that federation between religious bodies of opposite theorological beliefs can never be an assured success, for as long as people hold to differing religious tenets they can never be effectually united. Oil and water do not mix, religiously or otherwise. When religious bodies agree upon some basis of or organic union, then success wil come. The Methodists at Harvard have secured a pastor for themselves, and the Congregationalists are going to do likewise.

Editor Don Dey Ermand of Dalton, says that his town has been second in the amount of wheat shipped out, of all the towns along the Burlington road. But that therein lies a reason for the financial depression existing in his section. Wheat has not been a profitable crop the past two or three years, and this is driving many of the farmers to plant other crops, which they believe will be more profitable. While Dalton may lose the place she has held as a wheat shipping point, yet it is expected that greater prosperity will result from the diversification of crops.

Denver, the metropolis of the Rockies, is having a building boom such as has not been known there for years. There are practically no vacant houses and new houses by the hundreds are in process of erection. It is but a few short years ago that a drive through the residence section of that city revealed empty houses by the hundreds. But all this is changed now. There is a big demand for apartment houses also, the loudest call being from travelling men, who wish residence conveniences that will make easy work for the wives who must run things during the absence of the husbands. The principal danger in the building situation in Denver is that of running too much to high priced apartments, that cannot be afforded if there is a general lowering of price levels. If the price levels are lowered, it will mean rentals that will not be remunerative. But for the present, the west is pleased at the improved condition of Denver, and is not inclined to worry any about the future.

The Nebraska Press

Cantaloupes.

(Platte Valley Daily News.)

Whether this valley shall undertake the launching of a new industry that should in time, mean hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of wealth produced here, will be determined Thursday evening when the fate of the cantaloupe is decided at a meeting at the, city hall at, 8 o'clock.

All that is needed to test out the possibilities of cantaloupes, is the signatures of forty growers on contracts to plant five acres apiece.

There is every indication that if the necessary acreage is secured within the necessary proximity to Scottsbluff, that next summer will see shipped from this place, a score or more carloads of cantaloupes bearing the Scottsbluff name and label and proving to those who love melons, that Nebraska can grow them better and sweeter than any other district in the United States, not excepting the Rocky Ford region of Colorado.

Sale of the first year's crop is made certain, although it is not so sure that the profit will be realized. However, the first year should be considered an advertising venture. for the name and brand must be impressed upon people before they will create the demand that will mean an assured market in the years to come.

The News hopes that no rival industery will be permitted to overshadow and crush the cantaloupe industry in its first beginning in this valley. The experiment holds so much of promise to this region, that it will be a great loss, indeed, if it is not permitted to be carried out under the most favorable auspices.

Sugar and Flour.

(Norfolk News.)

"Americans today," says a Washington dispatch, "are using half as much sugar as flour for food."

If this is true, higher prices for sugar are not wholly bad. They may be little less than highway robbery, so far as the morals of the sugar speculators are concerned. They are unquestionably higher than they ought to be according to the law of supply and demand or according to the normal rate of profit expected by the industry. Nevertheless, if higher cost cuts down this excessive consumption a little, it will be a good thing for the American stomach, as it proved to be during the forced sugar scarcity and high prices of war times.

A moderate quantity of sugar is admitted by everyone to be a useful stimulant and a valuable adjunct to the diet, except for diabetics. But most doctors agree that since the recent increase of production and lowering of prices, consumption has been immoderate, and that too much candy and too much sweet stuff with meals lead to all kinds of digestive troubles.

As between flour and sugar, there can be no question which is more valuable. People had better eat more flour, and farmers had better raise more wheat.

Unistatians.

(Norfolk News.)

Dr. Magoffin, professor of history at Johns Hopkins university, suggests that the people of the United State adopt the name "unistatians" in place of "Americans." The name already has been received with favor in some circles, and editors of one dictionary proposes to give it a place in their book as soon as it becomes a little more generally used.

Professor Magoffin has found in his extensive travels that the term "American" is often confusing to people of other countries because to them it may indicate North America, South America or any of the countries included in these continents. He holds also that it is historically wrong, as are "Columbia," "Cabotia" and others of the various titles sometimes used as suggested in place of America. It is pointed out that "Unistatian" is properly compounded from the words United States. It is easy to pronounce and to spell, when you once get used to it, and would leave no confusion in any mind as to what country it meant.

So many traditions and sentiments, however, cluster around the word "American" that it probably will be a good while before any other title supplants it.

PEACHES AND PERSIMMONS.

The soviet government is clever, at that. The colection of Russian crown jewels is now intact after being sold in America 187 times.

The difference between an immigrant and a lecturer is that the immigrant is content come a cross.

HOMER BALMY TAKES PEN IN HAND

By L. H. Robbins

The Marriage Problem.

Judge Ben B. Lindsay,
Denver, Colorado,
Dear Judge:

I see where you are a quite a little alarmed because divorce is slowly but gradually catching up with marriage in your section.

Only a few brief years ago the percent was four to one, and now it is two to one and still gaining.

The same way in Chicago, I hear, where 39,000 couples team up per annuam, while in the same year 13,000 are an unlucky number and get themselves unhitched in court, not counting the pairs who simply resign from each other and say nothing about it.

So I write and ask you, Mr. Lindsey, if this is due to something in the climate of your city and Chicago, or is it the same all over?

And if so, would you recommend me to take a chance and become a benedictine at this juncture, with the matrimony outlook so risky-looking like it is, or would it be safer and easier on me in the long run to take a vow and be a celebrate right from the start?

I am a healthy, let me say, as well as earnest young man with a pleasing disposition and willing to settle down and do all in my powers to make a go of double blessedness.

But at the same time, sir, I am not stuck on being stuck for $50 per month alimony, we will suppose, and have nothing to show for it but a cold and unfeeling receipt from some bald-headed lawyer's clerk.

I would not care to have to support a lady and at the same time do my own mending and eat at restaurants, you can readily understand.

It would be no particular bliss to maintain a luxuriant home for one who had adopted a policy of isolation in my direction, I imagine.

There is a certain lovely young girl, to be perfectly candied with you, Judge, of whom I am a quite a little fond of, and it is as mutual on her side as mine, although this is strictly confidentual between you and I, please to remember.

Yet with this epidermic of divorce proceeding through our vast country like a devasation, and so many of the fair set turning in their keys and going shopping for a degree every sunny day, how do she and I know but what I will come whistling home ready for my supper some evening and find the blinds down and the canary gone and the ice box pan running all over the linolium?

Think of going to the expenses of a dress suit and a minister and an overstuffed parlor set that sets you back around $480, and then have the sweet cause of all this outlay walk out on me, with the lease still six months to go and second-hand furniture a drag on the market.

Some men may have callous souls and not mind a whoop if their wife breaks up the home ties on them in this harsh manner, but I would not enjoy it to suddenly be the left half of a split affinitive, I assure you.

And still I suppose it is better to have the merry peal of the wedding bells repealed by the separations and reparations method, than for a lady to dispense with her husband by blowing his ear through his cerumbrellum with a 44 caliber Smith and Weston some stormy night when he is peacefully dreaming of a Bengal tiger chasing him.

I read in the papers of about three of them per diam committing temporary derangement like that almost every day nowadays, and only this week y father is on a jury exhonorating a fair defendant who retired her better half with a double-barrelled shotgun, I tell you, Judge, it makes a young man hesitate and apuse.

My Uncle George says what else can we expect in this liberal age? We take our daughters to the Boardwalk and incite them to shoot at the birds in the shooting gallery, he says. We drag them to the western movie dramas and fill their tender minds with strange wild ideas, and then they marry some unsuspicious young man with the prom-

So many domestic relations waiting in line for you busy judges to put them asunder.

Think of going to the expense of a dress suit and an overstuffed parlor set, and then have the sweet cause of all this outlay walk out on me, with the lease still six months to go.

ville skit, is because so many ladies are going into industry, because naturally when they have a salary they do not need husbands as much as a lady without spending money.

But again, Mr. Lindsey, would so many of them be heading downtown at a quarter of 8 a. m. if their men folks hustled harder to bring them pretty engravings from the Federal Reserve to brighten up the home nest for a little change?

And once more, would the men be such lean providers if the women folks made the home worth a little more effort in behalf of?

It is a mixed up question, sir, but I guess that if men were better men and women were better women, that there would maybe be fewer marriages turning out blank all the time.

I guess that marriage has to depend on human nature after all for whether it is a howling success or otherwise.

How we can improve human nature when everybody is so rushed is a large question which I have not had the time to tackle as yet.

But at least when more young people worry a little beforehand like what I am doing, Mr. Lindsey, I will bet you that our courts will not have so many domestic relations waiting in line for you busy judges to put them asunder.

Is marriage a failure. Yes, sir very time a failure gets married.

Cordially yours,
HOMER BALMY.

Lincoln Ministers Relate Interesting and Laughable Tales of Marriage Ceremonies

One Bride Unhesitantly Admitted She Did Not Know Intended Husband, Another Took Revenge at Altar—Many Grooms "Queer."

BY LULU MAE COE.

"Here comes the bride" thrilled through the hushed stillness of the gathering.

The guests were gathered for the ceremony. Every handkerchief was ready to catch the first lachrymose flow of sympathy for the about-to-be married. Each eye was fixed on the stairway, down which She and her attendants would come. Not one would miss the first glimpse of the wedding party.

A shriek rent the air.

Silver slipper and silver bandeau hurtling downward made a comet-like streak of brilliance in the half gloom of the old stairway as maid of honor had never entered before. Flowers flew like soft colored sparks before, behind, and beside the falling figure. It stopped suddenly as the gleaming bandeau rested on the hall floor.

The guests gasped. The bride approached—not having stopped her dignified entrance—gazed for a moment upon the prostrate figure, kicked out of her way a few rose petals, and went forward for better or for worse.

Tears changed to all but invisible giggles as the usher picked up the fallen maid of honor, dusted her off, and sent her upstairs to powder her nose.

Not exactly comme il faut for the maid of honor to enter headfirst but it did happen—

And many are the odd and curious things that have happened since and ere that young maid of honor performed.

This Groom Paid Dearly.

Not so long ago, so one minister tells, at a large and fashionable wedding, the bride evidently took extra time to arrange her veil, for she was a little late at the church. The groom, probably an efficiency expert, chided her when she did put in appearance. Among his chidings he made the genial remark that she would pay for this.

Outwardly demure and sorrowful at the havoc her tardiness had wrought, but inwardly in a very unbridelike frame of mind, she took his arm and journeyed down the aisle. All went merry as the traditional marriage bell until the minister inquired if she took this man for her wedded husband or words to that effect.

The bride did not answer. The minister repeated the question.

The bride stared stonily at him. The minister thinking her deaf repeated his question, rather more loudly. It produced the desired effect.

"No," said she in accents as chilly as the groom's a few moments before and as definite as the question had been.

The guests were dismissed, deprived of one wedding ceremony.

A certain local minister tells a story, a wedding story, but one in which the joke was on him, instead of the participants.

It was a stormy night, and the groom sent a taxi for the officiating clergyman, and came himself to the parsonage for him. He was invited in while the minister put on his coat and hat and prepared for the ride. The minister had just opened the door, preparatory to leaving, when a voice called out from upstairs, a voice whose carrying powers was not impeded by weak lungs:

"Uncle, Uncle."

"Yes, what is it?"

The minister and the groom had stopped by the open door. As people do when listening and waiting, they looked directly at one another, with a peculiarly direct stare. While in this attitude, the minister was waiting for his nephew to continue—which he did.

"Uncle, success to you and a ten dollar bill."

The groom was of a humorous turn of mind and enjoyed the incident, though the minister's feelings may be imagined.

Fee Still Lacking.

A minister of one of the largest down town churches formerly had a charge in Indiana. At one time he was asked to officiate at a large wedding. A special train brought the groom's family from a neighboring city and the bride was dressed in the height of style. She had all the attendants and decorations suitable for the occasion. Naturally, the minister visioned a fairly large fee in the face of such elaborate display. To date—and that was several years ago—he is yet waiting for his fee.

His monetary troubles have been numerous—and laughable when the occasion had passed some time. A man and a woman came to his home one day, with the usual purpose of matrimony in view. The ceremony was performed and the clergyman received the sum of one dollar for his services. When the new husband left, he took, never to return, the minister's very new hat and left his ancient one. At another time, an elderly couple came to his home for the ceremony. They had no license, which the minister remedied by hurrying out to buy one. He bought it, and the bill is still due, as well as the bill for his fee.

This same minister tells of attending as best man a marriage in which a pecularly direct stare. While in this attitude, the minister was waiting for his nephew to continue—which he did.

When the new husband left, he took, never to return, the minister's very new hat and left his ancient one. At another time, an elderly couple came to his home for the ceremony. They had no license, which the minister remedied by hurrying out to buy one. He bought it, and the bill is still due, as well as the bill for his fee.

This same minister tells of attending as best man a marriage in Berlin of an American and a French girl in a Russian church and of the ring at the crucial moment rolling far down the aisle, dropped by the nervous bridegroom. The best man promptly took off a plain ring he wore, and the couple were safely married. Not all go off so well, though, for at one time the man did not appear for his own ceremony. The service and the guests waited and waited but finally gave up in despair. He married the girl to another man about three years later—so she may have been delighted at the first fiasco.

Bride Very Frank.

One minister who has spent quite a large share of his life in the Orient performed the service at a native wedding. In this particular ceremony, the young bride was asked if she loved the man enough to take him as her husband. Not in the least embarrased nor inclined to be diplomatic on this important day, she answered without hesitation:

"How do I know. I don't know him."

Having spent so much time in foreign countries, this clergyman, when he first took a pastorate in this country, was rather unused to many minor customs in the performance of the ceremony. He knew that a minister does not ask any sum for the service, but he had not learned the phrase "Anything you care to give." To the first man asking the question, how much is it, after the ceremony, he innocently said, "Oh, nothing at all," though he did think a small fee would be forthcoming. "Thank you very much" the groom answered, and departed with his fair bride. A second said that he would see the minister tomorrow, but like so many tomorrows, it has never come.

A Stubborn Groom.

One of the Lincoln ministers was called out to one of the smaller towns in the state, where he found a real "waiting at the church" affair. As usual the guests—they are always present whether any one else is or not—had assembled. The bride was there, and the minister. Five minutes passed, and the groom did not appear. Ten, and he was absent. Fifteen, and he was among the missing. At the end of half an hour, the guests were invited to go to their respective domiciles.

The to-have-been bride confided to the minister that she had been afraid that her fiance would not come. When questioned, the girl admitted that he had said he would not, if she did a certain thing. He had not wanted a certain guest to be invited, upon which the girl had insisted. He had taken his stand, the guest had been invited, and had come, and the groom did not appear. These two arranged to be married again some time later, quite a while later, but at this time the girl changed her mind, and they are still unmarried—at least to each other.

Speed Was Necessary.

New York has been the scene of many a peculiar romance, one of which a Lincoln minister had a small part in. One night up in northern New York he was called to the door by a man wishing to be married. Questions brought out the fact that the woman was in front of the house, and that they were ready for the ceremony. The minister questioned them a little more, finally asking each one if he had been married before.

"Oh, yes," said the man with the utmost nonchalance "my wife's up in Canada, but we thought we'd get married before she came back."

They did—but not by this particular minister.

People do wear gloves at marriage ceremonies, but none quite equal those of a civil war veteran who halted the ceremony while he hauled out with much puffing and panting a pair of fur lined gauntlets and put them on before he would join hands and proceed with the nuptials. Worse than the girl who insisted on taking off both gloves during the ceremony, so that her left hand might be bare, as another minister tells.

One man certainly could be approved for his very worthy attitude toward the ceremony. He seemed to feel that the whole service was an oath and it was impossible to get him to act in a normal manner—even though he intended the best. When the minister said "join hands" he, either confused, or thinking that he was about to take an oath, raised his right hand as high in the air as possible—fairly purple in the face from stretching.

Sincere At Least.

The minister—who always knows that people are nervous during the ceremony and take account of that fact—mildly asked him to join hands again. He stretched further toward the ceiling, if that were possible. A third and a fourth request brought the same unmoving response. The minister was contemplating showing him the method desired, when the bride became suddenly exasperated. She leaped into the air a couple of feet, grabbed the man's hand, and soundly grasped it with hers, saving the day but causing the man to all but pass on with apoplexy, to judge from his visage.

There are so many funny things, in the ceremony, from the minister's viewpoint. The little slips, the queer misunderstandings, the odd occurrences, some that no one else sees. No minister who is without his experiences in the matrimonial ceremony—for others. Funny, they are, but he cannot laugh, peculiar, tragic, and sad. But the saddest ones are to Mrs. Minister—the lacking fees than can not be added to the new dress fund.

Campus of "The Greater Midland College" at Fremont

Midland college at Fremont, Neb., is getting ready for an extensive building campaign. The above campus plans, presented by the architect, have been accepted by the executive committee of the institution. The new and spacious administration building will form the center of the campus. The boys' dormitories, at the left of the picture, will accommodate approximately 250 boys. The gymnasium, back of the boys' dormitories, will be one of the most modern and complete buildings of its kind in the state. It is planned to connect the College commons with the gymnasium, thus giving the institution a spacious banquet hall with a seating capacity of about 500. The beautiful girls' dormitories will give the yound ladies of the institution all modern comforts and conveniences, thus assuring them of a homelike atmosphere. On the right hand side will be located the new science hall, the libraary, and a recitation hall The buildings, when completed, will be large enough to accommodate 2,000 students. At the present time the architects are preparing plans for the central heating plant and the gym.

Midland college was moved from Atchison, Kansas to Fremont, Neb., in the fall of 1919. Since that time the college has had a remarkable growth, unequalled perhaps by any other institution in the state of Nebraska. The student body has more than doubled within the last three years. New departments have been added, and the faculty has been enlarged and strengthened. During the past year the college state championship was won by the Midland football team.

At the present time plans are also being made for an endowment campaign which will put Midland on an equal footing with any institution of higher learning in the United States.

Wesleyan Affairs

The last debate of the season will be held with Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, Tuesday evening, April 17, beginning at 8:15. The question will be: "Resolved That the United States should adopt a system of responsible cabinet government similar in principle to that now in force in Great Britain." Wesleyan will uphold the affirmative with Joseph Downs, junior of Beatrice, Gifford Bas, freshman of Mason City and R. H. Chenoweth, sophomore of University Place. Cornell will be represented by George Whittaker, a senior, Russell Lemoke, freshman, and Ralph Kharas, senior. The Cornel coach, Ralph E. Himstead, will accompany his team. Two of the judges will be George N. Foster and Manley O. Phelps. The contest will be a hard fought one for Cornell has an excellent forensic record.

Dean Parvin Witte of the Wesleyan college of fine arts, announces that contest of both girls' and boys' high school glee clubs will be arranged for Wesleyan high school day, April 27, providing four or five clubs register for this event. Those interested are asked to communicate at once with Dean Witte, White building Nebraska Wesleyan campus, University Place.

Dean Parvin Witte of the Wesleyan college of fine arts has been invited to give a song recital before the country club at Hastings on May 16.

A request came this week to the Nebraska Wesleyan lecture bureau through Richard Kellogg, from the ladies of Filley, Neb., for a speaker for a mothers' and daughters' banquet to be held there on April 27. Miss Ethel Langdon of the Wesleyan library will fill this engagment.

Superintendent J. H. Adee of Dawson, Neb., has asked Prof. Beulah G. Champ to provide the commencement program for May 25.

Plain, Polished, Mahogany Frame Holding a Copy of a Great Paper, and a Bit of Interesting History

To most folks mahogany means tables and chairs and pianos—they would not consider it as beams or floors or anything so ordinary as those Dr. Lida B. Earhart at the university has proof, however, that the beautiful wood is used in so unusual capacities in one of our best known public buildings. The frame is the proof—but that is only part of the story.

BY LULU MAE COE.

It is not very pretentious in its appearance. It is not really beautiful as a whole.

Hung in a gallery, men and women would give it the most casual of glances. The document might be pointed out to children, but that would be all. The Sargents, the Corots, the Raphaels would claim them without a backward glance at the plain looking document in its austere frame.

No lovely tints of blue with gold flecks running riotously on it in this frame. No vague hints of green showing through rose in a frame made for the glory of sun set clouds. No periwinkle daintiness hiding behind a deeper purple as a surrounding of a dawn picture.

Just a plain brown frame, so smooth in this day of bumpy beefriled frames. Broad, unadorned, yet rubbed until its rich brownest is of satin sheen. Severe, substantial, as the document it frames and yet beautiful in its smooth perfection.

And a woman is very proud of it. And she is justified in her pride.

The document is a fascimile of the Declaration of Independence. That is only incidental, a background for the frame, perhaps.

Quite a good many years ago, elevators were installed in the Department of State building in Washington. To do that, of course, it was necessary to take out portions of the floor. Workmen threw the beams and the flooring carelessly to one side—preparatory to give it a trip to the dumping yard.

Mahogany Flooring.

An employe of the department walking by one day curiously glanced at the dark brown flooring lying there. It did not look as though it were ordinary boarding, even under the stains and the marks of years. He examined it more closely, and found that the flooring was nothing less important than West Intian mahogany—which sends some of the best mahogany to this country.

As the boards were going to waste for lack of realization of their value, he requisitioned some of them for his own use. He had them made into frames, rubbed and polished to bring out their beaoty, and secured facsimiles of the Declaration of Independence for them. To him this seemed the most appropriate subject for the frame, as it is in the Department of State building that the original is locked away from the day to prevent the ink fading irreparably, as it has so nearly done.

One of the framed copies, about thirty-six by forty inches in size, he presented to his physician, the late Dr. C. H. Earhart of Philadelphia. It hung in his home for several years.

At his death, it was given to his sister to care for. For a time it stayed in the east, and then that frame, that had come in rough boards from the West Indies, and been used for flooring in a building where many men and famous had walked, and then had been smoothed and rubbed to dull sheen, came to the west and to Lincoln.

Today it hangs in one of the offices at the teachers' college at the university, on the wall beside Dr. Lida B. Earhart, professor of elementary education, whose very prized possession it is. She has had it for seven years. She will care for it willingly for many times seven years.

Conspicuous nose pores can be reduced

On your nose there are more fat glands than elsewhere.

Sometimes fat accumulates in these glands, when the skin is not active enough. Then the pores become enlarged.

You can overcome this trouble by the following treatment:

WRING a soft cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Finish by rubbing your nose for a few seconds with a piece of ice.

This stimulating method of cleansing will gradually reduce the enlarged pores.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks for this treatment and for regular toilet use.

Pockets in Card Table Cover For Milday's Dorine

Dorines and powder puffs are everywhere these days. And now it is the duty of the clever hostess to make provision for the parking of her guests' aid to beauty, for no well dressed woman makes her appearance these days without her dorine. It is at a card party that the dorines are a continual nuisance. As everyone knows who goes to card parties, each young woman brings with her to the card tables her dorine, compact or "vanity," or whatever it is she carries her powder and rouge in. The result is a continual rattle of falling metal boxes that frequently disconcerts one playing a difficult hand.

So now the newest black satin or sateen card table covers are provided with little cretonne pockets at the corners. These furnish a charming place in which to tuck the score cards, hankies, and the ever-present dorine.

The corners of these covers are usually fastened to the corners of the table with either braid or ribbon. Something new and different are very long tassels imported from China. These come in bright colors like peacock, marigold or fuchsia and tend to weight the table cover down, and besides add a most artistic touch that is very effective when a hostess gives a mah-jongg party.

Patronesses For Kosmet Klub Play

The patronesses for the Kosmet Klub play which will be presented at the Orpheum theatre on Friday evening, May 4, are as follows: Mrs. Samuel Avery, Miss Heppner, Miss Alice Howell, Mrs. C. C. Engbert, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Irving Chapin, Mrs. Orville Ellerbrook, Mrs. Robert Talbot, Mrs. Perry Branch, Mrs. Robert Scott and the Misses Ruth Fitzgerald, Helen Curtice, and Dorothy Raymond.

The Kosmet Klub play which is "the play" of the year in university circles, and also of unusual interest to Lincoln people, will this year be a three act musical extravaganza based on Chinese legends and stories, the work of Cyril Coombs of the law class of 1924. The splendor and richness of the orient will be duplicated in the lovely settings and costumes. The cast was selected some weeks ago and practice has been under way for sometime.

Weddings

DOWNING-WALTHERS

The marriage of Miss Mary Jane Downing to Harry V. Walthers was solemnized Saturday morning, April 7, at Davey. Following the ceremony there was a reception and breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Downing, who live six miles north of Havelock. Forty relatives and friends were present. The day was also the thirty-third wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

Miss Catherine Downing, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Fred Walthers, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride wore a gown of white canton crepe and Spanish lace with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of white Columbia roses.

The bride was graduated from the Havelock High school in 1918 after which she attended the University of Nebraska. She has been a teacher in Lancaster county for the past four years.

Mr. Walthers is also a graduate of the Havelock high school and served overseas in the U. S. navy as a non-commissioned officer. He is now assistant instructor in the chemical engineering department of the state university.

Mr. and Mrs. Walthers will be at home at 3239 S street.

WILSON-PATTY

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Miss Ruth Wilson and Jesse Patty of Omaha, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Wilson of Shenandoah, Ia.

Mrs. Patty is a graduate of Grinnell college and of the university Mr. Patty is a former university basketball star, having played on the varsity team three years and been captain for a year. He is a member of Delta Upsilon and of Innocents.

Parties of the Week

In honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, the members of Westminster Presbyterian church entertained Wednesday evening. For the regular church dinner,a special table was arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and their children, Misses Mame and Florence Anderson and Gray Anderson, and Mrs. Anderson, Johnston. The centerpiece was of and the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Johnston. The centerpiece was of jonquils and the other appointments were carried out in gold and white.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Gray Anderson and Mrs. Don Bell sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and Mrs. Bell, "Silver Threads Among the Gold." The Rev. Mr. Johnston read an original poem by Mrs. W. F. Waggoner. Mr. Anderson made brief remarks of appreciation. Late in the evening a large cake, wreathed in sweetheart roses and smilax, and lighted with fifty yellow candles was brought in.

On Tuesday evening, the anniversary of their marriage, freinds called informally on Mr. and Mrs. Anderson at their home, Thirtieth and Sheridan boulevard. A large plant with yellow flowers was sent them by the Westminster Women's society.

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Winona Smith whose engagement to Harvey Berry is announced today was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening for which the hostess was Mrs. Alfred Hornaday. Thirty-five girls were present. A mock wedding was a part of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hniman entertained at a 7 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at their home, 3062 S street. Covers were laid for twenty-four at two large tables, for which the centerpiece, were lavendar and sweet peas. The nut cups and place cards were in lavendar and gold. Thirty-five little friends and school mates gathered Thursday afternoon to help Harry Letton, jr., celebrate his eighth birthday with a party, which was given by his mother, Mrs. Harrr Letton at their home, 1921 South Sixteenth street. The late afternoon was spent with games and with play in the yard. Ice cream and cake were seerved, the cake being slices of the big birthday cake lighted with eight candles. The little guests were given boxes of candy as favors with additional favors of fans for the little girls and balloon whistles for the boys.

Woman's Clubs Announcements

Mrs. G. H. Wentz, president of the Nebraska Parent-Teacher association returning from a meeting at Norfold, reports that Norfolk parent and citizens are much opposed to the Mathers, Barbour and North bill, which provides for a reduction of school levey and compelling a vote on the matter each year—House Roll 372.

It is felt that yearly election of members of school board is adequate control of the problem and that the contemplated law is discriminatory and contrary to principle of local autonomy and initiative in school matters.

Mrs. Wentz further reports that the Parent-Teacher association passed resolution asking representatives and senators to vote for the indefinite postponement of House Roll 372.

DOANE NEWS.

Pres. J. N. Bennett attended the meeting of the representatives of the Lincoln association of Congregational churches at Verdon, Tuesday evening, and delivered a lecture on Doane college. From Verdon he journeyed to the convention of the Blue Valley association of Congregational churches at Hastings, where he presented a similar lecture.

The Doane Ladies' glee club, directed by C. V. Kettering, drove to Hallam Wednesday night to present a concert.

Four Doane college students had prominent place as leaders in the state Y. M. C. A. convention held at University Place last week. Miss Gladys Perry, Miss Dorothy Blatter and Miss Kinney were leaders in the group discussion, while Miss Marieta Whitmore had the principal toasts at the banquet Saturday night. Miss Myrtle LeCompte, dean of women, had been asked to preside at the meeting of the leaders of technical hours, but was unable to do so because she had not yet recovered from an operation on her throat. Eight student representatives and two faculty members attended the convention from Doane.

HASTINGS COLLEGE NOTES

Hastings people were very sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Ida Lewellen during the past week. She was formerly Miss Ida Johnson, a student here a number of years ago. Mrs. Lewellen was a sister of P. L. Johnson, treasurer of the college. She instructed in primary education in the summer session of Hastings college in 1921.

Word has been received during the past week by Hastings people that four alumni of the college will sail in the early fall for a mission station in Yunnan province, China. The four are: Dr. and Mrs. Curtis M. Galt, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Goodenburger.

At the present time Dr. and Mrs. Galt are located at a station in Porto Rico while Mr. and Mrs. Goodenburger are living in Chicago where Mr. Goodenburger is attending McCormack Theological seminary, from which he will receive his D. D. degree in June.

These four people will sail on September 5 for Siam from where they will journey to the province, which is north from that point. The people of the province are part Chinese and part Lao, which will necessitate the learning of two languages.

Electra chapter No. 8, O. E. S., will entertain at the Masonic temple Saturday evening at 8o'clock.

L. A. to O. R. C. meets in Walsh hall Friday at 2:30 o'clock.

TOWNER-STERLING BILL ENDORSED BY COUNCIL.

Endorsement of the Towner-Sterling bill after a report of it had been made by Mrs. J. H. Frandsen of the state legislative committee and election of officers took place at the meeting of the Lincoln council of Parent-Teacher associations Tuesday. A report of the playground committee was made by Mrs. Fred Easterday, chairman. Earl Johnson, playground director, will present his plan to the council at a meeting in May.

The new officers are: President, Mrs. J. H. Frandsen; vice-president, Mrs. John Dreith; secretary (re-elected, Mrs. Mark Pierce; treasurer (re-elected, Mrs. Henry Cole.

Mrs. Frandsen's report was in part as wollows:

"The Parent-Teachers' association work in Nerbaska and in Lincoln is still in its infancy, being but little more than a year old, but in its spirit of helpfulness and co-operation in lines that pertain to the betterment of child culture and education it is aggressive and wide-awake. The Lincoln council of Parent-Teacher associations has had opportunity in the past year to express its opinion in a national way in the Arbuckle film case. In our own city measures its influence has been felt in the movement for more efficient traffic regulations and in the vacation play-ground movement and other welfare measurts.

"Now comes a new opportunity, national in its scope, to join with 200,000 members of the Parent-Teacher associations through the country in the promotion of an educational measure whose fundamental aim is to "aid and encourage the states in the education of their citizens" and therefore aid and encourage the education of the citizens of the nation.

"I refer to the Towner-Sterling bill, H. R. 7—S. File L252, which was one of the vital issues before the last session of congress and which will be brought before the next session of congress in December.

"The Towner-Sterling bill proposes:

"To create a department of education with a secretary in the president's cabinet.

"To create a national council of 100 representative educators and laymen, which will meet annually at the call of the secretary.

"To give federal aid and to encourage the states in the solution of five educational problems fundamental alike to citizensip in both state and nation: (1) The removal of illiteracy; (2) the Americanization of the foreign born; (3) the promotion of physical education; (4) the training of teachers; (5) the evualization of educational opportunities.

"The Towner-Sterling bill now has the endorsement of many leading organizations which stand for progressive education. Among them are: The National Educational association, the General Federation of Women's clubs, National League of Women Voters, Daughters of American Revolution, National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, National Council of Jewish Women, National Women's Christian Temperance union, Women's Relief Corps, Nations Committee for eDpartment of Education, International Sunday School Council for Religious Education, American Federation of Labor, all Masonic organizations of national scope, National Federation of Music club, American Library association."

The state legislative committee has sent a letter to the president of each local Parent-Teacher association urging that the organiaztion acquaint itself with this bill and pass a rtsolution endorsing it. Endorsements are to be sent to Senator Thomas Sterling, Representative H. M. Towner and the congressmen from Nebraska.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLUB HEARS GEORGIA HOPELEY.

Miss Georgia Hopeley of the federal prohibition department will speak to the Social Service club at a noon day luncheon in the Grand hotel Thursday. At 2:30 the W. C. T. U. will hold a reception at the governor's mansion where Miss Hopeley will be the guest of honor.

She will talk on "Law Enforcement" and those who have heard her claim that she is both interesting and helpful, saying worth-while things like the following: "Law enforcement is the most important and far-reaching of the many issues before the people today. Law enforcement has made men saner and happier, has made more and larger bank accounts, liquor habits being cured, not created."

RAVENNA CONVENTION TO BE HELD APRIL 17-19.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Sixth district, Nebraska federation of Women's clubs, will be held in Ravenna, April 17 to 19. The district officers are: president, Mrs. J. G. Ackerman of Ainsworth; vice president, Mrs. J. F. Dishner, O'Neill; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. R. Galbraith, Ainsworth.

Education occupies a prominent place in the subjects on the convention program. The study of the adolescent child home economics, birds of Nebraska, public welfare, American citizenship are other interesting topics.

LITERATURE SECTION HOLDS LAST MEETING.

The literature department of the Lincoln Woman's club held the last meeting of the season Thursday afternoon in Faculty hall of the Temple. A delightful program had been arranged by Mrs. M. E. Moore, leader of the department. After the program refreshments were served. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. J. N. Paul, former president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. Hary Gund, charter member of the Lincoln Woman's club. The table was beautifully decorated with a silver and crystal bowl containing red roses as the centerpiece. Ices and cakes were served.

The program was as follows:

Reading by Miss Zella Owens.

Minuet in costume by Elinor Stefne, Dorothy Jackson, Inez Gerchenden, Mary Lou Ryerson, and Vivian Talbot.

Readings by Mr. Barber.

Violin solo by Miss Helen Palmer accompanied by Miss Helen Cook.

Vocal numbers by Mrs. F. L. Schlagel, with Miss Cook at the piano. Mrs. Schlagel's first number was "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Lourance, for which Miss Palmer played the violin obligato. The second number was "Morning by Speaks.

ECHOES FROM WOMEN'S CLUBS OVER THE STATE.

The Crete Woman's club held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, when the following officers were installed: Mrs. John Menke, president; Mrs. A. G. Heyior, vice president; Mrs. G. T. Welch, secretary; Mrs. A Plonzik, treasurer. Mrs. J. D. Menke was elected county chairman to assist in the county drive for the new home for orphan children at Omaha. Mrs. S. L. Mains was presented with a cold meat fork in recognition of her services to the club as president for two years, and because of her election to the district presidency for two years. Mrs. M. R. Byrnes was presented with roses in recognition of the fact that she had been district secretary for two years. A social hour closed the meeting.

The following program was given at the Parent-Teacher association meeting at Norfolk Friday evening: "The Public Schools," Supt. H. B. Simons; solo, Mrs. M. S. Dauskin; reading, Mrs. E. A. Harris; instrumental solo, Prof. Schrela; reading, Mrs. E. M. Huntington; "Greetings from the Parent-Teacher associations," Mrs. G. H. Wentz.

The members of the Fairbury Axis club enjoyed a 6 o'clock dinner at the Maryetta hotel Wednesday evening, after which the regular busi-

NEW OFFICERS LINCOLN PARENT-TEACHERS COUNCIL

The newly-elected officers of the Lincoln council of Parent-Teacher associations are as follows: Mrs. Frandsen, president; Mrs. Dreith, vice president; Mrs. Pierce, secretary; Mrs. Cole, treasurer.

Who's Who in Lincoln

MRS. ARTHUR GADD

Mrs. Arthur Gadd, superintendent of the baby health department of the Nebraska State Fair. This section is eleven years old and Mrs. Gadd has been connected with it all of the time except the first year. For the past five years she has been the superintendent, and during that time more than fifteen hundred babies have known and loved hr.

A few years ago a new division ws added called the improvement class, to which all babies who entered the previous year and scored are eligible. Regarding this port of the work Mrs. Gadd said: "The real value of the baby health department culminates in this class. It is the aim to stimulate through organized effort, an intelligent endeavor toward the physical and mental improvement of those weaknesses or defects which the score card, from year to year, reveals. If we can persuade the mothers to cooperate and do their utmost each year to correct the weakness in their little ones we shall have accomplished much toward the health of the future adult. It is really a follow-up class and last year the child that scored one hundred per cent had belonged to this department during the whole year and the mother had fulfilled her part of the contract. The child had jumped from third place to one hundred per cent. It seems a great pity that with the present facilities, we can only care for two hundred babies. We send out the appointment cards ten days before the opening of the fair and these cards are the baby's and the mother's admission to the contest. If more than two hundred entries are received the first two hundred, to fill the required classes, will be accepted. Any child who has scored in a county fair contest may be admitted above the two hundred. Many are disappointed, because of lack of room.

"There is another class belonging to this department for one day and called the defective class, with a clinic where the best specialists in the state examine the child and advise the mother. Children up to fourteen years may come into this clinic. Last year there were sixty-five during the one day it was open. Nebraska is the only state having a clinic of this kind.

"There is a hospital in the same building and last year three hundred and twenty-five cases were treated and cured. In the kindernook, over three hundred found joy and contentment in the sand and in the society of other little ones. It was so popular that frequently when a lost child was placed in the sand pile he did not care to accompany his parents if they called. There is also a nursery with nurses and nurse girls; during the week last year, one hundred and seventy-five children were cared for here."

Mrs. Gadd spends practically twenty-four hours a day at the grounds for the ten days it is open. She is a business woman and runs this work on business plans, though she loves it beside and that always helps to make things move. She is a great home maker and proves out the belief that those mothers who are interested in something outside make the finest mothers.

How to Dress Becomingly—

THE secret is not so much what you wear as how you wear it. Simplicity is now the vogue.

This means that you must keep your figure trim and supple. Wear an artistically designed corset and it will quickly correct figure faults.

G-D Justrite Corsets have been created to suit the needs imposed by modern dress. They prevent undue prominence of hips and abdomen by the proper placing and moulding of flesh.

Each is as attractive as beautiful material, dainty trimming and careful workmanship can make it.

G-D Justrite Corsets

We carry a complete line of G-D corsets. Priced from $2.00 up. We recommend them as the very foundation of style and good appearance. Trained corsetieres will give you expert advice and fitting. Visit our corset department soon.

RAY RICE SPEAKS TO Y. W. ON WORK IN INDIA.

There will be a vesper service at the Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. W. A. Poynter will lead the devotionals, Ray Rice, who is home on furlough from his work in India will be the speaker. Mrs. H. W. Meginnis will sing both during the service and during the social hour which follows. Men as well as women and girls are invited.

A new Bible class will be started this week. Mrs. W. T. Elmore will lead in a study of Paul's letter to the Thessalonians. The class will meet regularly at 2:30 on Wednesdays. This week on account of the luncheon the meeting will be on Thursday immediately after the luncheon.

The annual luncheon of the Neighborhood Bible classes will be held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday at 12:15. After the reports of the year's work Mrs. E. L. Hinman will give a talk on Isaiah. The various classes will meet either before or after the luncheon. Reservations may be made by telephone.

The supper Bible class on Monday evenings will begin a new study this week. Mark's pictures of Jesus and his teachings will be used. In a few weeks the class will meet for picnic suppers instead of at the building.

The members council met Tuesday evening. Plans weer made for the annual week-end of the council at Oakwood lodge. All the former members of the councils are invited to join in the opening of the camp. The May luncheon will be held May 17. A special menu is to be featured and spring flowers will make it a festive affair. On this same day the federation is planning a spring fete.

"The Tri-W's will have charge of the federation program on Thursday evening. The DeMolay quartette, always a favorite with their musical numbers, will give the program.

Owing to the rain on last Friday evening, the party of the G. F. club was postponed to this week.

The decorations for the spring party at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday evening were especially novel. There were head bands of green paper with white cockades, and the lights were decorated with tulip shades of various colors. The walls weer decorated with posters of various colors showing daffodils, narcissus, and tulips growing in pottery vases. The whole effect was spring-like and the girls were given balloons as favors, program and games centered about their use

NATIONAL CONVENTION PARENT-TEACHER CLUBS.

The national convention of Parent-Teacher associations will be held in Louisville, Ky., April 23, 24 and 25.

Prominent speakers appear on the program from different parts of the country, and all questions relating to the life of the child will receive attention.

In addition, the local people are planning many social events, opening with a banquet.

Following are some of the interesting topics to be dicussed: "Better Films," "Immigration and American Citizenship," "Organization and efficiency," "Education" and "Home Service."

BRUNER BIRD CLUB IN A PROFITABLE MEETING.

The Bruner Bird club held an interesting and profiltable meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Steinberg, Thursday evening.

Plans were made for a moving picture, "Song Birds as Citizens" to be given in May at the Westminster Presbyterian church.

After interesting accounts of bird experiences in New Mexico, Arizona and California by Miss Blanche Garten and Mrs. E. G. King, Prof. R. J. Pool of the university gave a delightful, informal talk on wild flowers, trees and shrubs to be found in the vicinity of Lincoln. The talk was illustrated by a number of beautifully mounted specimens. The club members were gratified to learn that there is so much of interest and beauty in the flora of this part of Nebraska.

The next meeting will be Thursday, April 26, with Mrs. M. H. Garten, 1213 H street, when Mrs. H. J. Kirschstein will give personal reminiscences of her brother-in-law, Frank Chapman, and his work with birds ,and Mr. F. G. Collins, will talk on English birds.

COOPERATION IS URGED BY MISS HELEN BENNETT.

A good representation of members of the Business Women's league at the Grand hotel Monday evening honoring Miss Helen Bennett of Chicago. Miss Bennett emphasized the necessity of loyalty of woman to her sex, the pertinence of organizations. Four clubs were represented: Axis, Altrusa, Business Women's league and University Place Business Woman's club.

Thursday evening is guest night at the league rooms. Mr. H. O. Ferguson, supervisor of music of the city schools, will entertain the guests with a program beginning at 8 o'clock. The girls clubs from St. Paul M. E., First Presbyterian and First Christian churches, and members of the University Place Business Woman's club, will be guests.

Mrs. Edith Belle Lewis will be hostess Tuesday evening, Miss Bess Owens Wednesday evening, Mrs. Philip Young Friday evening and Miss Sadie Howell Saturday evening.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT TO CLOSE WITH LUNCHEON.

The music department of the Lincoln Woman's club will close the year's work with a 1 o'clock covered dish luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. M. Baer, 1327 C street. Officers of the department will be the hostesses. A program of music and readings will follow the luncheon.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR MRS IDA J. LEWELLEN.

Chapter K, P. E. O. met in regular session on Saturday afternoon. After a short business hour, the meeting took the form of a memorial service for Mrs. Ida Johnson Lewellen, who was called by death during the past week. Mrs. Lewellen was a teacher in the Lincoln schools for many years and was a charter member of Chapter K, P. E. O. Everywhere she was greatly loved and will be sorely missed both here and at Thedford, Neb., where she had lived since her marriage, two years ago. Mrs. George L. Waters, who is president of Chapter K, spoke a few words of love and esteem for the departed sister; Mrs. Thornton repeated many comforting passages of scripture which was followed by a song: M'y Prayer." by Mrs. Della Smith, Mrs. Eva Bain, who had known Mrs. Lewellen many years, spoke words of appreciation for the friendship which she had enjoyed Miss Eunice Babbit told of her work in both church and school with the deceased, expressing her sorrow for the terrible loss. Mrs. Smith closed with singing 'My Task."

Mrs. Lewellen had been president of chapter K, and president of the state work.

ART DEPARTMENT HOLDS LAST MEETING OF YEAR.

The last meeting for the year of the art department of the Lincoln Woman's club was held Friday afternoon. Mrs. M. E. Eaton and Mrs. A. R. McCandless were in charge of the program, which was the work of two prominent Russian artists. Mrs. Eaton reviewed the life and work of Zasili Vereschagin, painter, traveler and soldier, who become famous through his war pictures. His desire was to portray the horhors of war so vividly that beholders would turn to peace. With the same motive he painted hospital pictures. He traveled extensively, painting the pictures of vanishing races and thus preserving the types for future generations. Mrs. McCandless told the art of Ilyra Ryetin, who told with brush the wrongs and persecutions endured by the people of his race. His greatest achievement was the painting of the Russian Cossacks. Slides from the art society in Omaha were shown and the program closed with a talk by Miss Louise Ingham on Leon Baskt and his school of ultra-modern painters. Mrs. J. T. Lees and Miss Annie Smith poured tea. A luncheon wil be held later.

BELMONT CLUB HAS PROGRAM ON ART.

THROUGH the SHOPS with Patricia-Ann

Today the world is wide and fair
With sunny fields of lucid air,
And waters dancing everywhere;
The snow is almost gone.

If I can be of any help with the selection of your spring or summer clothes please write to me and I will only be to glad to shop for you. Every shop is brim full of dainty and modish wears and I enjoy picking out things.

Spring Calls for The Coolest of Frocks.

Colton's is the shop where the most exacting taste can find just what it desires. Knit-wear is fashions newest choice. In one, two or three piece costume Colton's are able to show you this good-looking serviceable fabric. The models which especially attracted Patricia Ann were some in jacket and tie effect, a one piece blue with a rose paisley design which will fascinate any girl and a grey with gayly colored waist.

Footwear Approved by The Spring Shopper

new arrival at Speier and Simon's Shoe department. The effectiveness of a spring wardrobe depends on how Milady's feet are shod. Among the new arrivals at Speier and Simon's is a black satin model with crossed straps as sketched above and are comfortably intertwined to keep the slipper snug-fitting. This model has the turned sole so easy on the feet in spring weather and unless shoes are in keeping ith the rest of the costume the effect is not pleasing.

Skirts which hang straight at the back and have either pleats or a circular front panel which provide the front fullness, are worn with the jacquettes.

Navy side fastened skirts with bright wool embroidery on collars and cuffs are a popular number.

The week's theatre offerings show a partiality by costumers for the 1860 modes. Full and long skirts, off-the-shoulder necklines and other details make the chorus girl a demure rather than daring person.

Spring coats and wraps collared with ermine are getting to be very numerous.

Bouffant taffeta frocks with transparent hems have been selected by the home-on-her-holiday school girl for her dance frocks.

Prompt, Efficient Outdoor Fountain Service.

Makes Piller's Pharmacy the one place in town to stop for soda or sundae. Whether its night or day when you put your car to a stop in front of Piller's a boy willing and glad to serve you, is at your command in a minute. The excellency of Pillers' fountain dishes need no word and on these warm spring nights you will find yourself more and more anxious to be served here.

All Guesswork in Shoe Fitting is Eliminated by Mayer's New X-Ray Machine.

This is truely a miraculous invention and Patricia was impressed by the service it rendered. To fully realize the wonders of this machine you must see and try it for yourself. Mayer Bros. are able to demonstrate in a minute and can tell ou whether your arches are fallen or not, whether the shoe you are wearing is too long or not, whether the toes are cramped or any trouble you may have. They cannot cure you, of course, and are not doctors prescribing any treatments, but simply aid you in the fitting of your shoe. This is especially nice for children who are so hard to fit. Go in and see for yourself for the seervice is free, you do not have to buy shoes to try it.

Although many of the newest headbands are studded with jewels and worn low over the brown in Egyptian fashion, others are one-sided in their arraangementt. One charming idea showed a mass of small ribbon-made flowers at the left side only, the bandeau itself being a narrow band of silver ribbon.

Two long stemmed American beauty roses laid on the left side of a black Milan had the stems pointing backward.

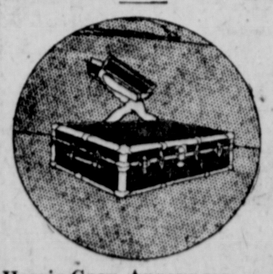
The mode that remains absolutely supreme in the smart shoe world are the flat heeled black satin slippers in sandal and strap effects. The lighter and more airy the shoe the better and Budd's models with their welt soles and syede toe and Skinners satin are just what fashion demands. For only $6.95 and $7.95 these stitched trimmed, fancy buttoned shoes are real values

Millinery trimmings show both flowers and ribbon, but more of the latter. These are placed at the back, front or left side.

Economy Millinery Sale at Gold's This Week.

For only $1.00, a price within the range of every one, all the newest spring hats will go Gold's are practically giving away these bonnets and not to take advantage of the offer would be sheer folly. Small and large shapes, all shades and patterns, flower and ribbon trimmed, give an unlimited choice. I refer to Gold's display advertisement of this edition for particulars.

Studded Egyptian girdles are being worn for evening, the stones in many colors set in dull gold galloon.



Harris-Goar Announces New Store in Omaha.

This comes as a surprise to most of the patrons of Harris-Goar Co. but those who have watched the real growth in their Lincoln shop can easily see how this has come about. The location in Omaha will be at 16th and Howard. Remodelling has been going on for some time in the Lincoln store and larger departments have been the result of an added balcony. Mr. Goar has left for New York where he is going to buy the very newest of fashion modes for both the stores, which will be under his personal supervision and management.

Directoire pokes have been seen repeatedly this week.

V and off-the-shoulder necklines are much in evidence.

Ink Sketch of Mule on Walls of Nebraska Uni. "Think Shop" Tells of First Victorious Season

The Missouri mule, always the sad looking creature that he was when the Nebraska debating team had finished whipping Missouri in 1902, has not recuperated during the years that he has hung on the wall of the Think Shop. The banner on which he was drawn has become dilapidated wit age, but it still hangs above the old blackboard and the mule is an outstanding figure in the Think Shop. Perhaps this trophy has served to spur on the debaters in later years, for a large proportion of the debates were victories for Nebraska up to the time a few years ago when Prof. M. M Fogg introduced the practice of holding intercollegiate debates without judges and inviting the audience to fire questions at the debaters when they had finished their main speeches.

BY JESSIE WATSON.

Somewhere in old U hall at the state university, away back off the main thoroughfare where chattering, laughing students hurry to and from their classes is a queer little old room chucked full of colorful memories. In it young men representing the cream of the university, many of whom have since climbed high on the ladder of success in business and professional life, have worked together day and night, sitting under the old fashioned drop lights and digging information out of official looking books and documents.

The students have been continually changing, but the same energetic professor to whom the march of human events is a grand and dramatic procession, a man who has a manner sufficiently brusque to break through the crust of indifference that so often surround students but at the same time has an inner self throbbing, pulsating with the color and romance of life, a man whose glowing friendship radiates to all who come into his classes and follows them through life—this same professor still works, advises and directs in the curious old room known as the "Think Shop." . . . . . .

Away back in the school year 1901-02 the debate seminary was organized by Prof. M. M. Fogg. The university was much smaller then, and a little room on the third floor of U hall had the combined uses of recitation room, office and debate seminary. The equipment was meager, but the time stained posters that hang on the walls of the Think Shop testify that the achievements of that first year was by no means meager. There were three intr-collegiate debates that year and Nebraska came out victorious in all three. The first two were with Colorado college and Kansas university, and the final triumph came in May when Missouri went down before the onslaught of the Nebraska debaters.

Conspicuously hung on the wall of the Think Shop is a solid ink sketch on canvas of a mule which the members of the debate team drew in celebration of the triumph while coming home on the train. The poor beast, bandaged, its nose bleeding, its tail between its legs represents the mule of Missouri when Nebraska got through with it. When the train pulled in at the Burlington station almost the entire university was there to meet the boys who carrying the banner of the mule high above the crowd were taken in triumphal procession to Memorial hall. They rode in a band wagon drawn by students by means of a hundred-yard rope. When they reached the campus there was a celebration such as had never up to that time taken place for any athletic event.

Turns Out Real Thinkers.

Many victories have been scored by the successive teams since then and many events have taken place. Students representing the best in the university have come into the Think Shop and a little later have gone out into the world better prepared to forge their way ahead because of the training they received in thinking clearly and meeting any emergency that might arise. They went out with big visions of the things they wanted to do, and many of the visions have begun to materialize and bigger visions have taken their places. Standing out vividly beyond all other events during these years is the world war. Many of the men who had fought so valiantly in the debate forum answered the call to a war for manhood that would ordinarily go to make up the student body of the university was claimed for the service of Uncle Sam, and the university ran at a lower ebb. The Think Shop, deprived of its leader when Professor Fogg went to France where he was head of the school of journalism in the A. E. F. university, was completely closed.

Finally the war ended, and in 1920 the Think Shop was opened again. Each spring when time draws near for the inter-collegiate debates greetings are received from former debaters and posted on the door of the Think Shop. Among these greetings, word from at least two of the men who enlisted in Uncle Sam's service will always be missing, for Ralph Halldorson and Clifford Fuller made the supreme sacrifice. Mr. Halldorson at Brest, France, and Mr. Fuller in Russia. One other ex-debater, John Miller of Lincoln, has died. These three links are strangely missing on the chain of friendship that holds together the men who have worked loyally in the Think Shop, 154 altogether. Each year Professor Fogg sends out a news letter to keep these men in touch with each other.

In twenty-one years since its organization the Think Shop has undergone many changes in a material way. It has had several different locations, all of them in U hall—first on third floor, then in Room 107 A and later 107 D. Since the war it has been in its present location at the farther end of the journalism laboratory. It may be reached by two different routes, both of them circuitous. The furnishings of the room have changed, but there are still only the scant requirements of a busy workshop including rough tables, chairs and two typewriters. One set of shelves contains a permanent library of government documents, and another contains books collected for immediate use. One table is for the negative team and another for the affirmative team, and along each is a string of a dozen spindles. Each seat represents a certain place on the team.

On the table before each debater is a crisp and much yellowed piece of cardboard bearing the names of all the men who have occupied that seat. On the wall, time-stained bulletins left up with the more recent ones serve further to connect the past with the present. A box of empty paste pots of varying designs carries one back many years. Filing cases, spindles, a card catalog, every aid to efficiency, have their places in the room and almost any time of day students may be seen there hard at work, but standing out conspicuously beyond all else is the queer mule on the wall.

Wesleyan Affairs

Supt. R. D. Moritz of the Seward public schools announces that students from the Seward high school will enter the competitive interscholastic contests at Nebraska Wesleyan April 27, high school day, in algebra, botany, civics, elocution, English, extempore speaking, geography, geometry, history, home economics, physics, and spelling.

Dean Parvin Witte of the college of fine arts is preparing a special bulletin to announce the work which his college is prepared to offer in the summer school. This will come from the press in a few days. Copies may be obtained for the asking from the department of publicity in the main building.

Dr. Benjamin D. Scott, Nebraska chairman of the intercollegiate peace association, announces that the oratorical peace contesa of Nebraska colleges and universities will be held in the Wesleyan auditorium, Thursday evening, April 19, beginning at 8 o'clock. Schools to be represented are Nebraska Wesleyan, Cotner, York college, Grand Island, Hastings, Nebraska Central college, Kearney. All the orations will deal with problems of world peace. No oration may be over fifteen minutes in length. The first place orator will receive a prize of $60 and the second place contestant $40. The winning oration is to be submitted to the judges in a national contest on the merits of the text. Fourteen states will be represented in the contest, in which the prizes are $60 and $40. The Misses Mary and Helen Seabury are furnishing all the prize money both for the state and national contest.

Prof. J. C. Jensen as chairman of the faculty committee on the interscholastic meet planned at Nebraska Wesleyan for April 27 is receiving many favorable replies from educators. Even when their schools are too far away for participation in the meet he finds approval of the plan.

The Cornell council at Wesleyan is co-operating with the committee. Beryl Snyder, chairman of the council, issued letters to high school seniors within an easy radius of Lincoln this week. Nebraska Wesleyan is the first institution to plan an interscholastic meet. Inquiries from all over the country are being received by those who wish to know what the results and methods are.

The geography club met Wednesday evening. Prof. W. G. Fishop spoke on the subject, "The Way to the Sea."

University Notes

In the Nebraska spelling test recently conducted by the University Extension division among 274 high schools, four Nebraska colleges and the University of Nebraska, the highest average—98.66—was made by seniors in the colleges and the lowest—80—by freshmen in the high schools. The highest class average —94.7—was made by the colleges, while the university students averaged 94.4. High school students averaged 86.27 which, according to the report, is from 4 to 6 per cent below the national average.

One thousand acres of wet bottom land in the Medicine creek valley in Frontier county have been reclaimed at $3 an acre under the direction of the extension workers of the agricultural college. This creek was once a deep and fairly straight stream but sediment from the hills has been washed into the bed until flood waters threatened the crops each year.

The Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women will award two scholarships this year to underclassmen who have been and are wholly or in part self-supporting and who have a high scholarship standing. The requirements and regulations of the association were recently announced. One of these scholarships carries a stipend of $100 and the other $50. Applications must be made by May 1. Blanks can be secured from Dean Amanda Heppner or from Miss Gertrude Jones of Lincoln who is secretary.

The entire school was shocked and saddened by the news that Marguerite Bostder, a tenth grade student in the training school, had died early Monday morning. Marguerite has been in the training school five years, entering in the sixth grade. Her father, W. S. Bostder, was at that time a member of the Chadron Normal faculty. Her mother is on the faculty now, taking Professor Wilson's place during his term in the state legislature. Weimar Bostder, her brother, is a member of the junior high school class.

Clarissa Soth of the sophomore class in the Chadron Normal has been given the position of kindergarten teacher in the Chadron school for next year.

Asenath Schill, a Chadron Normal sophomore has received word of her election to the eighth grade position at Mitchell.

Dorothy Bruce, '22, Chadron Normal, who has been teaching at Scottsbluff, will have the primary position at Rushville next year.

R. S. Work of Denver, recently spent a few days in Chadron visiting his sister, Dean Edna E. Work.

Edna Conn, '13, Chadron Normal, who has been teaching English at Mullen this year, has been elected to the principalship of the high school there for next year.

Frank Kreienzback, '17, Chadron Normal, principal of the high school at Hot Springs, So. Dak., has been re-elected with a substantial increase in salary.

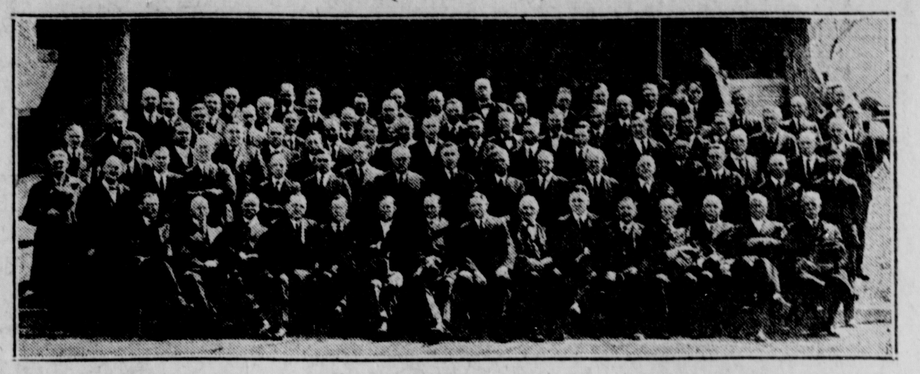
President R. I. Elliott and Harry Reische of Chadron left Friday night for Lincoln to attend a meeting of the State Normal board.

Charles Pringle, president of the Chadron Normal Y, has just returned from the state Y. M. C. A. conference.

Miss Reva Denslow, student in the music department of the Chadron Normal, favored the chapel audience Monday with a piano solo, "Valse C sharp Minor," by Chopin. Miss Ferne Sams, another music student played two violin solos Wednesday, "Arioso", Handel and "Serenade", Cameron-White.

Twelve girls of the G. A. A. went for a five-mile hike on the Hot Springs road Saturday morning. They had planned to walk ten miles but they found the walking rather too difficult on the slippery roads.

COMMUNITY MEN'S BIBLE CLASS



The above picture shows the Elm Park community men's Bible class of Lincoln, Neb., of eighty-four members. The class is a part of the church Sunday school. The denominational idea is not emphasized in this church and school. Men of other denominations are members of this class. Maurice A. Hyde, is the class teacher, and is a man of keen intellect and scholarly attainments. He is a careful student of the Bible and social questions. The class has grown from fifteen members eighteen months ago to the present membership under Mr. Hyde.

Has Birthday Party

Celebrating the first birthday anniversary of her niece, Anna Margaret Sell, Mrs. W. O. Vilott entertained at her home, 833 South Twenty-ninth street, Monday afternoon. Ten children and their mothers were present. Pink and white decorations were used and each little guest was given a pink balloon as a favor. The center piece was a large white birthday cake, topped with a pink rosebud holding a single candle. Anna Margaret is making her home with her aunt and uncle.

Jean de Reszke, the world famous teacher of singing of Paris, with the aid of Oscar Seagle, one of his first American pupils, is forming a vocal school at Nice, which will be known as the de Reszke-Seagle school where all the branches of operatic singing will be taught.

We will not only prepare pupils for operatic debuts," said de Reszke in his own announcement of his new plans to his neighbors at Nice, "but we have our own beautiful theatre, where they will debut under the most advantageous circumstances. Our theatre will be complete in every detail, with all adjuncts the best obtainable and conducted under the finest possible auspices.

"It will in time be self-supporting, a remarkable achievement for any opera company I know, but Nice offers peculiar advantages for such an undertaking, as nowhere in the world does one find such numbers of rich cosmopolitans, appreciative of the best in art and willing to support it.

"Our theatre will be exclusively for our own work. Not only will we attract a very choice audience, but during the winter many directors and impresarios from all over the world visit Nice, and thereby will have the opportunity to judge the singers' ability under favorable circumstances."

The establishment of the de Reszke-Seagl school and theatre at Nice has been cordially welcomed by the inhabitants of the Riviera and is being strongly supported by a socially important and fast growing list of patrons. The theatre will be used for performances of grand and light opera and classical concerts, to be performed by the pupils of the school who are ready to make their debuts before the public. It is situated on the beautiful Promenade des Anglais, fronting the sea, one of the most desirable locations in Nice. This present year, for a start, some forty young American singers have been with Mr. Seagle at Nice where all were accepted by de Reszke as pupils.

Mr. Seagle will continue to conduct the American branch of the de Reszke-Seagle school at Schroon Lake, New York, and to prepare pupils during the summer for the winter de Reszke school at Nice.

The Aid society of the Congregational church met with Mrs. Carl Berg, 1825 O street, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. S. Hanford, of Lincoln, was guest and gave an interesting talk. Mrs Berg and Mrs. E. S. Luce played a Moskouski "Caprice" and Mrs. Luce sang two songs. Refreshments were served.

Two Havelock young people, Mary Downing and Harry Walthers, were married at Davey, Neb., April 7. The date commemorated th thirty-third wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. They will reside in a new bungalow at 3239 S street.

Martha Washington chapter No. 153, O. E. S. held their annual election of officers Wednesday evening and elected the following: Worthy Matron, Mrs. William Tucker; Worthy Patron, James McKinney; Associate Matron, Mrs. George DeLong; Conductress, Mrs. Frank Wilcox; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Harry Bell; Secretary, Mrs. Theo Jacobs; Treasurer, Mrs. H. B. Little.

Screen Siftings

Irene Rich and Baby Bruce Guerin, both of whom play prominent parts in the picturized version of Charles G. Norris' novel, "Brass," have been placed under long term contracts by the Warner Brothers.

Goldwyn Pictures corporation is offering a reword of $5,000 to anyone who can discover a preventative for "Klieg eyes," one of the greatest problems with which the motion picture producer has to deal. The announcement followed the discovery that in two weeks' time, 113 players had been on the hospital list from the affliction. "Klieg eyes" is not only a source of annoyance because it holds up production on a picture when a prominent player happens to be suffering from them, but it is very painful.

I Will Help You Get Started
AS AUTOMOTIVE MECHANIC AND ELECTRICAL EXPERT PAYING SALARIES of $150 to $200 A MONTH
My business is helping young men get started making money in motor mechanics. By my system of personal instruction I can train you in 6 to 8 weeks so you can hold down a high class job paying you a good salary.
Big Money in This Business
Many graduates of this school are making from $5,000 to $10,000 a year in business for themselves.
High School Students Make Good As Automotive Mechanics and Electricians
I have trained hundreds of high school men so they were able to take profitable positions. Some used this training to give them profitable employment so they could earn their own way through high school and university. Others liked this work so well they decided to stay in the automobile business and are making their fortunes in this profitable field.
EVERY MAN OUGHT TO LEARN A TRADE
No matter what your present circumstances, you ought to learn a trade. There is no trade or business more interesting than automotive mechanics. Our graduates can find paying jobs anytime, anywhere, at good salary.
NOW IS THE TIME TO GET STARTED
If you will let me start you in this training as soon as your present term of school is out I will have you ready for a good paying position by the middle of the summer. One months' salary will pay the cost of your training.

AT THE THEATRES.

Harvey's Greater Minstrels Coming To the Orpheum This Week

Harvey's Greater Minstrels, which comes to the Orpheum Friday, Saturday and Saturday matinee of this week, is one of those rare attractions that seem to improve with age. It has made its success without any help from this or that star. It is repeating its grand triumph of the past years and fills the theatres nightly with wildly enthusiastic audiences with its wholesome entertainment, always ringing with cheers and tumultous applause. Mr. Harvey claims to have the best company this season he has ever assembled, numbering fifty people, traveling in all steel Pullman cars built especially to accommodate the company and its paraphernalia. The wardrobe, scenery and performance is entirely new this season.

MISS BOBBY BREWSTER & COMPANY AND ALICE BRADY IN "ANNA ASCENDS" AT THE LIBERTY THE FIRST HALF OF THIS WEEK.

A big double bill will be presented at the Liberty the first half of this week. The program includes Miss Bobbie Brewster and her versatile company, in an artistic and clever offering entitled "From the Altar to the Bowery;" Jane Silver, Helen Duval & Geo. Kirby in a screamingly funny comedy entitled "The Star Boarder;" Miller, Packer & Selz, a trio of noted funsters, heralded as "The Grouch Killers;" Perez & Marguerite, novelty entertainers; "Jim," the bear, a quadruped that will amaze you, and Alice Brady in the Paramount picture "Anna Ascends," a brilliant screen production of the play in which Miss Alice Brady scored her greatest stage triumph. Coming the last half of the week, Miss Patsy Shelley and her Band, and four other excellent acts. Music by Babich and his Orchestra.

ON THE SCREEN.

Laurette Taylor in "Peg O' My Heart" at the Lyric This Week.

One of the real events in the photoplay world of recent months was the announcement that Laurette Taylor, the celebrated international stage star, was going to enact in a photoplay her most famous characterization, that of "Peg" in "Peg O' My Heart," by J. Hartley Manners. Miss Taylor has acted this role on the stage 1128 times; and now she has immortalized it in celluloid. If you would see one of the most charming stories ever told in motion pictures, you must see this Metro version of the most popular play of our generation. Buster Keaton will hammer out laughs on the anvil of fun in his latest comedy "The Blacksmith;" Pathe's Review of topical events and a vocal offering by the Shamrock Trio. Director Black and his Lyric Orchestra will be heard in an interpretative program.

"The Third Alarm" and "Fighting Blood" at the Colonial.

The whole family will enjoy the program that will be presented at the Colonial this week. "The Third Alarm" is a thrilling and magnificent heart drama that immortalizes the American firemen and bestows an everlasting benediction upon their wives, sons and daughters. The fifth round of H. C. Witmer's famous Collier Weekly Stories, "Fighting Blood," "Try, Try Again," a new concoction of laughs and Kinograms of interest completes two-hours of real entertainment. J. C. Norman Richards, organist.

Theodore Roberts and Agnes Ayres In "Racing Hearts" at the Rialto.

Faster! Faster!! That's the tingling cry when youth's at the wheel, when a girl's love and a man's honor depend on taking whirlwind chances. You'll be gripped by the breathless thrill of it; you'll laugh as you zip along in "Racing Hearts," starring Theodore Roberts, Agnes Ayres and Richard Dix. It is a rollicking, racing romance by the author of Wally Reid's auto success. Lupino Lane will create roars of laughter in his latest comedy "My Hero," Pathe News and Topics of the Day and The Chauffeur Four, harmony singers. A brilliant musical program will be rendered by Conductor Harry W. Anderson and his Symphony Players, Herbert C. McAhan, organist.

Longfellow's "The Village Blacksmith" Coming Next Week to the Auditorium.

Probably the most important theatre news of the hour in the fact that the production, "The Village Blacksmith," from the famous poem by the pen of that great poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, is to be offered to the public next week at the auditorium.

Such well known people as William Walling, Virginia True Boardman, Virginia, Valli, Dave Butler, Tully Marshall, Caroline Rankin, Francis Ford, Bessie Love, Mark Fenton, Lon Poff, Cordelia Callahan, Eddie Gribbon and Lucile Hutton appear in the cast. The story is too well known to need any further mention and the picture has retained to a remarkable degree the gentle charm of Longfellow's original verse.

Wednesday Matinee at Auditorium Free to Crippled Children and Wounded War Veterans.

The Shriners invite all crippled children in this community, all wounded war veterans, and others who might not be able in any other way to see the beautiful picture, "The Village Blacksmith," to be their guests Wednesday afternoon at the city auditorium. Communicate with any Shriner and he will see that conveyance is at your door to take you to this performance.

William Beaudine, famous director of children, has started camera work on "Penrod and Sam," a screen version of Booth Tarkington's stories of boy life. The players include Benny Alexander, Irene Rich, William Mong, Rockliffe Fellows, Mary Philbin, Gareth Hughes, Buddy and Gertie Messinger, and the famous colored "twins," Herman and Verman.

ANSWERS TO Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—It has been a very long time since I have written to you, so I have quite a few questions to ask you. Would you please give me the cast for "Thirty Days"?

Will "Oliver Twist" come to the Sun? What are all of Jackie's plays? How old is he? What is his last picture?

I would like to know how many actors and actresses there are on the screen. I know it would take too much space to name all of them, so please tell me how many there are. Also in vaudeville?

Who gets more money, a comedian or a good actor? I think the one that plays in comedies, like Larry Semon or Buster Keaton, work the hardest, don't you? Please tell me all about this.

How many episodes are there to Pearl White's "Plunder" and in "The Oregon Trail." Please give me the casts to both of these.

Didn't Wanda Hawley play opposite Wallace Reid in "Clarence." If not, who was it? Why doesn't Wanda play in a picture as a main character, instead of playing opposite always?

I heard that a man wanted to take the place of Wally. Is this true? Tell me who is the man and what you think of this? I don't think it is fair and besides whoever the man is, he will have a hard job impersonating him. What are all of Wally's pictures? I want to know how many I saw and how many I didn't. Will they ever come to the Sun? Will "Orphans of the Storm" come to the Sun?

I guess I have written enough and hope this is not too much. Please excuse me for writing so much. Thank you for the space and information, and when I will get this answered, I won't bother you again for a long time. Hope you are not tired of my long letters. Would you rather I should write oftener instead of waiting and writing a long letter. Thanking you in advance, I remain, an ardent fan, EDITH.

The cast for "Thirty Days" is: John Floyd, Wallace Reid; Lucille Ledyard, Wanda Hawley; Judge Hooker, Charles Ogle; Huntley Palmer, Cyril Chadwick; Polenta, Rerschell Mayall; Mrs. Floyd, Helen Dunbar; Carlotto, Carmen Phillips; Warden, Kala Pasha.

You will no doubt see "Oliver Twist" again at the Sun. Most of the Lyric pictures are returned.

Jackie made his start in "The Kid" with Charles Chaplin, and then started in "Peck's Bad Boy," and "My Boy." He has played in "Trouble," also, and "Toby Tyler." His first picture for Metro will be an adaption of Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel, "Long Live the King." Jackie is eight years old now.

It would be impossible for me to tell you exactly how many player there are in motion pictures; I do not even try to keep track of the vaudevillian. I have over 5000 players listed in my "Blue Book" and there are many who are not listed.

It depends altogether upon the star, as to whether a comedian or a "good" actor makes more. In fact I should call a comedian, a "good" actor, because it takes more talent to make people laugh than it does to make them weep. I should say that we have more high salaried comedians, than we do other players. There is Charles Chaplin, who has long been known as one of the high salaried players on the screen, and Harold Lloyd, who is gradually usurping Charlie's place as the "greatest comedian." Larry Semon and Buster Keaton also have big income taxes to pay. Of course, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford aid greatly in filling the coffers of the U. S. Treasury, and we have Jackie Coogan, Charles Ray and such stars, who are not making much fuss over their low salaries. Rodolph Valentino has ambitions to be "among those present" in the high salaried stars, but just at present he desn't happen to be.

There are fifteen episodes in both "The Oregon Trail" and "Plunder." The cast for The Oregon Trail is: Jean Brulet, Art Acord; Rosita Velasquez, Louise Lorraine; Narcissa Prentiss, Ruth Joyce; Marcus Whitman, Duke Lee; Renee Coulter, Jim Corey; Rev. Henry Spalding, Burton C. Law; Mrs. Spalding, Grace E. McLean; Dr. William Gray, Dick Carter; Fernandez Velasques, Sidney D. Grey.

The "Plunder" cast is: Pearl Travers, Pearl White; Mister Jones, Warren Krech; Jude Deering, Harry Semels.

Agnes Ayres had the role of Violet Pinney opposite Wallace Reid in "Clarence." Wanda Hawley was not in the cast at all. Wanda has been the star of pictures, but she seems to prefer to play leading roles. She starred for Realart when that company was making pictures.

I don't think anybody will actually try impersonating Wallace Reid on the stage. There will no doubt be players to fill the same kind of roles in pictures that Wallace did, because his style of pictures was a popular one. Richard Dix has been suggested as a substitute for Wallace, and has already been signed as a player in Pramount pictures, but that does not mean that he will fill Wallace's place. Nobody could in the heart's of Wallace's fans.

I have run lists of the pictures that Wallace has appeared in several times, so I will only name his late ones, such as Thirty Days, Clarence, Nice People, The Affairs of Anatol, The Dictator, The Ghost Breaker, Excuse My Dust, The Dancin' Fool, Too Much Sleep, The Hell Diggers, Don't Tell Everything, Forever, and Across the Continent. As many of them will be returned to the Sun, as can be secured, because Wallace was beloved by all, and his fans are anxious to see him again. Orphans of the Storm has been here several times. It may, howver, be back once more, sometime in the future.

I am glad to have you write whenever you feel like it, and I should always do the best I can to answer any reasonable questions.

Dear Movie Editor: My friend and I have quite a few questions we want to ask, and we hope you can answer them. What is the cast of The Four Horsemen, and The Eternal Flame.

Please tell us the height, color of hair and eyes, age and if married and to whom of Norma Talmadge, Shirley Mason, Bessie Love, Agnes Ayres, Dorothy Dalton, Mae Murray, Carrine Griffith, William Hart, Harold Lloyd and Rodolph Valentino.

Is Bert Lytell a scenic writer? Does he play in any pictures?

We also want the cast for The Romance of Wildfire. oYurs Truly, EINA and RHEA, Martland, Neb.

The cast for The Four Horsemen is: Julio Desnoyers, Rodolph Valentino; Marguerite Laurier, Alice Terhy; Madariaga, Pomeroy Cannon; Marcele Desnoyers, Joseph Swickard; Celendonio, Brindsley Shaw; Karl von Hartrott, Alan Hale; Elena, Mabel Van Buren; Tchernoff, Nigel de Brulier; Laurier, John Sainpolis; Capt' Von Hartrott, Stuart Holmes; Prof. Von Hartrott, Jean Hersholt; Lodge Keeper, Edward Connelly; Georgette, Kathleen Key; Lieut. Col. Von Richthoffen, Wallace Beery; French Butcher, "Bull" Montana; Dancer, Beatrice Dominguez.

The Eternal Flame cast is: Duchess de Langeais, Norma Talmadge; Duc de Langeais, Adolphe Jean Menjou; Marquise de Ronouerelles, Wedgewood Nowell; General de Montriveau, Conway Tearle; Madamede Serizy, Rosemary Theye; Princess de Vlament-Chaurray, Kate Lester; Vidame de Pamier, Thomas Rickets; Count de Marsay, Irving Cummings; Abbe Conrad, Otis Harlan.

Norma Talmadge was born in 1897 with dark hair and eyes. She is five feet two inches tall and married to Joseph Schneck. Shirley Mason is two inches shorter than Norma and four years younger. She has brown hair and gray eyes. In private life she is Mrs. Bernard Durning.

Bessie Love is single and in her early twenties. She is about five feet tall and has light hair and brown eyes. Agnes Ayres has brown hair and hazel eyes. She was born in 1896 and has been married, but she isn't now. She's five five in height. Dorothy Dalton is also single at present. She's two inches shorter than Agnes and has blue-gray eyes and brown hair. 1894 was the year of her birth.

Mae Murray is a blond, twenty-nine years old and married to Robert Leonard. She's an inch taller than Agnes and Corrine Griffith is also fife feet four inches tall. Corrine has light brown hair and blue eyes and was born in 1898. Webster Campbell is her husband.

William Hart was married to Winifred Westover, but it didn't last. He is an inch over six feet tall and has brown hair and blue eyes. Harold Lloyd's eyes are also blue, and his hair is black. He was born in 1893 and is now married to Mildred Davis, his leading lady in so many pictures. Harold is five feet nine in height.

Rodolph is now safely married to Winifred Hudnut. He has dark hair and eyes, and was born in 1895. He lacks an inch of being six feet. And that's that!

Bert Lytell is a motion picture player, and not a scenario writer. He has played in many pictures, making his debut several years go in The Lone Wolf. He will be featured hereafter in Principal Pictures. The Meanest Man in the World is his first for that company.

I don't find a cast for The Romance of Wildfire, but I wonder if you didn't perhaps mean When Romance Rides, which is a screen adaption of Zane Grey's "Wildfire". The cast for that picture is Lucy Bostil, Claire Adams; Lin Clone, Carl Gantvoort; Joel Creech, Jean Hersholt; Bill Cordts, Harry L. Van Meter; Bostil, Charles Arling; Holly, Ted Sloan; Dr. Binks, Frank Hayess; "Booties" Bostil, Mary Jane Irving; Sally Brackton, Babe London; Van, John Beck; Thomas Bracton, Stanley Bingham; Lucy's chums, Audrey Chapman, Helen Howard.

Dear Madame: Thanks for the pictures. What is Mae Murray's, Alice Calhoun's, Estelle Taylor's and Katy MacDonald's latest? I sure think Betty Ross Clarke has a lovely face, hasn't she? What is George Walsh's address?

Is Molly Malone acting now? What is her next?

Isn't Russell Griffin a talented find of C. C. Burr's?

Do you think Pola and Charley had very much to get mad at? Only because Pola's "Count" wanted to come into a duel with Charley and said Charley was taking his wife away.

Rodolph said in one of the magazines that "his darkest hour was when his mother died in Italy, about two years ago, and he never found it out until after her death." He also said, "his mother and him were very close 'pals'." I wonder if he has had any darker hour since.

When and where was Maryon Aye born?

What is the cast in The Power of a Lie. I think it was played very well by the boy who took Richard Burton's name. Give me his address.

Also, if it is not very much trouble the cast for Evidence, I am going to see it, and would like to know the cast.

What is Irene Castle's release after Slim Shoulders? I will close and remain, Sincerely yours, YOUNG BETTY, Pawnee ity, Neb.

Alice Calhoun's latest is The Man Next Door. Estelle Taylor has a leading role in Children of Jazz. Mae Murray has started production on The French Doll, and Katherine MacDonald's latest is The Lonely Road.

Address George Walsh in care of the Goldwyn Studios, Culver City, Cal.

Molly Malone's latest picture is The Freshie, with Guinn Williams opposite her.

Yes, Russel Griffin is a C. C. Burr star. He's five years old.

Charley and Pola seem to be sailing on smooth waters just at present. Haven't heard of a thing for a week or two, of any "love spats."

Maryon neglects to give me her place of birth. She was born in 1898.

The cast for The Power of a Lie is: John Hammond, David Torrance; Joan Hammond, Maude George; Betty Hammond, Mabel Julienne Scott; Mrs. Hammond, Rube Lafayette; Richard Burton, Earl Metcalf; Little Cardington, June Elvidge; Jeremiah Smith, Phillip Smalley; Mr. Lawrence, Stanton Heck; Junior Hammond, Winston Miller.

The Evidence cast is: Florette, Elaine Hammerstein; Phillip Rowland, Niles Welsh; Judge Rowland, Holmes Herbert; Jeanette, Constance Bennett; Mrs. Bascom, Marie Burke; Louise, Matilda Metevier; Paul Stanley, Ernest Hilliard.

Earl Metcalfe, who took the role of Richard Burton in The Power of a Lie has his letters sent to the Lambs' Club, N. Y.

I have had no announcement of an Irene Castle picture since Slim Shoulders.

TEN YEAR OLD MOVIE FAN: At last I have mailed you a picture of Gloria Swanson, which you so much desired. I hope you like it.

INQUIRER. Mahlon Hamilton played the role of Daddy Long Legs in Mary Pickford's picture by that name.

Dear Movie Editor—Just like all of the rest of the fans, I am coming to you with a few questions.

Can you tell me about Priscilla Dean, Gloria Swanson, Rodolph Valentino and Colleen Moore? I would appreciate all the information you can give me about them.

Also, some time ago I received a very beautiful picture of Ethel Clayton from you, and was very pleased with it, so I am asking you again for a picture I would like one of Rodolph Valentino if you have it.

In regard to the pictures, I do not remember if I paid the postage the last time, but if I did not, I will certainly do it this time.

Thanking you very much, I remain, PEGGY, Crete, Neb.

I would gladly send you a picture of Rodolph if I had it, but since he is no longer starring in motion pictures, I no longer get his pictures. I'm glad you liked the other.

Priscilla Dean, in private life is Mrs. Wheeler Oakman, was born in New York City, where she received her education by private tutors. She played in stock, repertoire and vaudeville for fifteen years, and made her screen debut with the old Biograph company in 1911. "The Virgin of Stamboul" is rated as her best picture. She is five feet four inches tall, weighs 125 and has dark hair and eyes.

Gloria Swanson has dark hair and blue eyes. She was born and educated in Chicago. She made her first screen appearance with the Essanay company in her home town and then went to the Universal company. Mack Sennett spied her and made her a feature player in his old Keystone Comedies. She is now a star in Paramount pictures.

Colleen Moore was born in Port Huron, Mich., twenty-three years ago. She attended the Convent of the Holy Name in Tampa, Fla., and after graduating she became a player in Triangle pictures. She also played in a number of Christie Comedies and is now a feature player in Goldwyn pictures. She is an all-round athlete and spends much of the time off duty in swimming in the ocean near the studio.

Rodolph Valentino, like Mary Pickford, has been described so much that there is really nothing new to tell about him, except the fact that he recently remarried Winifred Hudnut, and is dancing with her as his partner, on the vaudeville stage.

Dear Movie Editor—I have kept still long enough. I will just have to write. What can you tell me of Dorothy Revier? I've seen her twice recently and would like to learn something of her. Also tell me who took the leads in "The Valley of Silent Men." It is a James Oliver Curwood story which I have just finished reading, and we were debating who played in the movie.

I don't believe anyone can take our dear Wally's place and do wish they would show some of his older pictures here again. Personally, I did not care for Wally's later pictures as well as did his more serious ones. I'd love to see "Carmen" again. He stands out more clearly in my mind in that picture than in any, and it has been years since 've seen it.

I can't for the life of me see how they can call Mary Pickford "The Darling of the Screen." She can act, but she can't hold a candle to Norma Talmadge. She only makes a few pictures, because she can't decide on any good enough. She wants to grow up, and she is afraid she won't "win out," and is afraid she can't "fall back in." She wants to eat her pie and still have it.

Recently met a lady who was returning from Hollywood, and she claims Mary's famous curls are a wig, and says it is a well-known fact throughout Hollywood. On Mary's last trip abroad, she had a new wig made in France and this lady said it came out in a sort of a "Tattler" printed in Hollywood.

Our Ruddy was in Omaha Saturday and I'd love to have seen him. I don't see why Lincoln couldn't have brought him here. I know he would make a hit, only perhaps our auditorium isn't large enough to accommodate the crowd that he would draw. I don't belive he will lose any prestige by "dancing the time away" until he can sign a new contract. I'm for him.

Where were the scenes for "The Christian" taken?

I guess I have taken up enough of your space. Thanking you in advance for answering my questions, I am MEG.

So sorry, Meg, that I can furnish you with no information concerning Dorothy Revier. She doesn't tell me a thing about herself.

Alma Rubens played "Marette Radisson" in "The Valley of Silent Men" and Lew Cody played the role of "Corporal James Kent." The picture was filmed in the exact locality in the Canadian Rockies which Mr. Curwood made the scene of his story.

Nor do I think that any other player can fill Wallace Reid's place in the hearts of his fans. I don't think it is possible, anyway, for one person to exactly fill the place of another. There may be others who are as popular as Wally, and perhaps there will spring up new players who are more popular, but there has never been another Harold Lockwood, and there will never be another Wallace Reid.

The scenes for "The Christian' were filmed artly in this country and partly in England. Maurice Tourneur, the director, took his technical staff and the three leading players to England to make the exteriors and part of the interiors, in London, at Cambridge university, at Epsom Downs and on the Isle of Man, where a great deal of the action takes place.

Dear Movie Editor—Three friends went to see the play, "The Beautiful and Damned." I did not see it, and they were telling about it, but could not agree on parts of it. One said that the party at their country home and all the trouble and poverty which followed was only a dream. The others say it was a reality. If there was a dream, will you tell me where it began and where it ended?

And now about a few of my favorites. Have you any pictures of Thomas Meighan? I never hear any scandal about him. Is his press agent lazy, or doen't he care for such publicity? I am rather "finicky" about my favorites.

Can you name any other actor or actress with standards and acting ability of Thomas Meighan. I think if there were more like him, there would be more in favor of movies than there are, because they would be sure of clean wholesome pictures.

HALLY.

I do not recall that the revelry at the country home and the truble and poverty which followed when "Anthony's" grand father overheard the guests and his grandson ridiculing a dream. I am quite sure it was all reality. The story was one showing the consequences of too much luxury and money, and the effect that it has on the character of the "children of the idle rich" when the money is taken away from them. In the story, the one redeeming quality of Anthony and Gloria was the fact that they stayed together through the reverses.

I have no pictures of Thomas now. He is a very likeable man, and has reached the heights without incurring any scandalous publicity. There are other well known and popular players, however, about whom one never hears a breath of scandal. There's Milton Sills, who has a wife and daughter; Bryant Washburn with his wife and three children; Theodore Roberts, Monte Blue, Conrad Nagel, and others.

Dear Movie Editor: It has been some time since I have written to you, but I read your columns every Sunday and I find them very interesting.

Now I want to ask a few questions. Who was the leading man with Constance Talmadge in "East Is West-"

Also, what are the addresses of the following: Monte Blue, Kenneth Harlan, Edith Roberts, Gloria Swanson, Conrad Nagel, Marie Prevost., Herbert Rawlinson and Cullen Landis. Thank you. A MOVIE FAN.

Edward Burns played the role of "Billy Benson" in "East Is West" with Miss Talmadge.

Address Monte Blue, Kenneth Harlan and Marie Prevost in care of Warner Brothers studio, Bronson Ave. and Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Cal. Edith Roberts and Gloria Swanson may be reached at the Lasky studio, Hollywood and Cullen Landis gets his letters at the Goldwyn studio, Culver City, Cal. Conrad Nagel lives at 1846 Cherokee Ave., Los Angeles and Herbert Rawlinson has letters sent in care of Universal at Universal City, Cal.

Dear Movie Editor — Will you please tell me if Ruth Roland is married and to whom?

When will Harold Lloyd be here again? He and Pearl White are my favorites. Thank you,

A NEWCOMER.

Ruth Roland is Mrs. Lionel Kent in private life.

Harold Lloyd's picture "Safety Last' which is here at the Lyric this coming week is his latest, and it will be some time before he has another release. He will have a new leading lady hereafter, Jobyna Ralston.

Screen Siftings

William Fox has purchased the screen rights to Channing Pollock's stage play, "The Fool," which has been making such a hit in New York. Mr. Fox plans to produce the picture on an elaborate scale, devoting at least a year to filming and producing it. The director and his cast have not yet been decided upon.

Dustin Farnum has completed "The Grail," George Scarborough's story, which he made under the direction of Colin Campbell. Peggy Shaw is the feminine lead in the cture.

"PEG O' MY HEART."

Margaret O'Connell (Peg)..... Laurette Taylor.
Sir Gerald Adair (Jerry)..... Mahlon Hamilton.
Jim O'Connell.... Russell Simpson
Ethel Chichester.....Ethel Grey Terry.
Christian Brent.....Nigel Barrie
Hawks ..... Lionel Belmore
Mrs. Chichester.....Vera Lewis
Mrs. Jim O'Connell....Sidna Beth Ivins.
Alaric Chichester.. D. R. O. Hatwell.
Margaret O'Connell (as a child.... Aileen O'Malley
Butler ..... Fred Huntley

There are few people who have not seen Laurette Taylor in the part she created on the legitimate stage, that of 'Peg,' in the famous, and well beloved story of "Peg O' My Heart." And now comes the same favorite Laurette in the same favorite play, only this is the screen version of it.

The story is all about Peg, to be sure, but it also has to do with the O'Connells of Ireland, and the Kingsworths and Chichesters of England.

Peg's mother was a Kingsworth, but she ran off and married a very fervent Irishman by the name of O'Connell, who although he never had any money, loved her devotedly, and made her happy as long as she lived. But when Peg came, the little mother died, and of the love in the Irishman's big heart had to go to Peg, to keep both of them from becoming to down and out. But Peg was a happy little thing, inheriting most of her father's Irish ways, his ready wit, too, and there was very little of the frail English girl about her. Peg was a thing of beauty, and was a joy forever with those who knew her, but when she went to England to live with the Chichesters, she was not sure whether she was all right or wrong.

You see, when Peg's mother was dying, Jim O'Connell had swallowed his pride and had written to the family telling them the circumstances and asking for a little help, but it was refused. The brother, a Kingsworth, on his death bed, repented of the way he had treated his sister, and saw to it that Peg was provided for. However, she was to live with the Chichesters and they were paid for keeping her, although Peg did not know that. But she was very unhappy there, until she met Jerry, Sir Jerry Adair, almost as much Irish as she was. And then, well, you'l just have to see for yourself, for there are so many funny little things that Peg says and does that would be impossible to tell.

"RACING HEARTS."

Virginia Kent..... Agnes Ayres
Rody Smith.....Richard Dix
John Kent .....Theodore Roberts
Fred Claxton .....Robert Cain
Jimmy Britt .....Warren Rogers
Silas Martin .....J. Farrell MacDonald.

Virginia Kent, known as "Ginger" is a firm believer in advertising, and stoutly maintains that the Granada motors, her father's cars, must have publicity if the corporation is to escape bankruptcy. Fred Claxton, general manager of the company, refuses to take sides, and has gained Kent's full confidence.

Ginger is arrested for speeding by Rody Smith, a temporary motorcycle policeman, who is in reality the son of Burton Smith, owner of the Mono Motor comporation. She case is dismissed and Ginger is indignant.

Claxton is a traitor for he calls up Burton Smith and informs him of an extension on some of Kent's notes. Smith tells his son that he may buy the Granada Motors if they are in good shape, and as he cannot trust Claxton, he asks Rodney to get a job in the Granada plant under an assumed name and get the facts he seeks.

Full of the racing car idea, Ginger discovers her father is about to leave town and that he is leaving the plant in charge of Claxton. She writes a letter to Claxton, supposedly from her father, to build a Granada racing car under her supervision. Kent hastily signs all of the letters, including Ginger's and leaves.

Claxton is surprised when Ginger hands him Kent's letter, but nevertheless he has to obey orders. Ginger at once consults Jimmy Britt the master mechanic Greatly pleased at this compliment, Jimmy introduces Ginger to "Tom Jones," whom Ginger instantly recognizes as the motor cop who arrested her. Ginger tells him that he is to build the Granada racer. Rody hesitates, but finally agrees. Claxton has notified Smith that the Granada car is to be built, but Smith treats it as a joke. The day before the grand prize race, the Granada is finished and tested. Also "Tom Jones" and Ginger have fallen in love.

Ginger tries to persuade Roddy to drive the Granada in the race, but he refuses, because he has promised his father he will drive a Mono. Claxton declares that he is going to drive the Granada, and Smith offers him $5,000 for throwing the race. Jimmy Britt, who is to go as mechanician, promises Ginger that he will make Claxton burn up the road.

The day the race arrives, and true ttrue to his word to Smith, Claxton tries to run away, but is caught by Jimmy Britt. Ginger then decides to drive the car herself. Then follows one of the most interesting automobile races that could possibly be seen since those that Wally used to show us.

"THE THIRD ALARM."

Dan McDowell .....Ralph Lewis
Johny McDowell ..Johnnie Walker
June Rutherford ..... Ella Hall
Mother McDowell ..Virginia True Boardman.
Dr. Rutherford ....Richard Morris
Alice McDowell ...Josephine Adair
Little Jimmie .....Frankie Lee

For twenty years Dan McDowell sat on the driver's seat of Engine 27, and urged his three horses on to the flames. Then came the motor apparatus, the horses were sold, as so much junk, and Dan's hands were too old to master the steering wheel. He was a discard, retired at a small pension.

Johnnie, Dan's son, was studying medicine, and to keep him in college required money. Dan, after a weary search, was reduced to digging in the streets. There he meets 'Bullet,' retired fire horse pulling a dirt cart. Man and beast—discarded as useless.

Meanwhile Johnnie finds out about his father's lowly occupation, and immediately leaves college, joining the fire department.

One day Bullet disappears. The contractor who owned him accuses Dan. A search is made and the old horse is found in Dan's barn. Dan is placed in prison, but the next morning, a little newsie tells how he found the old horse wandering about in the street and had placed him in Dan's shed himself.

Dan is freed just in time to hasten to the three alarm fire. On his way he meets Bullet, broken loose at the sound of the fire engines, and following the habit of years was answering the clanging bell.

Arriving at the fire, Dan finds that his son and his sweetheart, June, are imprisoned beneath a pile of debris, and then comes one of the most exciting as well as pathetic climaxes that one could possible imagine in a screen play.

In a little New England town lived John Hammond, a fine big fellow, who was affectionately called "The Village Blacksmith." Under the branches of a giant chestnut tree that stood in the center of the town, John had his shop. A short distance away was the Hammond homestead, where Mrs. Hammond, Bill, the eldest son, Johnnie and Alice led a carefree and contented life with their mother.

Everyone loved John Hammond, and he had only one enemy and that one not of his making. It seems as though the squire and John loved the same girl, and John won her. The squire bore a strong hatred for John ever since that time, and hated all of John's children.

The blacksmith's children were among the most popular that attended the village school. Johnnie, the younger son, was one of the brightest boys in school. Little Rosemary Martin, small daughter of one of Hammond's neighbors, was Johnnie's sweetheart.

Bill, the elder son, was differently constituted from Johnnie. After school was over, if there was nothing to do in his father's shop, Bill would go off with the rest of the boys to the old swimming hole, or partake in some outdoor sport, leaving Johnnie to the care of Alice.

One day, while working outside the blacksmith shop, Bill saw a dog injured by a run away horse. Bill also saw the squire's son run into his home for a shot gun. Bill intervened and stopped the murder of the dumb animal. He picked the dog up and carried him into the office of Dr. Brewster, a kindly soul, who put the dog's injured leg in splints, then Bill took him home.

It was while watching the doctor treat the animal, that Bill decided he wanted to be a great surgeon—from then on Bill had an aim in life and made strides towards it.

But little Johnnie was not so lucky, he had a misfortune that Bill always felt was caused by his negligence, an he determined to devote his life to the younger brother.

But—everything does not work out as we sometimes plan them out nevertheless "The Village Blacksmith" is one of the best pictures to be shown on the screen for sometime.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—I do not know if Robin Hood" was shown in Lincoln or not, but saw it recently in a smaller town. I thought it was very good and Doug Fairbanks is superb in a role like that. I did not get to see the cast of characters, so I wish you would please tell me who the leading characters in it were. I'm very anxious to know who played the part of "Lady Marian." Please tell me all you know about the girl who played that part.

Where was "Robin Hood" filmed? Some of the scenes were gorgeous. I expect it cost an awful lot to make that picture didn't it? What is the name of Doug Fairbank's next picture. I wish he would play in more modern pictures. He is one of my favorites.

I also would like to know how tall are Renee Adores, Barbara Belford, Herbert Raylinson, Marie Prevost?

Are Buck Jones and Hoot Gibson married and are their wives actresses? With many thanks, I remain —BILLIE.

The cast for Douglas Fairbanks in Robinhood Hood is "Richard, the Lion Hearted," "Wallace Beery:" "Prince John," Sam De Grasse; "Lady Mirian Fitzwalter," Enid Bennett; "Sir Guy of Gisbourne," Paul Dicky; "The High Sheriff of Nottingham," William Lowey; "The King's Jester, "Roy Coulson; "Lady Marian's Serving Maid," Billie Bennett; "Henchmen," Merrill McCormick and Wilson Benge "Friar Tuck," Willard Louis; "Little John," Alan Hale; "Alan-a-Dale," Lloyd Talman; "The Earl of Huntington, Robin Hood," Douglas Fairbanks.

Enid Bennett, in private life, is the wife of Fred Nible. She was born in York, Western Australia, and educated at Perth. While she was working in an office at Perth, Fred Nible, who was touring the country with his company, advertised for somebody to take a minor part. Miss Bennett applied and was accepted. Since then she has played important parts on the stage in "The Whip," "The Fortune Hunter" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate." She made her first screen appearance for Famous Players Lasky in "Keys of Righteousness." She is five feet, three inches tall and has golden brown hair and hazel eyes.

The scenes for "Robin Hood" were all filmed in California. It took over six months for the camera work on the picture, and an enormous expenditure of money for the costly set in the scenes. Mr. Fairbanks is working on "The Black Pirate" now, and will do "The Talisman" after that.

Renee Adoree is five feet four inches tall Barbara Bedford's five feet six; Herbert Rawlinson is a six footer, and Marie is five feet four.

Buck Jones is single at the present time. Hoot Gibson is married to a non-professional.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please tell me whose children Pat and Mickey Moore are? Where is Tom Moore and Alice Joyce's child? Was it a boy or girl?

Is the late picture "Shadows," the one that was shown about 1919 with Geraldine Farrar and Lon Chaney in, the same one that is now shoing in Chicago

I am getting anxious to see "Adam Rio" with Milton Sills, "Java Head" with Leatrice Joy, and Freckles Barry in Heroes of the Street." Seems to me Lincoln is always behind the times in getting the late pictures.

How can we get them to show "A Gentleman of Leisure" with Wallace Reid? His director showed very poor judgment in placing him in the last pictures he made. He does not come on in the play till all the rest of the characters are introduced. 'Twas so very evident in "The Ghost Breaker," "Nice People," "Thirty Days" and "Clarence." I was quite surprised when Clarence bobbed up from the wing chair. Had begun to wonder when Wallie would show up. It was a splendid picture; I would like to see it again.

I think from some of the questions in last Sunday, March 11th's mail, that some of your readers are gussing on the Chicago Tribune's movie contest. Well it will soon be over, and we will know who gets the thousand dollars, and the other prizes. I'll wager that most of them are given out in Chicago, eh?

Thanking you for your good movie news, I am sincerely—DINTY.

As I recall the circumstances, Alice Joyce has charge of her child, which is a girl. I don't have the names of the Moore boys.

"Shadows" which is now being shown, is a new picture featuring Lon Chaney, with Marguerite de la Motte as his leading lady. It is a Preferred Picture, direted by Tom Forman from Wilbur Daniel Steels's prize story, "Ching, Ching Chinaman." The old "Shadows" was a Goldwyn picture, with Geraldine Farrar as the star.

If Julian Eltinge and Rudolph Valentino have appeared in a picture together recently, it's news to me. In fact I have no record of their ever appearing together, but they may have before Rodolph became so popular.

None of the pictures you mention seem to be booked here for any immediate showing. They should be here some time in the near future, I should think. I fear there is no way of getting "A Gentleman of Leisure," since it is not released. Wallace's picture, "Forever," is due back here at the Sun, and others will no doubt be shown here again.

Dear Movie Editor: This is the first time I have written, but it probably won't be the last. I want to shower you wth questions about Rodolph Valentino. I don't think he is very beautiful, and anyway, he is a foreigner, but he acts. He doesn't keep the same expression all the time, but is forever giving a different expression. He keeps the action going.

Now for the questions. Where was he born and when? What color of hair and eyes has he? What were the pictures in which he has starred, and who played opposite him? He has been married twice, but I don't remember his wives' names, so tell me that, too. I heard that he is not going to film any more pictures. Is that true? What is the address of hi shome? Will you tell me how to get some of his pictures? A friend of mine has several pictures of him in different costumes and poses. They are about 6x12 inches. Where could I get any like that and how much would they cost? Has he ever played on the stage? Does he have any hobbies and if so, what are they? Well, I guess I've written enough. Thank you. Yours truly, F. F.

I'm sure I hope it will not be your last letter to my department. You are a real admirer of Rudy's, aren't you? He was born in Castellantea, Italy, in 1895. He has black hair and brown eyes and started his stage career via the vaudeville route, with Bonnie Glass and Joan Sawyer. Re also played in musical comedy for two seasons. As a star he only appeared in two pictures, Blood and Sand, in which Lila Lee played opposite him, and the Young Rajah, with Wanda Hawley as his leading lady. He made a hit in The Shiek, with Agnes Ayres as the star, and also with Dorothy Dalton in Moran of the Lady Letty, and Gloria Swanson in Beyond the Rockies. It was The Four Horsemen that gave him his first opportunity as a successful player in motion pictures.

Jean Acker was the first Mrs. Valentino, and Winifred Hudnut is the present lady who signs her name that way. At the present time he is dancing with his wife on the vaudeville circuit. Unless he decides to work for Famous Players-Lasky, it will be some time before we see him in pictures again. You might obtain a picture by writing him in care of Famous Players-Lasky. I don't knew whether they would have any on hand of him now, or not. I have none, and probably won't have until he returns to the screen. Where did your friend get hers? Perhaps you could get one at the same place. His home was 7139 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles. A letter sent to him at that address would be forwarded. Dancing and motoring are his hobbies, so far as I am able to ascertain.

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

You can be happy no matter what happens if you learn to control your mind—The reverse is also true—Women need not be habitual worriers.

"The more I see of men the better I like my dog," writes one woman in substance — We rather pity her husband, but found some good advice in her letter.

Another woman likes her particular man so well that she is doing a lot of worrying about how to keep him—And thus we have a bit of the endless variety of life in today's Mail.

Not Necessary.

Honestly, it isn't at all necessary for us to worry, women though we be, and natural-born worriers. If we will live up to our own personal standards, keep quiet, think right, keep well-groomed and preserve the right amount of dignity, we can be happy no matter what happens.

The following letter is from one of our prize feminine fretters:

Dear Minerva: I have been married less than a year and I am happy most of the time but sometimes I get so blue at the way in which my husband acts. He is so selfish and unsympathetic. We live far away from my people. And when I feel ill and blue, he just laughs at me and I have no one who will understand and sympathize.

Then too, he seems to want to stay at home all the time. When I suggest going out he goes but I would like to have him think up ways to entertain me as he did before we were married. I just hate to be so old married folks-like when we are so young and newly married.

Another thing that worries me is clothes. I have not yet had to ask for any clothes as I was so well supplied when I married. But this spring I am in need of a few new things and I hate to ask for them. But he has never asked me if I need anything. Don't you think he should?—Alleen.

A. My dear if you are going to start out being a worrier, there is no way to save you from a marital life of fretting. The best man in the world could not please you. But if you get a firm hold on yourself and banish worry from your mind, why really you could be happy whether your husband beat you or left you or was in jail.

Your husband isn't abnormally selfish or unsympathetic. He is just a man and does not understand a woman. You are expecting too much of him. He is relaxing and enjoying contentment, you and his home, after the arduous chase he had no doubt in landing you. The poor man isn't a mind reader. Don't be afraid to mention your wishes and likes and needs. Be practical and sensible. He expects you to.

But of most importance stop worrying. Anyone can get all worried and distraught and muddled and things will get worse and worse. But you can stop it all, simply stop thinking about the mess. Turn your thoughts in a different direction and perhaps buy something new to wear, change your clothes as well as your thoughts, and think deliberately and quietly and remember how short life is and how these outside things do not matter and if you could just control your inner life and thoughts how little anything else could matter. And you will get to a peaceful state and the worries are diminished and vanish and you will soon wonder what you were worrying about.

Doesn't Love Men.

Remorse is the feeling a man has when the bottle is empty or he has tired of the girl, said some clever paragrapher. The following correspondent doesn't credit man with having even that kind of remorse.

Dear Minerva: In answer to why do men marry, I have noticed this: Men don't marry until they find a girl who makes a wedding ring the objective. Some Pumpkinville reformer said that fallen women come from the dance hall. I say fallen women first made the supreme sacrifice for love; thinking to bind him forever. But the man instead of being bound thought it was then time to pass on to the next one. You ought to have heard me laugh when I read what Anxious wrote. He fears his fiancee will make some very crooked move and if he is going to marry her he wants her in all the purity of her womanhood. I think he wants a whole lot.

I knew a bride who was married at high noon. They started from the church on a long motor ride. By five o'clock that evening he had told her so much of his life that she left the car in a village through which they were passing and at 6 o'clock returned to her father. Twenty-four hours later she had started divorce proceedings. She said she had kept herself pure all her life so she could marry a pure man, and not even marriage could force her to contaminate herself like that.

If women held out for purity like men do there would be few men eligible to marry. Men do what they please all their lives but when it comes to marriage they hold out for the best.

Selfish. Well, I guess. The more I live with my own cross, surly, animal-like, growly, husband, the more I hate all men. Thousands of men in this world would be tickled to come home just once and find a clean house, clean children and a good meal cooked, and thousands of others have this and never appreciate it.

They call women the weaker sex, but the burdens and sufferings they bear are unbelievable, things that men would lose their minds trying to bear up under, and would not if they could.

Good for Plato Roth, what he said about that wonderful truth-freighted book "Main Street." I have read it three times.—MRS. A.

A. You have a "the more I see of men the better I like my dog" sort of attitude, for which reason I thank my lucky stars that I am not you.

There is one mighty good sentiment in your letter however. If women held higher standards for their men; if they made sterner demands for clean manhood, they could do much toward the general uplift of mankind.

Would Hold Husband.

Dear Minerva: My husband is very much infatuated with another woman. This I know for a fact, not mere hearsay. Minerva I have done everything to win him back although I will be truthful enough to admit I really must have been lacking to lose him.

Surely the other woman must be more qualified than myself or she could not possibly hold him like she does and seem to have the power to hold. I have begged him, Minerva; I have plead with him; I have quarreled with him. All to no avail. I have even filed papers for a divorce trying to hit the right thing to make him change his ways. We have one little child Minerva and I think that is the only thing that even keeps him in our home at all. We have quite a neat little home and he tells me I am and always have been a wonderful housekeeper. But Minerva I am very plain and have always been very saving. I truly believe the woman with the good, stylish clothes is the one who wins after all. This woman my husband is so wild about is a very striking person.

I have seen them together and have known of them being at dances together all evening. I guess Minerva that is one place I fell down. I always am so jealous when I go to a dance with him. But Minerva, I believe I have done wrong to fuss with him about it because we have had some terrible quarrels over this. But I think I am only driving him that much farther away and making him despise me more. For I believe a man despises his wife to start anything like that in the first place. But do you think I am doing any good to fuss and scold and wear myself out trying to make him quit?

The night he wants to see this woman he just dresses up and goes out and that is almost every night. He tells me he is going to work but I find he does not work. I think he hangs on just because he loves our little girl so much. And Minerva several years ago we lost our little boy and I guess I grieved too much. But I could not help it. I think he becomes tired of coming home to find me in tears. He felt terrible about it too but he told me my grieving would do our boy no good and I was making the living suffer.

So before I realized it I had lost him and it seems I have no attractions to call him back or hold him. I have tried everything and while he is never cross I can plainly see he is disgusted. So Minerva I have a notion just to give him a free rein. Just to let him come and go and never question; it is the only thing I have not resorted to. Maybe if he really thought I at last did not care and he had killed all my love it might make him stop and think.

But I know this does no good, to fuss and scold him because I have tried it for almost a year. Maybe I live too close to my parents, Minerva. They just tell me to come home. And I have gone home a number of times but it seems I just had to go back. He just tries to pacify me a little and will stay home one evening and I think now everything will be fine. But the next night away he goes and so on week after week.

So Minerva with the evidence I have given you please tell me what to do. If you can. And won't you answer this just as soon as possible for I have accepted advice from all my friends, acted upon and my own as well but the results are always the same. Nothing seems to move him toward my side. Please answer me soon.—Jewel.

A. I do firmly believe, as I have often stated, that the wife has more than an even break with the vampiest vamp that ever tried to win another woman's husband for herself. The home ties, the tender memories, the man's innate liking for fair play and shrinking from decided changes, the familiarity and sympathy, of the wife which no other woman equals, are all strong drawing cards.

You are going through a trying crisis in your life. But it is not altogether a singular experience, and the truths learned by other women in like conditions should be of great benefit to you. I know one woman very well who learned that her husband was seeing much of another woman and recognized that his attentions to his own wife were very indifferent and cold. She knew the other woman in the case to be very attractive to men, a skilled, clever, intelligent woman, not merely an empty-headed physically attractive woman. She felt she had a formidable foe to consider. The affair had come unexpectedly as such things do happen, at a time when the wife was kept much at home by small children and by sickness. She had her panicky hours, went through her periods of protestations and tears. All she met was a stone wall of coldness and indifference. She also went through her periods of saying "What is the use of it all," but these passed over as she considered her children and her own love for her husband despite his seeming cruelty.

So she tried the age-old game of attracting the one man through winning the admiration of other men. It wasn't easy for her to do this, for she had led a quiet life and had few opportunities to meet others. But she started out by cultivating an indifference to her husband's interest in the other woman. She fought hard for serenity of mind. And she worked hard to turn her plainness into something of demure beauty. She struggled with her motherly unselfishness and made over an old coat of her own for her daughter's new coat and spent the money saved on herself a new hat. And through more such maneuvers she managed herself a becoming and modish wardrobe such as she had not enjoyed for years. She suggested to a friend that they organize an evening card club, though secretly she had always loathed them. She had difficulty dragging her husband into it, but she succeeded. She used to actually sit up evenings before the party night studying opportunities for repartee and relating witty stories, planning the part she would play. And she played it very well indeed. Her husband saw her in a new light, apart from the drab responsibilities of home with which he had come to associate thoughts of her. They were invited to join a dancing club and they did so, although again it took persuasion he was more interested by this time. Without knowing what had happened he found his interest in the other woman waning. He had so mucch to interest him at home. His wife seemed different.

Finally she succeeded in her undertaking. And after her struggle had taken her well out of her shell she really blamed herself much for the whole affair. "For," she said, "I certainly was not a good companion in those days for my fun-loving gay husband."

This is one woman's experience. I believe you will at least better conditions by ceasing to worry and fret and by trying some of this woman's methods.

Salt Will Help.

Dear Minerva: In reply to "Interested" if she will rub common salt into her scalp about once a week, letting it stay in over night, I don't think she will be bothered any more with her hair falling out. After I had the flu my hair came out in double handfulls. About three applications of salt stopped it falling and now I have such a heavy head of hair that I have trouble getting a hat that isn't too tight. It is so glossy and healthy looking too. EDNA.

Sick Goldfish.

Dear Minerva: Will you kindly ask your readers what they do for their goldfish which are sick. I have tried every remedy I ever heard of, putting them in salt bath, etc. but I am still having very bad luck as I have just lost three beautiful fish. I wish someone would write me in your column who has been observing gold fish and recognizes the first sign of disease in them. What are the signs? The fish I am trying to save today became ill apparently in a day. Does the city water kill the fish when they put a purifier in the water? I have gone to the city library and tried to get information on the care of gold fish and find very little there in that connection. A READER.

WESLEYAN NOTES.

Students in the home economics department have organized a club which plans to meet twice a month. The first officers are: President, Miss Naomi Mougey, Union; vice president, Miss Helen Rise, Torrington, Wyo.; treasurer, Miss Anna Gessell, Beatrice; secretary, Miss Dora Alles, University Place.

Miss Dee of Lincoln will address the club at its next meeting on the Palmer school.
